'FRIENDS OF PEACE' OFFICER

STIRS BROOKLYN AUDIENCE

Mitchel Calls On Voters to Meet This "German Attack from Within."

SHOWS A LETTERHEAD

Name of Judge Hylan Appears as the Society's Honorary Vice Chairman.

Mayor Mitchel in a speech at Erasmus Hall, Brooklyn, last night, in which he asserted he was speaking as an American citizen and not as a candidate, directly accused John F. Hylan, Tammany candidate for Mayor, of aiding and abetting the pro-German propaganda in this country; of being the associate of the paid agents of Germany in this country; of being publicly allied with men whose disloyalty to America has been officially denounced by the United States Government, meaning Cohalan, Devoy and O'Leary; of aiding in an effort to alienate this country from those nations which are now our allies, and of membership in a society which in convention applauded the sinking, without warning, of an American merchant ship.

The Mayor's accusations came at the end of a speech in which he produced a photographic copy of a letterhead of the "Friends of Peace" Society, on which the name of John T. Hylan appeared as Honorary Vice Chairman. The letter "T," it was explained, was a typographical error on the original letterhead. The letterhead shows that other Honorary Vice Chairmen of the Friends of Peace Cociety include Dr. Edmund von Mach, Joseph Frey, Congressman Richard Bartholdt of St. Louis, Frank Buchanan, Henry Weismann, James K. McGuire, former Governor O. B. Colquitt of Texas, John Devoy, Justice Daniel F. Cohalan and Jeremiah O'Leary.

Included Many Peace Societies.

On the letetrhead is also a list of the societies which comprised the Friends of Peace, including the American Truth Society, the American Independence Union, and the German-American Alliance. The Mayor told at length how Henry Weismann, President of the German-American National Alliance of New York, and Albert Sander, a confessed German spy now serving a two-year sentence in Atlanta Penitentiary, had combined in June, 1915, all the organizations into the Friends of Peace Society, how it took New York offices at 150 Nassau Street upon the recommendation of Victor Ridder; how at a convention in Chicago in September, 1915, the members present cheered the announcement of the sinking of the American liner Hesperian, and how Theodore Sutro, then President of Hearst's Deutsches Journal, announced the receipt of a letter from William R. Hearst stating that he would do all in his power to aid the society.

The Mayor's speech came as the climax of the numerous statements he has issued daily calling upon Judge Hylan to state why he is being supported by Mr. Hearst and the Ridders. In concluding his speech, the Mayor said:

"As an American citizen, and not as a candidate, I now solemnly call upon the great loyal citizenship of New York to protect their city and their country. I call upon them to meet this German attack from within as firmly and as loyally as their armies are meeting the German attack upon the battlefield. I call upon them to prove to Hearst, Hylan, and the Hohenzollern that New York is still an American city."

Knew Little of Hylan.

"At the outset of this campaign I declared upon the steps of the City Hall that I would make the fight against Hearst, Hylan, and the Hohenzollern. I stated that what led me to enter this campaign was the imperative necessity of keeping from the city treasury the plundering hand of Murphy and of keeping the city Government free from the domination of enemy sympathizers.

"At that time there were thousands of loyal Americans in this city who did not realize the import of this declaration. They had little knowledge of the forces behind the candidacy of Judge Hylan. They had less knowledge of the record of Judge Hylan himself.

"Since that time two facts have been driven home to the city. First, that Judge Hylan is the candidate of William Randolph Hearst, the spokesman of the Kaiser in this country; and, secondly, that Judge Hylan is not personally fitted for the office of Mayor, but was selected solely because of his willingness to obey the orders of those behind him.

"For the past four days I have publicly addressed two questions to Mr. Hearst and Judge Hylan. I have asked them to make public the reason that Mr.

Summary of Mayor Mitchel's Accusations Against Judge Hylan and Plea to New York Voters

I accuse John F. Hylan of being the associate of the paid agents of Germany in this country.

I accuse John F. Hylan of securing the political and personal support of William Randolph Hearst by joining with Hearst in the cult of disloyalty.

I accuse John F. Hylan of being publicly allied with men whose disloyalty to America has been officially denounced by the United States Government—Cohalan, Devoy, and O'Leary.

I accuse John F. Hylan of aiding in an effort to alienate this country from those nations which are now our allies.

I accuse John F. Hylan of membership in a society which in convention applauded the sinking without warning of a peaceful American ship.

As an American citizen, and not as a candidate, I now solemnly call upon the great loyal citizenship of New York to protect their city and their country. I call upon them to meet this German attack from within as firmly and as loyally as their armies are meeting the German attack upon the battlefield.

I call upon them to prove to Hearst, Hylan, and the Hohenzollren that New York is still an American city.

"First I Ever Heard of It," Says Hylan, Denouncing Mitchel.

When Mayor Mitchel's charges were repeated in substance to Judge Hylan, who was speaking in Queens, last night the Democratic nominee dictated the following statement:

The use of my name in its present association and significance is a dastardly eleventh-hour attempt by Mr. Mitchel in his effort to prove that all opposed to him are traitors and to distract the voters from the issues of this campaign.

No one has ever had the right to use my name for any purpose hostile to the interest of my country. I now distinctly say and solemnly avow that I am informed for the first time and by Mayor Mitchel alone of the existence of the letterhead of the Friends of Peace with my name upon it.

I know nothing of this society and its propaganda.

What I do know is that, as vile and ignoble as has been the Mayor's attempt to hide the corruption of his official acts behind the flag, he has tonight outdone himself in mendacity and indecency.

Defeated, exposed, dishonored, he has sunk tonight below the respect of every man who cherishes truth and manliness.

I have sought up to the present to avoid personal denunciation. I am now compelled to declare that Mr. Mitchel's calumnies, based solely upon an alleged letterhead containing what purports to be my name, are the last refuge of a scoundrel seeking political gain by the vilest slanders.

Forgery is not beyond a man who will aid a conspiracy to rob the public and divert to the profit of his intimate friends funds which are public trusts.

BARS WATERFRONT TO ALL GERMANS

Under New Rule None May Live or Work Within Half-Mile Zone in Brooklyn or Richmond.

ALL PERMITS ARE ANNULLED

Warehouse Fires Probable Reason—Arrest for All Who Disobey—Police to Give Aid.

A drastic regulation for the control of enemy alien movements on the Brooklyn and Staten Island waterfronts, which supersedes all previous rules and which will require the immediate discharge of every German subject employed in any capacity within one-half mile of the waterfronts of those boroughs, goes into effect at 12 o'clock tonight. Permits granted to Germans permitting them to reside or work within the waterfront zones become void under the new order, and these persons must not only give up their present jobs but must seek new homes beyond the limits of the prohibited areas. It is estimated that between 1,000 and 2,000 Germans are employed along the Brooklyn waterfront and probably 500 more on Staten Island.

While it was not officially announced that the new rule was promulgated as a result of recent fires along the Brooklyn waterfront, there is every reason to believe that these fires, one of which destroyed thousands of bushels of wheat destined for the Allies, led to the order. Also recently a man believed to be a German was discovered on a Government vessel, and evidence is said to be in the possession of the Government that he plotted to destroy the ship with a bomb. Other suspicious incidents have been brought to the attention of the authorities.

To every shipbuilding firm, every warehouse company, and every other concern doing business within half a mile of the Brooklyn and Staten Island waterfronts the following letter was delivered yesterday by deputy marshals from the office of James M. Power, United States Marshal for the Eastern District of New York:

The Marshal's Letter.

New York, Oct. 30.

Sir: You will please take notice that on and after Nov. 1, 1917, no German aliens will be allowed to work or visit the waterfront in the Eastern District of New York. This rule effects all German aliens, regardless of whether they have alien permits or not. A representative of this office and agents of the Department of Justice will visit the docks from time to time after this date, and all enemy aliens found will be immediately apprehended and removed to a place of internment. I send this notice to you so that you may have time to make such arrangements as are necessary in the discharging of German aliens in your employ. Respectfully,

JAMES M. POWER,
U. S. Marshal, Eastern District New York.

More than forty firms engaged in shipbuilding, ship repairing, and other enterprises in Brooklyn received the notice yesterday.

BARE BERLIN PLOT TO RULE IN BRAZIL

PLAN FOR 'REORGANIZATION'

Envoy Asked for U-Boats to Impress Republics—Told of Political Aims.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Count Luxburg, the German Chargé d'Affaires at Buenos Aires, now dismissed, whose intercepted telegram to the German Foreign Office, sent through the Swedish Minister to Argentina, disclosed the Germany policy of "spurlos versenkt"—the sinking of merchant ships without leaving a trace—came again into the limelight today when Secretary Lansing gave to the press another Luxburg dispatch to the German Government showing that Germany contemplated obtaining a foothold in Brazil.

The German plot to violate the Monroe Doctrine through consolidating German settlements in the province of Rio Grande do Sul has been long suspected, but it took the indiscreet Luxburg to confirm the suspicion.

Secretary Lansing's disclosure took the form of two telegrams sent by Count Luxburg to the Foreign Office at Berlin from Buenos Aires. The Secretary's hand was forced in a measure by the statement of the Brazilian Minister for Foreign Affairs this week, that Germany had been caught in a plot to invade Brazil. While the two Luxburg telegrams do not fully sustain the statements made by the Brazilian Minister, they show that if Germany should win the war she would turn her attention to the Western Hemisphere with a view to obtaining a hold there, with its consequent menace to the United States. That danger is still present and, in the opinion of officials, furnishes a potent reason for the most thorough American participation in the war.

Text of Luxburg Dispatches.

Secretary Lansing's announcement follows:

In view of the fact that the substance of certain telegrams addressed by Count Luxburg to the German Foreign Office has been published, the Secretary of State makes public the actual text of the telegrams:

No. 63. July 7, 1917.—Our attitude toward Brazil has created the impression here that our easy-going good-nature can be counted on. This is dangerous in South America where the people under thin veneer are Indians. A submarine squadron with full powers to me might probably still save the situation. I request instructions as to whether after a rupture of relations legation is to start for home or to remove to Paraguay or possibly Chile. The Naval Attaché will doubtless go to Santiago de Chile. LUXBURG.

$5,000,000 Loss in Baltimore Pier Fire; Arson Supected in Blaze of Allies' Supplies

BALTIMORE, Wednesday, Oct. 31.—The most disastrous fire on the Baltimore waterfront for years started just before 11 o'clock last night at Baltimore & Ohio Pier 9, Locust Point, destroyed that pier, the old Immigration Building adjoining, and, within an hour, had spread to Pier No. 8. At 1 o'clock the water end of Pier No. 8 was burning fiercely.

At that time also, a British steamer, which tied up at the pier this afternoon, took fire, and the eighty antisubmarine shells in her magazine were exploding, endangering the lives of firemen. The ship sank later, and four of her crew are missing.

It is believed that the total loss will reach $5,000,000, of which $1,500,000 represents the piers; $3,000,000 the material stored on them, and $500,000 the steamer cargo.

Vice President J. M. Davis of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad stated that the fire was of incendiary origin. The flames started in five parts of the buildings almost simultaneously.

Piers 8 and 9 were stored with vast quantities of munitions and supplies for the American forces in France and their allies. Within ten minutes after the flames were discovered, the entire structure was ablaze.

On one of the piers were cases of shells which exploded at intervals, leading to rumors that the Fire Department was using dynamite to check the spread of the fire.

The Baltimore & Ohio grain elevators, containing grain for the Allies, are but a short distance from the burned piers, which are the main terminal in this country for the Furness-Withy English line of steamers. Pier 8 was the former North German Lloyd Line pier. The two piers, which are destroyed, cost about $1,000,000 each.

Secret Service men are investigating rumors that suspicious-looking men were seen hurrying away a few minutes after the fire was discovered by a policeman.

HERTLING CHOSEN TO BE CHANCELLOR

CONSULTS PARTY LEADERS

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 30, (British Admiralty, per Wireless Press.)—Count George F. von Hertling, the Bavarian Prime Minister, has been appointed Imperial German Chancellor.

Former Chancellor Michaelis has been named Prime Minister of Prussia.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent, telegraphing at 1:55 o'clock this afternoon, sends the following:

"Berlin advices say that Count von Hertling conferred yesterday and today with the leaders of the Reichstag parties. The Parliamentary correspondent of the Centrist Party says that as far as can be seen at present the parties are sympathetic to von Hertling's Chancellorship, but there is some difficulty, not connected with his personality, in the way of his taking office. This correspondent adds that it is understood von Hertling's definite acceptance of the Chancellorship depends on the removal of these difficulties."

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 30.—Perhaps nobody in Germany at present entertains such bitter hatred toward England as does Count von Hertling. He has never been at any pains during the war to conceal that animosity. Von Hertling was one of the chief advocates of unrestricted U-boat warfare. He is a firm believer in annexation, which, of course, he terms, as he did in a speech delivered no longer ago than Tuesday of last week, "securing the safety of Germany's frontiers." In February of this year, he said:

"We have won all we want. From Germany's point of view there is no reason why the war should continue."

He advocates a German political and economic protectorate over Belgium and is of the Kühlmann "no, never" school regarding Alsace-Lorraine.

On the question of parliamentary government he stands with the extreme Pan Germans. Only last week he said: "The German Government is not autocratic and the experiences of the last three years have not shown that the democratic system is preferable."

If von Hertling as Chancellor shows no more grip on things than the latest happenings in the Bavarian Parliament demonstrate he has in his own kingdom, we may look for another crisis at an early date.

The German papers report that in the Bavarian Landtag recently the Finance Minister, Dr. von Breunig, in a discussion of post and railway affairs, accused von Seidlein, Minister of Communications, of putting the interests of his department above those of the State. Dr. Müller Meiningen, Liberal, who is also a member of the Reichstag, severely criticised the Ministry for its lack of unity, and said von Seidlein's appointment was a misfortune for the Bavarian Government.

Count von Hertling, in reply, said he had called the Ministry together on the previous day to settle the differences, thus admitting he had only just heard of a matter of long standing. He said that differences of opinion existed in every Ministry in the world, and it was always a good thing to prevent them from becoming known to the public generally. Defending von Seidlein, he said emphatically that the Ministry was not on party lines, and made the extraordinary confession that when he appointed von Seidlein he not only did not know the appointee's politics, but had never met him and knew him only merely by name.

Baron Haller, Socialist, strongly attacked von Hertling, saying that he had brought up the matter in dispute and had referred to the Ministerial differences a year before in an open sitting of Parliament, yet on the previous day Hertling appeared to know nothing of them. "What a remarkable Ministry!" exclaimed Haller, who expressed astonishment that the Premier had appointed a Minister of whose existence he had been practically unaware. The Ministry, Haller added, was not in a position to serve the interests of Bavaria.

The Liberals and Socialists, at least, have no great liking for Hertling, and his pronounced opposition to Parliamentary Government will scarcely prove likely to endear him to the parties of the left in the Reichstag. It will be remembered that after the retirement of von Bethmann Hollweg and before the post of Chancellor was offered to Michaelis, when the Kaiser wished von Hertling to take that position he refused on account of his age.

Faces New Reform Demands.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 30.—The National Liberal press fully approves the program of reforms recently adopted by the Reichstag majority parties. The Berlin Boersen Courier says it will not be difficult for the new Chancellor to recognize this new program, and that

INDIANA SERGEANT FIRED FIRST SHOT

Gunner From South Bend Sent America's Opening Shell Into the German Lines.

ARTILLERY BUSY SINCE

Lieutenant of Signal Corps, Hit by Shell Splinter, Is First American Wounded.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 30.—The first Americans to establish contact with the Germans today are bathing in the mud of Eastern France. They are continually under fire and constantly have their guns on the enemy.

American shells have been hurled into German territory and they have exploded near the enemy line. On a hill to the right of the explosions, con- of mud are to be seen.

An American officer is looking out on the scene through his field glasses. He is trying to see what damage has been done by the artillery to the enemy and his barbed wire entanglements.

Closer to the enemy in the first-line trenches is the infantry, with the shells of both American and German guns whizzing over their heads. The men are rubber-booted and ponchoed. Rain, mixed with snow, pelts their helmets. No clothing is able to withstand the wind-driven drops of rain and snow, but gunners and infantrymen, although they are wet, are satisfied, feeling that the honor of having been the first Americans in action is more than sufficient recompense for their discomfort.

The correspondent reached the American position after a long motor ride through shell-battered towns. Leaving the motor in one of the towns, he walked the rest of the way. Motor cars attract the eyes of the Germans, and they are likely to drop a half dozen shells in the direction in which any machine is seen.

Battery Is Well Concealed.

The first American battery was almost walked upon before it was discovered. It was well hidden under the trees and with foliage spread about it on a low-hung wire netting. Under the net water dripped steadily. Some of the gunners were digging another pit in the mud alonside their hidden gun. Through the foliage in every direction the ground was undulating.

There was a flash of flame through the mist. It was the crack of a .75 gun, and following it closely came the noise of the shell rushing through the air, becoming fainter and fainter as the projectile sped on its way to the German position over the crest of a hill further away.

Sergeant Fired First Shot.

A Lieutenant from Georgia emerged. He was the officer who directed the first shot. He led the way down the slippery, muddy hill to a dugout covered with sandbags and logs. There was met a Lieutenant from Indiana of the same battery who directed the first eighteen shots of the war fired by Americans against Germany.

On the other side of the hill was found the first gun fired. The muddy gunners were hard at work cleaning their gun.

"This was the first gun fired in the war," said the jaunty Lieutenant. "The Sergeant inside the pit fired it."

Looking into the pit, the Lieutenant said:

"Sergeant, where are you from?"

"I'm from South Bend, Ind."

"Are you Irish?" asked the Lieutenant.

"No, Sir," the Sergeant laughingly replied.

Guns Begin Hot Work.

At this time orders came for this gun and others of the battery placed in nearby hills in sight and sound of each other to begin firing. The first gun on the farthest hill went off with a roar, and a faint stream of smoke was blown backward from the pit. Inside the pit in which the correspondent stood a voice shouted out the range figures and the Lieutenant repeated them. A voice inside the pit a moment later yelled that the gunner was ready to fire. The Lieutenant gave the command to the gunners: "Watch your bubble."

The Lieutenant, who was standing on a pile of mud which had been removed from the pit, cautioned those about him to place their fingers in their ears. This was done and the Lieutenant shouted the word, "Fire!"

The gun barked quickly, the noise being followed by a metallic clank as the shell case was ejected and the gun was made ready for the next load.

The Lieutenant told the correspondent the story of the first shot of the war, punctuating the narrative throughout with the orders, "Ready to fire" and "Fire," which each time were followed by the report of the gun and the whizz of the shell.

Dragged Their Own Gun.

"We came up the night before," said the Lieutenant, "and got into position in a driving rain. No horses had ar-

TEUTONS TAKE UDINE AND STILL PUSH ON; ITALIANS CUT BRIDGES TO DELAY ADVANCE; AMERICA GIVES ITALY $230,000,000 CREDIT

British and French Airmen Assail Metz Outposts, Bombarding Five Points on Railways North and East

LONDON, Oct. 30.—"Twelve British machines today attacked Pirmasens, twenty miles beyond Saarbrucken, Germany," says an official statement issued tonight on aerial operations. "Bombs were seen to burst on factories and gas works with excellent results.

"Last night British machines bombed the railway station and lines around Saarbrucken."

PARIS, Oct. 30.—"The railway stations at Maizères-lez-Metz, Longeville-lez-Metz, and Thionville were bombed with 7,000 kilos of projectiles," says the official statement of the French War Office tonight in describing aerial activities. "A great fire broke out in the Maizières station."

These air raids by British and French squadrons represent an attack upon the rail communications of Metz, the great German fortress. Thionville and Maizières are fifteen miles and six miles north of Metz, while Longeville is twenty-one miles due east of Metz and Saarbrucken is thirty-three miles from Metz in the same direction. Pirmasens is about fifteen miles east of Saarbrucken.

The new raids show a shift from the valley of the Rhine, where, in the first two weeks of October, Stuttgart, Carlsruhe, Heidelberg, Coblenz, and even Essen, with the Krupp gun works, were bombarded.

PUTS A VAST SUM TO ITALY'S CREDIT

Washington Grants $230,000,000 and Expedites 100,000-Ton Shipping Allotment.

HAS FAITH IN CADORNA

But Experts Recognize Danger of Another Austro-German Thrust from the North.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The American Government rallied strongly to the support of Italy by taking definite and effective steps to support that country in the military crisis precipitated by the German invasion.

A financial credit of $230,000,000 was granted to the Government of Italy by the Government of the United States. The size of this credit, which is to be utilized in the purchase of coal, foodstuffs, munitions, and other needed supplies, is the most tangible evidence of the confidence the American Government reposes in the ability of the Italian Government and people to weather ultimately the storm that has been sweeping across the Valley of the Isonzo, bringing about the collapse of the military front in that region.

In its effort to be of immediate service to Italy the Government, however, did not stop at the granting of this huge credit. Measures were adopted by which the Italian Government is to obtain the first 100,000 tons of shipping that becomes available for use in shipment of coal, fuel, supplies and foodstuffs, as well as munitions.

Preference was granted to the Italians over the French in this allotment of shipping. The Italians, as a result, will have the almost immediate use of twenty-five vessels averaging 4,000 tons each, the first two of which will be available tomorrow.

By rendering this assistance the United States has placed itself in direct alignment with the Paris and London Governments in endeavoring to supply immediate tangible aid to the Italian Government and people. The Italian Embassy has notified the Government at Rome of the steps taken, and there is every reason for believing that this help will inspire the Italian people to unite behind their Government until the unsettled military situation in the Venetian plains finds its balance, and the forces of General Cadorna, aided by British and French guns and soldiers, are able to make a stand that will, it is hoped, check the German invasion and mark the beginning of ultimate Italian and Entente victory.

Largest Grant Yet Made to Italy.

The credit of $230,000,000 thus granted to Italy is the largest financial allotment the United States has made in favor of that country, and brings the total war credit given by this country to Italy to $485,000,000. At the same time it raises the total war credit by the United States to all the Allies to the stupendous sum of $3,001,400,000.

The granting of the credit followed long-distance telephone conversations between Washington officials with Secretary McAdoo, who is at White Sulphur Springs, West Va., and resulted in the Secretary giving telephone instructions to Treasury officials to make the new credit to Italy immediately available.

The granting of preferential treatment to the Italian Government in the matter of ocean transport for the immediate movement to Italy of supplies to be bought with this credit is counted upon to hearten the Italian civil population by assuring them food to tide them over the Winter. Several weeks ago the United States Shipping Board, after conferences between Federal officials and French and Italian representatives, decided to place 285,000 tons of shipping at the disposal of France and 100,000 at that of Italy. But at that time it was decided that France should have the preference with respect to the use of the allotted tonnage. France was to obtain her quota first.

Under the arrangement it appeared

INVASION CEMENTS ITALIAN UNITY

ORLANDO IS NOW PREMIER

Forms His Cabinet with Sonnino Retaining the Post of Foreign Minister.

ROME, Oct. 30.—King Victor Emmanuel today received Professor Vittorio Orlando, Minister of the Interior in the Boselli Government, who agreed to undertake the formation of a Cabinet and took the oath as Premier.

The Cabinet has been constituted as follows:

Minister of Foreign Affairs—Baron SONNINO.
Minister of the Colonies—Signor COLOSIMO.
Minister of Justice—Signor SACCHI.
Minister of Finance—Signor MEDA.
Minister of the Treasury—FRANCESCO NITTI.
Minister of War—General ALFIERI.
Minister of Munitions—General ALFREDO DALLOLIO.
Minister of Education—Signor BARENINI.
Minister of Public Works—Signor BARI.
Minister of Agriculture—Signor MILIANI.
Minister of Commerce and Labor—Signor GIUFELLI.
Minister of Posts—Signor FARA.
Minister of Transports—Signor BIANCHI.

The wiping out of party differences and the strengthening of Italy's morale in the face of the present military effort by the Austro-German coalition are exemplified in the statements issued by two of the political parties, the Catholics and the official Socialists. No party sentiment must be recognized in this time of trial, these statements declare.

One effect of the participation of German troops in the offensive has been the elimination of the few remaining sympathizers with Germany, together with the arousing of the fighting spirit to a marked degree among Italians in general.

General Cadorna's bulletins are causing the nation to realize that it is facing a severe trial, but the press reflects a spirit of determination on the part of the people that the loss of the fruits of victory won in the past shall be but temporary. The enemy's rapid gains of the last six days are regarded as having been due not so much to superior force as to the element of surprise.

According to the Giornale d'Italia, no decisive battle has yet been fought, although one is expected to develop. Such a battle, it is predicted, will be on a large scale and involve wide movements in the open field, in the old-fashioned style.

The Italian retreat, according to the Messaggero, is being accomplished in good order, with the artillery saved or destroyed and stores and magazines burned.

The Messaggero also says that the Germans are making a mistake if they think to terrorize the Italians politically by this effort and "convert the country into another Russia." It asserts that every revolutionary idea to make a lame peace has disappeared, and that the whole nation will fight until a just and lasting peace has been won.

Express Confidence in Orlando.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—As far as the news here can be trusted the effect of the Italian defeat has been to consolidate the national spirit. Orlando, the new Premier, is regarded as a vigorous man, well suited to unite all sections in defense of the fatherland. The Clericals appear to be rallying to the national cause, and all sections except the extreme Socialists are sinking their differences.

Reinforcements from the British and French armies are considered quite as important from the political as from the military point of view. The best judges say there is nothing in the military situation itself to give cause for de-

CARNIA FRONT YIELDING

Vienna Reports Italian Collapse Near Ploecken—British Heavy Guns Saved.

BERLIN, Oct. 30, (via London.)—Udine, the former General Italian Headquarters, has been occupied by Austro-German forces, German Army Headquarters announced today.

The official statement reports that the Austrians and Germans are pressing forward irresistibly in the northern Italian plain toward the Tagliamento River, and that Austro-German troops, advancing from the Carnic Alps, have reached Italian soil on the whole front and are marching toward the upper course of the Tagliamento.

The text of the statement follows:

Udine has been taken by allied troops of the Fourteenth Army. The former seat of the Italian main army administration consequently has fallen into our hands on the sixth day of the successful operations.

Indifferent to the demands upon them, our divisions are pressing irresistibly forward in the plain toward the course of the Tagliamento. The retirement of the defeated enemy army is being stemmed at the few crossings of the [Isonzo?] river, which is greatly swollen by downpours of rain.

Our troops, advancing out of the Carnic Alps, have set foot on Venetian soil along the entire front, and are pressing forward against the upper course of the Tagliamento.

The supplementary night report from Army Headquarters says:

"In Italy progress is being made."

Italians Retreat in Carnic Alps.

VIENNA, Oct. 30, (British Admiralty per Wireless Press.)—The Austro-Hungarian official communication issued today reports the collapse of the Italian Carnia front on the most important sectors. The text of the communication follows:

The Italian Carnia front has collapsed on the most important sectors. During a snowstorm our troops wrested from the enemy frontier positions which he had built up during two and a half years southwest of Tarvis, near Pontafel, in the Ploecken region, and on St. Pal.

The material captured in the twelfth Isonzo battle exceeds by far the booty which fell into our hands as a result of our Galician and Polish Summer offensive in 1915.

Retreat Continues, Rome Says.

The Italians destroyed bridges over the Isonzo and fought rearguard actions, by which means they retarded the Austro-German advance.

The official announcement follows:

During yesterday the withdrawal of our troops on their new positions was continued. Destruction of the bridges over the Isonzo, effectuated by our troops, and the successful action of our covering units have detained the advance of the enemy.

Our cavalry is in contact with the hostile vanguards.

British Batteries Saved.

ITALIAN HEADQUARTERS, Monday, Oct. 29.—After three days with the retiring Italian army, The Associated Press correspondent, who has just arrived at headquarters, is able to state that all the British batteries have been saved. The men suffered much from cold, torrential rain and hunger during the retreat.

As to the general situation of the Italian army in its retreat, the correspondent, who has been in the thick of the retirement, is prevented from giving details by military necessity.

Last May the British War Office announced that British heavy artillery was co-operating with the Italians on the Julian front.

Says the Italian Carso Line Holds.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The Milan correspondent of The Times, in a dispatch filed on Sunday, refers to the breaking of the Italian line at certain points where the Germans carried on no heavy preliminary bombardments, and says that on the Carso, to the contrary, not one of the innumerable attacks has given an inch of ground to the enemy.

"The troops on the Carso," he writes, "have already passed through hell and beyond."

No details have yet arrived of the results of the fighting for Monte Nero, in the northern sector of the Isonzo front. The correspondent says the fighting there from the first hour of attack has been as glorious an epic as the winning of the mountain positions in 1915.

Emperor Carl Enters Gorizia.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 30.—A dispatch received here from Vienna says:

"The Austrian Emperor entered Gorizia yesterday. The enemy destroyed or plundered a large part of the city and carried off the population."

EXPECT ALLIES TO SEND MEN.

London Papers Generally Look for Concrete Aid for Italy.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Satisfaction with the decision of Great Britain and France to help the Italians is expressed by most of the morning newspapers, which again urge that whatever assistance is possible must be given without delay. There is, of course, no certain indication of the exact form this help will take, but the general assumption seems to be that concrete reinforcements contributed by Great Britain and France will appear on the Italian front.

The Morning Post, however, contends that the best way of helping Italy is to keep hammering the Germans on the western front. It adds:

"A German victory over the Italians will not help them if we keep striking hard in Flanders. It is a maxim in war never to allow the strategy to be diverted to the enemy, and every move of our enemy now is to attempt to create a diversion from the western front."

Taking the view that the German success is due partly to treachery, and that the Germans are using the same tools in Italy as those with which the Russian armies were betrayed. The Post continues:

"Let our statesmen awake and counter these activities. This may be of even more service than any military aid we can render."

The paper, nevertheless, assumes that such military aid as can be given without weakening the pressure on the western front also will be furnished, and urges the Italians to hold on until succor arrives.

While some commentators today take a somewhat gloomy view of the situation, others believe that the Italians will recover, and that the Germans will not gain any permanent advantage. The Daily Express says:

"Germany has made a gambler's move and won the first coup. That's all. We may wait and see what will happen without misgiving."

The Daily Telegraph, while fearing that the German claim to have shaken the whole Italian front is justified, is persuaded that the perilous situation will inspire the defenders to a greater determination. It adds:

"Because the enemy has succeeded in effecting a surprise, there is no reason to suppose that he will be as successful in the plains or before strong positions like the Tagliamento. * * * General Cadorna will know how to counter the present violent attacks, and to snatch victory out of the jaws of danger. There is no reason for despair."

The Daily Chronicle infers that General Cadorna has decided to abandon Udine and withdraw to the line of the Tagliamento River. It says:

"It is a decision of bold prudence, which ought to have its reward. * * * The enemy's advance will be handicapped in a manner which will be felt before long. On the other hand, it is to be feared the German claim that the whole Isonzo front has collapsed is to a great extent well founded. When a whole front falls to pieces in the manner witnessed on the Isonzo, it is very difficult to reconstitute it in the face of a pressing pursuit on a great scale. * * *

"There can be no question that the whole mountain front in Carnia may soon be imperiled. In short, the Allies are confronted with a very dangerous situation, of which we may be seeing only the beginnings."

CALLS INVASION "PEACEFUL."

Vorwaerts Says Italian Drive Does Not Contemplate Conquest.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 30.—The Austro-German offensive against Italy, according to the Berlin Vorwärts, was not undertaken in an aggressive spirit with the object of conquest, but solely to bring peace nearer.

JOYFUL OVER UDINE'S FALL.

Vienna and Berlin Get Imperial Orders to Display Flags.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—News of the capture of Udine evoked great enthusiasm in Berlin and Vienna, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company. Orders were issued that flags be flown, and Emperor William and Emperor Charles exchanged congratulatory telegrams.

OFFSET TO ITALY'S REVERSES.

London Paper Says Germans Have Yet to Reckon with America.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Commenting on the advent of American soldiers in the trenches, The Post says:

"Were the German success in Italy or in other theatres to become much greater than the Allies consider probable, the Germans would still have to reckon with the fresh, eager, stern forces of America. It would seem that Germany is putting forth her utmost efforts during the interval which must elapse before the weight of the United States can be brought to bear upon her weak and decimated battalions. * * *

"If we assume for the sake of argument that Germany can conclude a peace advantageous to herself before the United States can intervene, it is still to be remembered that America is pledged to break the military power of Germany, and make no peace with the Hohenzollerns."

spair. The Italian Army has always been considered well able to hold a defensive line. The utmost confidence is felt in Cadorna's ability as a strategist, while the undulating country of the plain of Northern Italy, with many deep valleys, provides excellent opportunities for defense.

Vittorio Emanuele Orlando, the Minister of the Interior of the late Boselli Cabinet, although recognized as one of the most subtle statesmen in Italy, had already, because of the portfolio he held, provoked three crises in the Government, the last of which has carried him into the Premiership.

Usually the portfolio of the Interior is held by the Premier—it was so in Giolitti's time and thereby placed within his gift the appointment of the sixty-nine Prefects or provincial governers, through whom he practically ruled Italy.

Orlando began his career as a Sicilian lawyer, and as Deputy from Palermo was early discovered by Giolitti; but he broke with the "big boss," as did many others, when Italy entered the war.

From 1903 to 1905 he was Minister of Education in the second Giolitti Ministry. His term was chiefly of interest to Americans through his negotiations with Professor Charles Waldstein in regard to the excavations of Herculaneum. Again, under Giolitti he was Minister of Justice between 1907 and 1909, and for the last three years he has sat in War Cabinets under Signor Salandra, again in the capacity of Minister of Justice, and finally as Minister of the Interior under Boselli.

No statesman in the present war has survived a larger amount of criticism. The first Cabinet crisis arose through charges that he and the Prefects had been too lenient with the Socialists and pacifists. Thereupon he had a house-cleaning and dismissed several Prefects, together with his favorite secretary, Commendatore Corradini, and the Chief of the Secret Police, Commendatore Vigiliani—all men of doubtful energy in the eyes of the war party.

This satisfied the interventionists; then complaint and even charges came from the pacifists, directed by Giolitti, and the Socialists, led by Lazzari. Amid this criticism the third crisis was brought about—over lack of food supplies—which has placed the Sicilian lawyer, for the time, at least, on top.

NAMES AID IN BUREAU FOR ALIEN PROPERTY

Palmer Appoints J. L. Davis of St. Louis—President Vests Powers in Custodian.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—J. Lienberger Davis of St. Louis, President of the Chamber of Commerce of that city and Vice President of the St. Louis Union Trust Company, was appointed today managing director of the Alien Property Bureau, by A. Mitchell Palmer, custodian. It is understood that a St. Louis man and a trust official was selected for this place because of the large amount of work this bureau will have in Missouri, which is filled with Germans.

Mr. Davis is about 40 years old, a lawyer and entirely familiar with the duties which will devolve upon him. He is a graduate of Princeton University. He will organize the bureau at once, and it is estimated that within two weeks the entire force of lawyers and trust officials will be appointed.

President Wilson today issued this executive order vesting powers and authority in the Alien Property Custodian:

"By virtue of the authority vested in me by 'An Act to Define, Regulate, and Punish Trading with the Enemy,' approved Oct. 6, 1917, I hereby make and establish the following order:

"1. I hereby fix the salary of the Alien Property Custodian heretofore appointed at the sum of $5,000 per annum. I direct that said Alien Property Custodian shall give a bond in the amount of $100,000, with security to be approved by the Attorney General, and which bond shall be conditioned to well and faithfully hold, administer, and account for all money and property in the United States due or belonging to an enemy or ally of enemy, or otherwise, which may be paid, conveyed, transferred, assigned, or delivered to said custodian under the provisions of the Trading with the Enemy act.

"2. I hereby authorize and empower the Alien Property Custodian to employ and appoint in the manner provided in the Trading with the Enemy act in the District of Columbia and elsewhere, and to fix the compensation of such clerks, attorneys, investigators, accountants, and other employes as he may find necessary for the due administration of the powers conferred on such Alien Property Custodian by law or by any order of the President heretofore or hereafter made.

"3. I hereby vest in the Alien Property Custodian the executive administration of the provisions of Section 12 of the Trading with the Enemy act pertaining to the designation of a depositary or depositaries, and requiring all such designated depositaries to execute and file bonds and prescribing the form, amount, and security thereof. And I authorize and empower the Alien Property Custodian to designate any bank or banks, or trust company, or trust companies, or other suitable depositary or depositaries located and doing business in the United States as the depositary or depositaries with which said Alien Property Custodian may deposit any stocks, bonds, notes, time drafts, time bills of exchange, or other securities or property (except money or checks, or drafts payable on demand) of an enemy or ally of enemy, and to prescribe the bond or bonds and the form, amount, and security thereof, which shall be given by said depositary or depositaries.

"4. The following sums, or so much thereof as may be necessary, are hereby allotted out of the funds appropriated by the Trading with the Enemy act to the following named officers:

To the Alien Property Custodian..	$100,000
To the Federal Trade Commission.	25,000
To the Secretary of the Treasury.	15,000
To the War Trade Board..........	25,000 to be expended in the administration of the powers vested respectively in them by law or by any order heretofore or hereafter made by me.

"5. The powers and authority herein vested in said Alien Property Custodian are in addition to the powers and authority vested in said Alien Property Custodian by the Executive order of Oct. 12, 1917.

SAYS RUSSIA STANDS FIRMLY WITH ALLIES

Foreign Minister Terestchenko Warns the Preliminary Parliament of Peace Schemes.

GERMAN HOPE IN DIVISION

Radical Terms Proposed by Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates Are Rejected.

PETROGRAD, Monday, Oct. 29, (via London, Oct. 30.)—Foreign Minister Terestchenko, in addressing the preliminary Parliament today, said that a separate peace was impossible, and that defense of Russian territory was one of the fundamental needs.

The Foreign Minister said the absolute independence of Courland, and perhaps of Poland and Lithuania, was impossible, as it would mean that Russia would return to the days before Peter. He also asserted that complete demobilization and disarmament and neutralization of canals and straits were impossible. Russia's foreign policy had not changed, the Minister continued, since the first statement enunciating the principle of no indemnities, no annexations, and the right of nations to self-definition.

"The people must understand that the war is being carried on not by Governments but by nations," he said. "As the nations began the fighting, so they must end it. Russia and France first held back the foes, and so they continue."

M. Terestchenko said that the offers for a separate peace and the sentiment in favor of them were strongest last May, when they were followed by the Russian offensive.

Says Allies Stand by Russia.

"There is a rumor that the Allies wished to leave Russia to her fate," the Foreign Minister continued, "but I state officially that it is untrue.

"Germany's aim is to separate Russia from the Allies, and if possible to do this by peaceful means, in order to use Russia economically afterward. While the other nations at war are unable to continue civil industry, Germany has been so well organized from the beginning that she has been able to continue her efforts to carry on trade. She looks upon Russia as her market. Therefore the defense of Russian territory is one of the fundamental needs now, for if Germany gets into Russia commercially after the war we shall have no self-definition afterward."

In regard to the forthcoming conference of the Allies at Paris, M. Terestchenko said that Russia should forget politics there and be represented as a nation. He characterized some points in the peace terms of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates as impossible, saying they could not be defended as the nation's terms. It was in this connection that he made his references to Courland, Poland, and Lithuania, and to the impossibility of neutralizing canals and straits and disarming completely.

Predicts More German Offers.

"There never has been more peace talk in Germany and Austria than now," said the Minister. "I am confident Germany was insincere in the reported recent offer for the freedom of Belgium, without the freedom of Alsace-Lorraine, and in the intimation that this would be her last offer. She will make more.

"Germany is now concentrating her efforts to affect her enemies economically. For instance, her attack on Riga was not strategical, but in pursuance of a far-sighted policy of striking at our weakest point, hoping to ruin the economic life of the country.

"Too much importance must not be given to the Italian defeat, as this also is for mere economic effect."

M. Terestchenko's speech was cheered throughout by the Conservatives, but he was heckled more than applauded by the Bolsheviki. The American, British, and Italian Ambassadors were present when the speech was delivered.

rived. I was anxious to get off the first gun, and so were my men. I asked them if they were willing to haul the gun by hand to this place so that we could get the first crack at the Germans. They agreed unanimously, so we set out across the fields until we got over there at the base of that hill you can just see in the haze.

"We had a hard time getting the gun, which we have not named yet, over those shell craters. But we labored for many hours and finally reached the spot. Then I got permission to fire.

"Strictly speaking, the first shot, which was in the nature of a tryout for the gun, simply went into Germany. The Sergeant put a high explosive shell there at 6:15 o'clock in the morning."

Another officer here took up the narrative.

"I was in an observation point," he said. "There was a fog as the first shot went singing over, suddenly the fog lifted and I saw a group of Germans. I directed my gun at them. The shrapnel burst overhead and they took a dive into the ground like so many rabbits."

The Lieutenant grinned broadly, shook the water off his shrapnel helmet and, using both clenched fists to punctuate his remarks, said expressively:

"It was great!"

He paused for a moment, pointed to the field filled with fresh craters, and continued:

"We had a hot time here last night. Fritz tried to get that gun on the hill there and put all those shells behind it. So we all let the Germans have shot for shot. That's the game out here—give them as much as they send."

The gun itself gave visible and audible proof the next second that the Germans did not get it.

Infantry in the Trenches.

From the artillery lines to the infantry trenches was a considerable distance over more muddy hills. The correspondent found the infantry inside the trenches. There were many wires which ran into switchboards and American and French operators were sitting side by side directing operations.

A guide is necessary to reach the first line, especially when some of the trenches resemble irrigation ditches. The trenches which the Americans are occupying begin from a screened position. On the way there shovels and tools were piled high below a hill on which there was a great bell for giving the alarm in case of a gas attack.

Under cover were the company cooks busy warming up food which had been brought up in wagons. The ground was covered with a lattice work of small twigs, so it was fairly dry.

Following the guide, the way winds in and out from rght to left for many yards between interwoven bronches which have been placed on the sides of the trenches. Every now and then a section opens up to a machine gun emplacement.

The American privates in the front splashed through without hesitating, sometimes getting a footing on stepping stones in the muddy water, and sometimes not. The trench turns sharply to the right and a voice warns, "Keep your head down." For the rest of the way the walking is difficult. Halting near a machine gun, the German positions directly opposite on a hill could be seen across the barbed wire of No Man's Land. Lghts appeared in a little town to the left.

There is a sort of gentleman's agreement in this sector that towns over the line are not to be shelled. If one side violates the agreement, the other side promptly fires shell for shell into a hostile town.

The correspondent visiting the American batteries found the mud-caked gunners in cleverly concealed pits on the sides of hills, surrounded everywhere by freshly dug mine craters, showing where the German retaliatory fire had dropped projectiles. It was against this fire that the guns, includng the one which fired the first shot, kept plugging away a good part of the afternoon.

Men of North and South.

The correspondent asked a passing patrol how he liked it. The reply came in a soft Southern accent:

"Fine, but it is wet as hell, isn't it? Virginia would certainly look good."

Another, hearing the conversation chimed in:

Another patrol was leaning against the muddy side of the trench, his hand over the muzzle of his rifle, whistling softly a tune from a Broadway musical comedy.

General Sibert, who has just completed a tour of the trenches, was asked how the morale of the Americans in the trenches was: He replied:

"Morale? How could the morale of Americans be anything but good?"

Troops Full of Enthusiasm.

All the officers remarked on the enthusiasm of the troops and their anxiety to get at the enemy, but they are technically under instruction, so they are restrained. All the men are eager to get on patrol duty, which affords a welcome change.

The American engineers attached to the sector have been very busy. In the wet weather their duty is to repair trenches which have fallen in, and to tackle similar jobs. Aside from one husky Sergeant remarking that he would like to have something more to eat, the only complaint heard was one uttered by a youthful engineer.

He was all alone in a waste and was trying to find his billet. He had difficulty in keeping his feet on account of the slippery mud, and after taking a tumble, turned and said:

"Sherman certainly knew what he was talking about. I'll bet it was muddy like this when he made his famous remark."

The first American wounded in the trenches arrived yesterday at a base hospital. He is a Lieutenant of the Signal Corps. He was hit in the leg by a shell splinter when working in a communication trench near the first line. The wound is slight.

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 30.—The first official report from the American expeditionary forces in France is printed in the German newspapers without any comment, although occasionally sarcastic emphasis is placed in the headlines on the reference to "a quiet sector" of the front.

The American official dispatch is as a rule not included by the newspapers in the general column of enemy war reports, most of the journals endeavoring to adhere to the fiction that the United States is not regarded as a full-fledged member of the group hostile to the Central Powers.

SAYS TRAITORS AID INVADERS.

"Italian Diplomat," in Providence Journal, Tells of Treachery.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 30.—The Providence Journal will publish tomorrow morning an interview with "a leading Italian diplomat now in this country" in which the latter charges that the success of the Austro-German drive is due to the treachery of "one or more high Italian officers."

"The victories of the Italians which gradually cleared the way for a march of thirty-five miles to Laibach," says this diplomat, "have been a source of greater worry to the Germans than all the rest of the allied operations combined. A successful Italian advance to the borders of Austria unchecked would have meant the final elimination of any possibility of the Mittel-Europa dream of Germany, and would have defeated her real ambitions and her real aims in this war. Austria's weakness, which permitted Italy to gradually push her back beyond the Isonzo, started Germany some months ago on a series of operations in Italy itself. She has debauched numbers of our public men, and—I make the statement advisedly—this recent successful attack hurled against a vulnerable and weak part of the Italian line was made on information received through the treachery of one or more high Italian officers who had either been purchased by German gold or influenced by the activities of Vatican agents.

"These agents have been persistently working on the Italian people ever since the United States went to war with Germany, to emphasize the fact that this country had never yet seen fit to declare war against Austria-Hungary, Italy's great and neighboring enemy. The vast majority of the Italian people cannot understand why the United States has failed to take this action when it was patent to the entire world that German and Austrian troops are working as one unit for the same ends which America has declared she will not endure.

"This sentiment, in addition to the knowledge that America, up to date, has done very little in assisting Italy with coal and food supplies, has been cleverly worked on until disaffection and worse exists among certain men in high command in the Italian Army.

that Italy would not receive her 100,000 tons of shipping before the first week in December. Today, in view of her urgent need, it was decided to reverse the order and to make arrangements for the preferential delivery of 100,000 tons of shipping to Italy.

Cabinet Discusses the Crisis.

The Italian situation was considered most carefully at today's session of the Cabinet in the light of the latest information received from Rome, France, and London, including the officially received information that the German invasion had unified the Italian people. It was the consensus of opinion, as a result of this canvass of the situation, that this Government should take prompt measures to aid Italy, and also that definite measures in that direction, including the credit of $230,000,000 be taken by the Government.

Heartened by Italian Unity.

The Italian outlook seemed brighter today when the official advices reached Washington from Rome that there had been a wonderful improvement in the political situation as a result of the support the people were giving their Government and the apparently stern determination of the Italians to stand behind their army in the present crisis. These official advices, which reached both the State Department and the Italian Embassy, were to the effect that the invasion had unified the Italian people and had resulted in a postponement of the Cabinet crisis which was threatened by the unrest of the civil population at the very moment the Austro-German drive began.

Most of the unrest of the civil population was caused by the shortage of food, and Germany, having knowledge of this fact through spies in Italy, was able to time the Venetian invasion so as to make it coincide with the crest of the civilian unrest. Among other things it was undoubtedly hoped by the German Government that the colossal size of the army that was being poured through the passes of the Austro-Italian frontier and the lightning-like swiftness of the blow would not only overwhelm the forces on the Isonzo front but also shatter the morale of the Italian civilian population and result in a demand for separate peace. The Italian Army has not been overwhelmed, according to the best military information reaching Washington, although its whole Isonzo front has collapsed, and the psychological effect of the invasion upon the minds of the Italian civil population has been the reverse of what the Berlin war party contemplated.

Entente interest now centres in the military situation. The decisions reached by this Government respecting the immediate use of money, ships, and supplies are expected to cure the civil unrest and to steady the confidence of the Italian Government and its armies in the stern determination of Italy's allies to grant the greatest possible aid. The decisions reached at London and Paris regarding the dispatch of troops and munitions by rail through the Mount Cenis route into Northern Italy will, it is hoped, steady the morale and inspire the proved fighting qualities of the armies under the command of General Cadorna.

Can Cardona Rally His Troops?

The kernel of the situation tonight is the extent of the ability of the Italians, with Anglo-French aid, to stem the tide of the Austro-German onrush. That Cadorna and the forces operating under his command are making a desperate effort to extricate as much as possible of the Italian Army from a most difficult situation and then establish and co-ordinate the forces in the strongest available position for a stand against the invaders is evident from Rome, Vienna, and Berlin statements regarding latest developments in the military situation involved in the tactics and strategy employed by the Italians and their assailants.

The Italians are destroying bridges across which they have been withdrawing their forces, have blown up munitions and supplies to prevent their falling into the hands of the enemy, and the afternoon reports speak of the rear-guard actions fought by Italian cavalrymen in their contacts with the vanguard of the invaders.

Cadorna's present aim is to check the Austro-Germans as much as possible with a view to protecting the long retreat of his Second and Third Armies in the hope that he may re-establish them for trench warfare along the western bank of the Tagliamento River, sixteen miles west of Udine, which has now fallen into the hands of the enemy.

Fall of Udine No Surprise.

The fall of Udine came as no surprise to military experts in Washington. Their familiarity with the situation and their scrutiny of maps of the eastern stretches of the Friulian plain had convinced them, after the capture of Cividale and Gorizia, that the Italians would not be able to save Udine.

Most of the Second Italian Army had been saved before the capture of Gorizia, but the loss of that city seriously threatened the Third Italian Army in the Wippach (Vippaco) Valley and on the Carso Plateau.

The German plan of campaign after the fall of Gorizia contemplates, first, the isolation, and then, if possible, the annihilation or capture of the Third Army, which has for months been hammering the western buttresses of the Corso Plateau. The capture of Gorizia cut off the main route for the Third Army's withdrawal. It is now forced to make a rapid retreat from Austria along the only other open route to safety, that leading through Monfalcone, along the Adriatic Coast toward San Giorgio and Lastiana on the Tagliamento River.

Meanwhile the Second Army has been trying to impede as far as possible the advance of the German forces moving on Udine, with a view to delaying the capture of that city until after the Third Army could reach safer territory west of San Giorgio.

Whether all of the Third Army has been saved has not been disclosed, but it is safe to predict that with the capture of Udine the German advance forces have been thrown out like fan-ribs in four directions.

They are now undoubtedly moving northward from Udine toward Gemona in an effort to check the retreat of the Italian Fourth Army forces from the advanced northern lines of the Carnic Alps region, northwest toward San Daniele with the same object in view, westward toward Carsarsa on the Tagliamento and southward from Udine toward San Giorgio and the coast.

The Tagliamento River marks the line at which Cadorna is expected to make his first real stand after the retreat has been brought to a halt. Whether he will give battle along the west bank of the Tagliamento depends upon the moves of the Germans in this wonderful game of military chess with human beings as pawns on the plains of Venetia.

Fear of a Northern Drive.

But there is another element of the situation that concerns General Cadorna, according to information reaching Washington, more than the question of his ability to extricate the bulk of his forces and their effecting their coordination along the Tagliamento. This other element deals with a threatened danger from the north, the extent to which the Germans may be moving other forces through Ploecken and other passes of the Carnic Alps, or through the Dolomites, immediately to the west of the Carnics, with a view to flanking the prospective Italian stand along the Tagliamento.

There have been significant signs of dangerous German military activity in and the region of the Ploecken Pass, north of Tolmezzo. Should these movements prove to be powerfully executed, bringing new streams of Germans from the north, the Tagliamento River line of defense will have to be abandoned by the Italians in favor of some other line further west. The next important river west of the Tagliamento is the Livenza, a winding stream, from five to ten miles away, but the abandonment of the Tagliamento to the enemy would probably cause General Cadorna to make his stand somewhere in the vicinity of the Piava River, in defense of Treviso, and especially to safeguard Venice, the capture of which would be the severest kind of blow.

Discuss a Trentino Offensive.

More important still in the attempt that is being made to visualize the possibilities of the situation, and especially of its dangers, is the defense of the routes leading from the Trentino into Italy, the River Adige route, over which tourists once traveled in droves between Verona and Tyrol. This is the Munich-Verona route, which leads through Innsbruck, through Tyrol and the Trentino toward the great art and industrial centres of Northern Italy. It is the most direct route between Bavaria and Germany into Italy, the shortest and quickest line of communication between German supply bases and arsenals, and any large German force operating in Northern Italy.

To date there have been no other evidences of possible German military activity along the Tyrol-Trentino route with Italy as an objective than the closing of the Austro-Swiss frontier. But the possibility of a German thrust from that direction is being considered by military experts here and cannot be missing from the calculations of General Cadorna. The driving through the Trentino of as strong a German wedge as the one which has just split the Isonzo front would probably force Cadorna to carry his retreating armies far west of the prospective Tagliamento line.

It is not surprising, even should the German plans contemplate such a movement, that evidences of it have not yet been disclosed. At this stage of the campaign the situation does not call for such a movement in force. The German invaders of Eastern Venetia, it is believed, would have to find their own bearings and pick up more strategic points, establishing their control more firmly in the Udine-Tagliamento country, before the German General Staff would consider it timely to disclose its intentions respecting the use of the Munich-Verona route as part of the campaign.

Verona and the Italian banks of the Adige between that town and the Trentino border are defended by a network of permanent Italian forts. There are also Italian permanent fortifications studding the border of the Trentino, from Mount Lessin to Mount Piavona, intended to check any advance toward Verona, Vicenza, Cittadella, Castelfranco, and Treviso—the chief points on the main rail route from Verona to Venice. Nevertheless, the possibility of another surprise blow from the direction of the Trentino is being seriously considered.

Industrial Centres Menaced.

Italy's greatest industrial centres are in the north, and the ability of the German invaders to spread their tentacles over any wide stretch of that region would prove a blow from which it would be difficult, if not impossible, for the country to recover. It would not only cripple Italy industrially, but the possession of these centres would be almost as important for Germany as is that country's possession of those of Belgium and the French coal mines east of Verdun.

The exigencies of the Italian situation are regarded by some observers here as disclosing and emphasizing the importance of the creation by the Entente Allies of some central form of international General Staff for the rest of the war. Much has been said about the appeals of Italy to the Entente and to this country for assistance during the last few months, and there is some chagrin in Entente military circles here that the dangers lurking in the upper valleys of the Isonzo were not detected and guarded against sufficiently before this invasion began.

The plans of the Germans were completely misgauged. There had been reports of the movement of German reinforcements to the Italian front, and intimations of an offensive, but even the highest officials appear to have been taken completely off their guard. It was apparently inconceivable to official minds, both in this country and among prominent Entente leaders, that Germany had either the man-power or the striking ability to deliver such a blow as the Italians have just received.

No longer ago than the 9th of the present month, scarcely twenty days ago, the French High Commission in Washington issued a 1,000-word statement for the purpose of illustrating its conviction that German man-power was failing. This statement was issued with the explanation that it was based on official data of the French General Staff, and went into what was considered an elaborate analysis of German military man-power.

"Germany has made her supreme military effort," this official statement asserted. "After the formation of twenty-seven (new) divisions Germany had intended to create ten more divisions with the regiments of the series 601-602. Not only has she been obliged to abandon the latter part of her program, in spite of calling out a portion of the class of 1919, but she has been obliged to break up several newly formed regiments to reinforce her fighting units, and, for the first time since the beginning of the war, a clear decrease in the total strength of the German forces is in record. At the very time that her total strength is diminishing, Germany finds herself obliged to increase her reserves on the French front to forty divisions, with the sole aim of providing relay and resistance.

"Therefore, just as the offensive strength of the Germans has been broken in the open field on the Marne and Yser, and in the trench warfare at Verdun, her facilities for manoeuvring—that is to say, the possibility of transporting valuable reserves from one front to another—is prevented at present by the continuity and intensity of the Anglo-French offensive. Germany has still great powers of resistance, which will take all the allied forces to break. She is capable of executing very rigorous local offensives. But her resources are diminishing at the very moment when the military situation requires that they should increase. That is the principal point."

This and other official allusions to the inability of the German military forces to undertake important movements of men from front to front, or to deliver important offensive blows, read rather strangely in the light of what has just happened and is continuing to happen.

Come down, Mr. Hylan, and give us FACTS!

Can BUNK win against FACTS?

The Fusion Government asks re-election because of its Four Years' Record of FACTS.

Those Facts stamp it as the most humane, the cleanest, the strongest that New York ever had.

The facts:—

—that the "Vice Trust," the "Red Lights" and the "Cadets" that preyed on young girls, have been cleaned out;

—that the death rate is the lowest in New York's history;

—that fire losses are smaller by millions of dollars;

—that the streets are cleaner than ever before;

—that Charity has been humanized;

—that when war was declared, New York was prepared.

Mitchel—our clear-headed, fighting, able-to-answer-questions Mayor—is responsible for this.

Against that, what do we hear?

BUNK!

BUNK that talks generalities and never faces facts.

BUNK of "invisible government" and "foundations" and "Rockefellers." This kind of Bunk from Tammany, run by the multi-millionaire Murphy from his private room at Delmonico's and his estate at Good Ground.

BUNK and more BUNK from Murphy's candidate, Hylan, in canned speeches.

Will the public stand for this? No! They want FACTS.

What they want is Hylan's record. They want his answers to the following accusations:—

—that Hylan was a business associate of Goslin, the swindler and jailbird;

—that Hylan while running for Municipal Judge accepted checks from this swindler;

—that Hylan wrote a letter to Goslin thanking him for "your interest in my behalf";

—that Hylan charged a cousin of his wife $2280 for collecting a judgment of $3780.

To these and other accusations made against Mr. Hylan the voters of New York want definite answers.

Today he is ducking and pussy-footing. He is making half explanations, or having them made for him by men of shady reputations. That won't do!

BRITISH GAIN GRIP ON PASSCHENDAELE

Captured the Village, Says Berlin, Which Insists Foe Was Then Expelled.

OBJECTIVES WON, SAYS HAIG

STRUCK NEAR DAYBREAK

Crest Farm Was Quickly Taken and Captured Guns Were Turned on the Foe.

BERLIN, Oct. 30, (via London.)—Passchendaele Village, on the Flanders front, was captured by the British, according to the official announcement tonight, but the statement adds that later they were driven out.

The bulletin reads:

The drumfire on the front in Flanders this morning was followed by strong English attacks on Passchendaele. The village was lost, but in vigorous counterattacks we drove out the enemy.

Near Bheluvelt attacks made by the English early in the morning and during the afternoon broke down, with sanguinary losses.

The day report says of Flanders operations:

Western Theatre, Army of Crown Prince Rupprecht.—In Flanders the artillery activity was lively, with short interruptions, in the Dixmude sector.

Between the Houthulst Wood and the Comines-Ypres Canal the artillery duel of yesterday reached great intensity at times. It continued violently during the night and increased this morning to drumfire.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The British troops in Flanders carried out successful operations today. The Canadian troops gained all their objectives on the Passchendaele Ridge and beat off five hostile counterattacks.

An Associated Press correspondent with the British Army in Belgium telegraphs:

"Field Marshal Haig this morning struck another daring and successful blow at the redoubtable German defenses on the Passchendaele Ridge and on the Bellevue Spur, which juts out from it.

"The attack was launched at 5:55 o'clock, and at an early hour the Canadian troops had swept forward along the Passchendaele elevation and had taken their stand in the neighborhood of the Crest Farm, which is only about 400 yards from the heart of Passchendaele. North of here the overseas men had fought their way along the Bellevue spur (known also as the Meetcheele spur) for a distance of several hundred yards, and repulsed heavy German counterattacks delivered from Masselmarkt.

"German machine guns which had just been captured at Crest Farm assisted in repulsing this counterattack by pouring an enfilading fire into the advancing ranks.

"Further north British troops were pushing out along the front that extends to a point near Poelcapelle, but no news has been received from this operation, the greater portion of which was being conducted over terribly marshy ground, especially along the Lekkerboterbeek."

The night report from Haig's headquarters reads:

Successful operations with limited objectives were carried out by us early this morning against German positions between the Ypres-Roulers Railway and the Poelcapelle-Westroosebeke road. In spite of the marshy nature of the ground on the greater part of the front attacked and notwithstanding heavy rain and gales, which made communication with our troops extremely difficult, important progress has been made.

On the right of the attack, in spite of fierce opposition, the Canadian troops gained all their objectives on the main ridge and have reached the outskirts of Passchendaele. The fighting was most severe on the spur west of the village, where five hostile counterattacks were beaten off by our troops. Captured German machine guns were used effectively in repulsing these attacks.

On the left of our attack, where the ground is lowlying and intersected by flooded streams, the going was particularly bad. Nevertheless, naval and London territorial battalions captured a number of farms and strong points after heavy fighting.

Gloucester trops successfully raided the enemy's trenches last night southeast of Gavrelle. Another successful raid, in which nineteen prisoners were taken, was carried out by the Belgian troops south of Dixmude.

The day report reads:

At 5:45 o'clock this morning we attacked north of the Ypres-Roulers Railroad. Our troops are reported to be making good progress.

A Reuter correspondent at British Headquarters telegraphs:

"The Germans have been driven back in places to a depth of nearly 1,000 yards in today's British drive on the Ypres front.

"The principal fighting is taking place toward the outskirts of Passchendaele and in the region of Poelcappelle. The British are reported to have fought their way along several important spurs of the great system of ridges."

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Oct. 30.—Canadian troops apparently have captured Meetchele, the enemy's last stronghold in front of Passchendaele.

The fighting was unusually bitter and after a temporary check on the right wing, the Canadian forces battled their way up the slopes and gained a foothold on Crest farm, from which the movement against Meetchele was directed.

CHECK GERMANS ON AISNE.

French Also Recapture Ground Lost on the Verdun Front.

PARIS, Oct. 30.—A German attack on the Aisne front near Cerny was repulsed last night by the French, the War Office announces.

Lively artillery fighting occurred today on the Aisne and Verdun fronts.

The statement reads:

South of St. Quentin we made a successful attack on the German lines, bringing back prisoners and a machine gun.

There were artillery engagements near Chavignon and Pargny-Filain. Patrols were active in the region of the canal. A strong enemy detachment which attempted to approach our lines in the region of Cerny was repulsed with losses.

On the right bank of the Meuse (Verdun front) heavy artillery fighting continued in the sector between Chaume Wood and Bézonvaux. We recaptured further trench elements on the Caurières crest. Everywhere else the night was calm.

Last night enemy aviators bombarded Nancy and the region north of the city. One person was wounded. The damage was insignificant.

The official communication issued by the War Office tonight reads:

There was quite lively artillery fighting in the sector of Braye-en-Loannois-Hurtebise and on the left bank of the Meuse.

Northwest of Rheims at the end of the day a surprise attack on a German trench west of Brimont, enabed us to inflict serious losses on the enemy and bring back a score of prisoners and material.

In the night of Oct. 29 German airplanes bombarded Dunkirk and Calais without causing any casualties among the populace. The same night several bombs were dropped on Belfort; two persons were wounded, one of them a woman and one a child. This afternoon St. Dié likewise was bombarded and one person was wounded. Four German airplanes were brought down by our pilots and twelve were compelled to land in a damaged condition.

BERLIN, Oct. 30, (via London.)—The official communication regarding the situation on the Verdun front says that the Germans captured 1,200 meters of trenches northwest of Bézonvaux and maintained them against four counterattacks.

The text of the statement follows:

Army of the German Crown Prince.—On both sides of Braye and on the Chemin des Dames the French toward evening concentrated their fire, which reached powerful proportions. Then, after a temporary diminution, the artillery duel again increased at daybreak. On the other sectors of the Mont front the activity of the artillery was greater than at any time recently.

On the right bank of the Meuse, after effective artillery preparations, our trusted fighting troops forced their way into enemy positions northwest of Bézonvaux. The trenches which were captured over a depth of 1,200 metres were maintained against four attacks by strong French forces, which were repeated until after nightfall. More than 200 prisoners were brought in. The enemy suffered heavy losses.

The day report reads:

There has been a lively artillery duel on the Chemin des Dames and also on the east bank of the Meuse.

VICTORY CROWNS WEEKS OF FIGHTING

Domination of the Plains Assured to British if They Can Hold Positions Just Won.

BY PHILIP GIBBS.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

WAR CORESPONDENT'S HEADQUARTERS, Oct. 30.—Following up the capture of Bellevue spur on Friday, the Canadians attacked again this morning on both sides of Ravebeek, working up from Bellevue to the top of Meetschede spur on the left, and gaining ground in the region of Crest Farm, on the right of the main ridge of Passchendaele. If this ground can be held, (and the taking is sometimes nos so hard as the holding,) almost the last heights of Passchendaele Ridge are within our grasp and all the desperate fighting of the last three months or more of great assaults on the ridges by the English, Irish, Australian, New Zealand, and Canadian troops through bogs and marshes in the low ground, against concrete blockhouses and a great number of machine guns, agains tmasses of the finest German troops, fighting every yard of the way and against incredible bad luck with the weather, even as far back as August, will have given them dominating ground in Rlanders, overlooking the plans below.

Crest Farm on a knoll below the village of Passchendaele is the outer fort of Passchendaele itself. The capture of Crest Farm exposes greater fortresses under the ragged ruins, which stick up like ranges on the side line of the ridge. Without Crest Farm Passchendaele was unapproachable, but in order to take or hold it the Australians found it desirable that Bellevue and Meetcheels should be won. Both heights seem to have been taken this morning by the Canadians.

As usual yesterday the enemy shelled heavily over the neighborhood of the British tracks and back of the battle zone to hinder the getting up of supplies and in the night he sent out his air squadron to bomb the country about Ypres and try to play hell generally behind the British lines. British airmen were about in the night too. It was a night of the full moon and many tons of explosive were dropped over enemy dumps and batteries and routes of march.

The weatherwise, who had been gloomy souls for some weeks, and no wonder, predicted heavy rain before the night was out, and a rising gale of wind. They were right, about the wind. It came howling across the sea and flats from somewhere in the west of Ireland, but it veered to east later in the night, and the rain held off until after midday. By that time the British attack had gone away and gained ground, and it is in their new positions that the Canadians and other British troops are now suffering from the foul storm with cold rain slashing upon them.

Some of the Canadians say the enemy started to barrage before the British artillery gave the signal to attack by combined fire; five minutes before the start they say, the hostile shell fire burst over them. The men get this fancy sometimes when there is no truth in it but it may have been true. They all agree that the German "S. O. S." flared up instantly the attack was begun and that the enemy's gunners answered it without a second's pause. At the same time many machine guns began a sharp tattoo from many hiding places.

In front of some Canadian troops there were a number of fanged tree stumps, called by the sylvan name of Friesland Copse. They expected one or two machine guns there, but found a nest of them. It was a hornets' nest, not easily routed out. The German machine gunners kept up a steady stream of bullets across their field of fire and the Canadians suffered in trying to rush the place. Small parties of them assaulted it with grim courage, and when they fell or took cover in shell holes, others made their way forward, trying to get round the flanks of the position. It was in that way, finally, that they made their last close dash upon the emplacements and destroyed them. Some of the German gunners surrendered here, but not many. Hard and fierce was the fighting at close quarters.

HERTLING CHOSEN TO BE CHANCELLOR

The Conservatives are already starting a campaign against the proposed new suffrage bill, as anticipated. Vorwärts publishes a letter from a Conservative member of the Prussian Landtag to the "Junker firebrand,' "von Heydebrand, imploring him to start an agitation throughout the country and to find a basis for suffrage, making the secret ballot less dangerous. The writer pleads that the "old Prussia" must be saved. He proceeds to tell von Heydebrand that he is the man to try to arrange a rapprochement with the National Liberals and Centrists and friendly relations with the other majority factions.

Socialists Firm in Opposition.

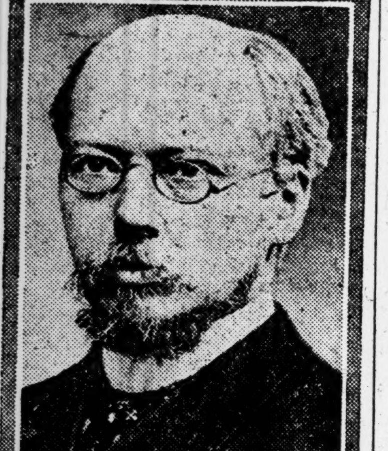
COPENHAGEN, Oct. 30.—The Socialist organ Vorwärts of Berlin says that Count von Hertling's opposition to parliamentarism and to the erection of Alsace-Lorraine into an autonomous Federal State make it impossible for the majority of the parties in the Reichstag to support him.

On Saturday and Sunday Emperor William received in audience a considerable number of personages, presumably to inform himself on the political situation. It is evident that the Emperor no longer trusts exclusively to the judgment of von Valentini, chief of his civil cabinet, who is charged with keeping in touch with the trend of political opinion in Germany and informing the Emperor in regard to it. No members of the Reichstag were received by the Emperor, who is carefully guarding the surface attributes of his prerogative of making and unmaking Ministers without consulting the representatives of the people.

HERTLING LONG IN PUBLIC LIFE

Has Been Premier at Munich Five Years—Urged Alsace Partition.

The appointment of Count von Hertling as Imperial Chancellor has been talked of for several months. In the political manipulations of July, when von Bethmann Hollweg was forced out and was eventually succeeded by Georg Michaelis, Hertling was often mentioned as a probable candidate for the Chancellorship. The activities of the Bavarian Catholics in the Reichstag, who formed a large part of the support of Mathias Erzberger in his movement for a moderate peace, were connected by observers of German politics with von Hertling's attitude, as the head of the Bavarian Government and a statesman entrusted with the confidence of Vienna.



Count George F. von Hertling.

Whatever the reasons that led to the experiment with Michaelis, it is clear that for several months the desirability of entrusting the chief post in the German civil Government to von Hertling has been before the minds of the Kaiser and the military leaders, who apparently are still the real power in Germany. This is an indication of Prussia's determination to conciliate Bavaria as often as necessary, in order to obtain her steadfast support against the minor States of the empire, particularly Saxony, whose attitude has given some cause for concern during the last few months.

Von Hertling has been known as strongly opposed to the idea of a Chancellor responsible to Parliament. This opposition is based on his fear that such a development would weaken the federative principle in the Empire and with it the exceptional rights which the Federal Constitution confers on Bavaria.

Further indication of the disposition of the Imperial authorities to conciliate Bavaria, and of von Hertling's attitude with regard to this, may be found in a speech which he made Oct. 10 in the Main Committee of the Bavarian Lower House. As reported by Reuter, this statement also indicates the extent to which von Hertling's leaning toward a "moderate" peace may extend. In discussing the question of the "disannexation" of Alsace-Lorraine, he expressed himself unmistakably in favor of the division of this Imperial territory, suggested last Spring, between Prussia and Bavaria.

"Of the sacrifice of this German territory," he said, "there can be no talk. In the question of Alsace-Lorraine, Bavaria must represent not Bavarian, but German views. According to Bavarian views the union of Alsace with South Germany and of Lorraine with Prussia would be expedient, but the idea of autonomy is a great mistake, and would not produce any reconciliation with France.

"It is not yet time," he also said, "for Germany to make any declaration with regard to her pawn, Belgium. In all the circumstances she must take care to obtain political and economic guarantees against the future hostility of Belgium, but we must proceed with moderation and with consideration for the wishes of the Belgian people."

Last Spring von Hertling was credited with responsibility for the publication in the Bavarian Staats-Zeitung of an article in which it was set forth that Germany did not need to seek indemnities from her foes, but must insist on the restoration of full commercial privileges.

The Bavarian statesman is 74 years old, and has been unwilling to take the post of Imperial Minister on account of his age. It is perhaps this fact, as well as his continuation up to the moment of his appointment as Chancellor in the post of Bavarian Prime Minister, that is responsible for the very unusual separation of the position of Imperial Chancellor from that of President of the Prussian Council of Ministers.

In the theory of the German Constitution the Chancellor is not only the agent of the Kaiser, but also the head of the Prussian delegation in the Federal Council, the upper and dominant house of he Imperial Legislature. As Chancellor he is the sole plenary Minister of State, appointed by the Kaiser, and dividing with him the functions which the President performs in this country; responsible to the Kaiser alone, and as supreme over the Ministers of Foreign Affairs, Marine, &c., as the President is over the members of his Cabinet.

But he is not only the instrument of the Kaiser, as Kaiser, but also as King of Prussia; and in this capacity he presides over the Prussian Ministry as well as leads the delegation which voices the wish of the King of Prussia in the Federal Council. This combination of powers was invented partly as a natural requirement of the Federal character of the German Constitution, but more to give legal standing to the actual position occupied by Bismarck. Every Chancellor since Bismarck has also held both positions at the outset of his term, though Caprivi, Bismarck's immediate successor, resigned the Presidency of the Prussian Council of Ministers two years before he was dismissed as Chancellor.

In theory the dissociation of the two offices would mean a very great elevation of Bavaria in the affairs of the empire, but there is considerable difference between theory and practice in the German Government just now, and it remains to be seen whether von Hertling will be able to exert any real power contrary to the wishes of Hindenburg and Ludendorff.

This is not the first time a Bavarian has held the Chancellorship. Prince von Hohenlohe, Chancellor from 1894 to 1900, was a Bavarian by birth, and at the time of the unification of the North and South of Germany, in 1871, was Bavarian Premier and a strong influence in bringing the sections of the nation together. He had served in the Prussian Diplomatic Service in his younger days, before the death of an uncle made him heir to a seat in the Bavarian upper house, and after the union he served the empire, not a particular State, as Ambassador and Governor of Alsace-Lorraine. So, though a Bavarian, he was made President of the Prussian Council when he assumed the Chancellorship.

Count von Hertling was born in Darmstadt in 1843. He studied at Muenster, Munich, Berlin, and in Italy, and in 1882 became a Professor of Philosophy at Bonn. He served in the Reichstag from 1875 to 1890 and from 1896 to 1898. In 1912 he was made Bavarian Minister of Foreign Affairs and Prime Minister.

Among his works are "Matter and Form and Aristotle's Definition of the Soul," "The Limits of the Mechanistic Interpretation of Nature," "John Locke and the Cambridge School," "The Principles of Catholicism and Science," and a study of Albertus Magnus.

Almost from the moment of Dr. Georg Michaelis's appointment as Chancellor on July 14 it was freely predicted, both in and out of Germany, that he would not last long. In some quarters it was asserted that he was only a "seat warmer" for some more prominent man presently to be appointed, while others said that his lack of familiarity with parliamentary Government and political manipulation—he had been a Prussian administrative official all his life—would bring about his downfall.

His retirement from the post followed rapidly the revelations made in the Reichstag three weeks ago concerning the German naval mutiny in August. Admiral von Capelle, the Minister of Marine, with the backing of the Chancellor, accused three Socialist Deputies of inciting the mutineers, and this attack upon the Socialists by the head of the Government had the effect of uniting the whole party in open resistance.

The Government failed to follow up the charge with success, the Socialists were angered and stirred to action, and the militaristic elements were furious with the Chancellor for permitting the news of the mutiny to get to the enemies of Germany. It was soon reported that von Capelle had resigned, the understanding being that acceptance of his resignation was linked with the fate of Michaelis. The coalition of Reichstag majority parties soon became aggressive, and notified Potsdam after a caucus that Michaelis was no longer acceptable as Chancellor.

Michaelis was almost unknown to the outside world when he became Chancellor. He was the first commoner to hold that position, and had held his first position of public prominence, that of Prussian Food Controller, for only a few months before his election.

BRITISH WAR OUTLAY $32,070,000 A DAY

Bonar Law, Moving $2,000,000,000 Credit, Predicts German Bankruptcy.

PRAISES OUR FINANCIAL AID

Says It Was Given to Allies While We Were Incurring Bigger Expenditures Than They.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—In a speech before the House of Commons today, in which he announced that the daily expenditures of the British Government from July 22 to Sept. 22 were £6,414,000, (about $32,070,000,) Andrew Bonar Law, Chancellor of the Exchequer, said that lack of money would not prevent the Allies from winning the war, while, if Germany lost it, she would probably be hopelessly bankrupt. He paid tribute to the great financial assistance given the Allies by the United States, remarking that this help had been extended at times when America "was incurring expenditure at a heavier rate than any of the Allies."

The House had before it at today's session the introduction by the Chancellor of the vote of credit for £400,000,000 and one of his periodic statements regarding the finances of the war. The amount which the House is asked to vote is expected to be sufficient to last until the end of the year, when another vote will have to be brought forward. The vote today will bring the total loans for the year to £1,900,000,000 and the total since the beginning of the war to £5,692,000,000.

"From the beginning of the financial year to Sept. 29," the Chancellor said, "the daily average expenditure had been £6,648,000, an increase of £1,237,000 over the budget estimate. The increase was made up under the following heads: Army and navy, £590,000; miscellaneous services, £306,000; advances to the Allies and dominions, £341,000."

In the period from July 22 to Sept. 22, the Chancellor said, the daily average expenditure of Great Britain for war purposes was £6,414,000. He did not, however, wish the House to take too favorable a view of the figures given, but desired to point out that, so far as could be judged, the position in the second half of the year from the point of view of dead weight expenditure would not be quite so favorable as the first half. That was mainly due to the fact that the Government had fixed the price of bread at 9 d., and had decided to increase very largely the pay of the soldiers and sailors. These items would add between £40,000,000 and £50,000,000 to the dead weight expenditures in the second half of the year.

"With regard to the increase in the dead weight expenditure as compared with the budget estimate, namely, £43,500,000, nearly the whole of it is due to increased expenditure by the War Office, which has accounted for £39,000,000, leaving £4,500,000 divided equally between munitions and the navy.

Heavy Expense of Flanders Drive.

"The chief cause of the increase is to be found in the rise of the price of commodities, the extent of the forces we are keeping abroad—the number of men we have abroad has increased since the budget estimate was made; our aviation program, which has accounted for a considerable amount by reason of increased personnel, but not including airplanes, which come under munitions; the larger number of Indian troops in Mesopotamia, and, finally, the forward movement made by our troops in Flanders. This has meant increased expenditure for more railways, bridges, &c. The gap between what was our railway line of communication and the extent of our advance had to be filled by motor transport, the increased pay for this amounting during the half year to £5,000,000.

"On Sept. 29 the national debt stood at £5,000,000,000, but from this sum we are entitled to deduct the amount advanced to our allies and the dominions. This sum in the case of the Allies was £1,100,000,000, and in the case of the dominions £160,000,000. We are also entitled to deduct part of the gift of the Government of India to the empire for the war. The gift amounted to £100,000,000, but of that amount something like £34,000,000 has been treated as revenue. The Indian Government, however, has taken the responsibility for the balance. The total to be deducted, therefore, is £1,326,000,000.

Contrasting the British and German financial positions, Mr. Bonar Law said that votes of credit totaling £4,700,000,000 had been passed by the Reichstag, which did not include advances to Germany's allies nor the expenditure for separation allowances, which were included in Great Britain's votes of credit.

"Our war expenditure, therefore," said the Chancellor, "is £1,700,000 less than Germany's. Germany's increased war taxation has fallen short by £55,000,000 of the interest on her debt. While we cannot bear the strain indefinitely, it will not be want of money that will prevent us from winning the war, because we can bear the strain longer than our enemies."

Praises Our "Generous Assistance."

"I am glad to be able to take this opportunity," said the Chancellor in the course of his speech, "of saying how much reason not only the British but all the allied Governments have for appreciating the very generous way in which the United States Government has come to their assistance in financing purchases in America. It is an open secret that until America came into the war the method of financing our purchases there and the question of exchange were not only serious problems, but, in my opinion, almost insoluble problems.

"The fact that America has given generous assistance at times when she was incurring expenditure at a heavier rate than any of the Allies I believe it my duty publicly to acknowledge."

The House debate through the various stages of the vote on the credits is expected to extend over four days, and a variety of subjects will be discussed. On Thursday Sir Eric Campbell Geddes, First Lord of the Admiralty, will make his first announcement on naval policy.

$1,200,000,000 Spent This Month.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Total October expenditures by the Government have swept past the billion-dollar mark by $43,925,235, and indications are that the grand total for the entire month will approximate $1,200,000,000, of which $470,000,000 is represented by loans to the Allies.

DECLARES JELLICOE IS ON DEFENSIVE NOW

Critic in Northcliffe Paper Says Germans Assumed Offensive with Jutland Fight.

ALLEGES LOSS OF PRESTIGE

"Splendid Achievement" of Foe in Forcing Gulf of Riga Mine Fields as a Lesson.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—The Daily Mail today renews its attack on Admiral Jellicoe, asking editorially what is wrong at the Admiralty. Lord Northcliffe's reference in his St. Louis speech to "a distinguished admiral with whom he disagreed as to the war being won" is taken to indicate that his paper's campaign against the First Sea Lord is undertaken under his instructions.

The Mail prints an article by Professor Spenser Wilkinson, designed to show that Sir John Jellicoe is, as professional head of the Admiralty, not the right man in the right place, inasmuch as what is wanted in his post is a strategist rather than an administrator. In regard to the navy, says Wilkinson, the trouble has been that the First Sea Lord has been both strategical and administrative director of the navy, and Cabinets have usually chosen for the office an administrator rather than a strategist. Professor Wilkinson says the Navy League, in 1894-1895, urged upon the Government that the First Sea Lord be appointed solely in a strategical capacity.

Following Professor Wilkinson's article The Daily Mail prints an anonymous letter from an Admiral, who supports Admiral Henderson's suggestion that the results of the indecisive Jutland battle ought to have been investigated by a court-martial. The unnamed Admiral writes:

"There is a consensus of opinion that from the Jutland action dates a marked change in our naval tactics. Broadly speaking, the offensive has passed to the Germans. The public scarcely needs to be reminded of their sea and air raids to prove this. What we might have done to our enemy has been shown us by his splendid achievement in forcing the mine fields which defended the Gulf of Riga. He lost a battleship and many smaller vessels, but his achievement has gone far to win the war.

"A similar audacious attack with our immensely superior naval force on the mine fields of Skagerrak and Cattegat would have demanded a price, but surely the stake at issue demanded an attempt at what is not an impossibility, besides the prestige which the Germans have gained and we have lost."

Bolivia Sympathizes with Brazil.

LA PAZ, Oct. 30.—The Bolivian Government, replying to a communication from the Brazilian Government announcing that a state of war exists between Germany and Brazil has expressed sentiments of cordiality and sympathy with Brazil.

RAILWAYS STRIPPED OF MEN

Women and Children Do the Work at German Stations.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Oct. 30.—It is learned from a neutral traveler who has just traversed Germany that a striking condition there is the almost entire absence of men at the railway stations.

Women and children, with pale, drawn faces, were doing all the work, with the exception of a few crippled soldiers. Children were seen hauling trucks containing baggage and goods. This is undoubtedly a sign, the traveler believes, that Germany is using every available man for military purposes.

The main reason of the new order reducing civilian traveling and curtailing all military furloughs is undoubtedly a lack of facilities for transportation and for supplying coal, but is also due in part to a lack of employes. Relatives are now requested not to visit soldiers stationed in garrisons. No exceptions are to be made for the Christmas holidays.

BRITISH LOSSES 24,091.

Dead 5,039, Wounded or Missing 19,052 for the Week.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—British casualties reported during the week ended today totaled 24,091. They were divided as follows:

Officers killed or died of wounds, 383; men, 4,656; total, 5,039.

Spell "Tank" with 35 Letters.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Thirty-five letters are required to spell the one word which, in German, is the equivalent of the four-letter English "tank" or land battleship which has worked such havoc in the present war. The German word, as it appears in official dispatches received here, is "Schutzengrabenvernichtaungautomobil," which freely translated is "a machine for suppressing shooting trenches."

Mint Far Behind with Pennies.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—So extraordinary is the demand for one cent pieces that the United States Mint here, despite the fact that it is working twenty-four hours a day, is unable to keep up with the demand. The Superintendent of the Mint said today the institution was 10,000,000 one-cent pieces behind in its orders. An average of 1,500,000 pennies are coined each day.

Knapp Heads State Tax Board.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Governor Whitman announced today that he had appointed Walter H. Knapp of Canandaigua as President of the State Tax Commission to succeed Martin Saxe, resigned. To fill the vacancy caused by the elevation to the Presidency of Mr Knapp, the Governor appointed John J. Merrill, at present head of the Corporation Tax Bureau.

KAISER TO DECLARE POLICY.

Notifies Reichstag Leaders He Will Reach Early Decision.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Berlin dispatches received here by way of Switzerland say that Emperor William, through the head of the Civil Cabinet, has informed the majority party leaders in the Reichstag that he will make a definite decision in the coming week on the subject of the Government's policy.

Manhattan Shirts—Their Secret

WHY do Manhattan Shirts always harmonize so effectively with the current season's clothes?

We know—being the largest distributors of these shirts.

It is because their manufacturers make the same study of metropolitan tendencies—colors and styles in men's clothes—that we make for Weber and Heilbroner suits.

They manufacture most of their shirtings in their own mills—test every yard, and use only the finest, guaranteed fast dyes.

Our assortments are the most extensive in the country — from madras and percales at $1.75 to $4.50, to finest silks, at $6 to $13.50.

STYLE

There is a false idea that mere differentness constitutes style, that cuffs are a matter of caprice, that there is more leeway than law in lapels, and that the geography of a button may be changed as lightly as a Balkan border. We hold these things to be wrong.

We like to think of style as propriety, decorum, appropriateness, and we know absolutely that style in a suit of clothes is a matter of draughtsmanship and technique, and is not achieved by any old deflection of the shears.

A Franklin Simon Garment, designed and hand-tailored by artists, must in the nature of things have more grace, more polish, more distinction in its style than is possible in machine-made clothes.

the modern business man is a reader

J. R. Richardson, Chicago manager of the Hot Point Electric Heating Company, uses the street car in preference to the automobile whenever he can, in order to be able to read. F. F. Ford, manager of the North California Real Estate Company, loads his grip with business literature when he travels. A Milwaukee business man reads in the noon hour. Another chooses night, "when all is quiet and the mind is rested from the work of the day." One man in the rubber business analyzes his reading thus: "One fourth editorial comment, one half efficiency reading, one fourth specific articles about the rubber industry." As diverse types as Hugh Chalmers, Daniel Willard and Hiram Percy Maxim watch the business press carefully. The vice-president of an underwear company utilizes his 22 minutes on the suburban train for study; a San Francisco wholesaler uses the time to and from Oakland; some business men deliberately choose suburban life because it guarantees a fixed if short reading period every day without interruption. Many have regular systems of clipping, re-reading, indexing and excerpting useful articles.

These are a few of many hundreds of facts collected by SYSTEM, the Magazine of Business, in investigating the remarkable spread of business reading.

MAYOR SAYS HYLAN IS ALLY OF GERMANS

Hearst is now engaged in a desperate attempt to elect Judge Hylan. I have asked them why the Staats-Zeitung, subsidized by the Kaiser's press agents, Dr. Dernberg and Adolph Pavenstedt, has called upon its followers to vote for Hylan. I have demanded that the public be informed of what Judge Hylan had ever done to enlist the support of these disloyal influences. Judge Hylan and Mr. Hearst have declined to answer. Tonight I propose to give to the public the information which they refuse to give.

"As a background for this information let me call attention to one of the greatest dangers which this nation faces at the present time. The world knows that Germany makes war in two ways. She attacks with her great guns, her poisoned gas, her liquid fire, on the battle front. Simultaneously she breeds treason and sedition in the countries with which she is at war. Disorganized Russia is a triumph of German intrigue. France has been stirred to its depths by Bolo Pacha and by German plots which reached even into the French Chamber of Deputies. England has faced a revolution in Ireland financed by Germany, while German bullets were killing Irishmen on the western front.

The German Spy System Here.

"What Germany has done in Russia, what she has tried to do in France and in England, she is now trying to do in the United States. The nation is honeycombed with seditious and disloyal societies that are working night and day to bend the nation to their will.

"Attacking the American Government at its head in Washington, these societies are also seeking to weaken and degrade American government at its source in America's cities. What these disloyal influences were able to do in Chicago, through a Mayor whom they compelled to snub Marshal Joffre, the idol of America as well as of France, they are now resolved to accomplish in New York.

"Mr. Hearst has refused to disclose why he selected Judge Hylan for Mayor. Judge Hylan has refused to explain what action of his has attracted to his support the disloyal and seditious elements in this city. Tonight I propose to make plain to the people of New York the secret of Judge Hylan's candidacy.

"On Sunday, Aug. 22, 1915, when Judge Hylan was running for County Judge, there was a meeting of the Brooklyn Republican leaders to consider a proposition which had been made to them by Mr. Hearst and the Independence League. In The Brooklyn Eagle of Monday, Aug. 23, appears the following news item:

> These were the two problems which the leaders were called upon to solve when they went into executive session at Republican Headquarters:
> 1. Should they nominate a straight ticket to please Cropsey?
> 2. Should they throw down either Campbell or Freifeld to support O'Loughlin?
> The last proposition was practically made to them by Deputy Register Hobely, who brought word to them from the Independence League camp that William Randolph Hearst, the founder of that organization, was prepared to support the entire Republican ticket with the exception of supporting County Judge Hylan, who will be the Democratic nominee to succeed himself on the bench, provided the Republicans nominate O'Loughlin.

"To discover the secret of the Hylan candidacy, therefore, we must go back at least to 1915, when William Randolph Hearst, the Kaiser's spokesman, proved that he was willing to trade the rest of the Democratic ticket for Republican support, but would not, under any circumstances, relinquish his fight for Hylan.

"In 1915 the relations between the United States and Germany were approaching the breaking point. Germany was already manifesting her purpose to disregard American rights on the seas. The American public was becoming restless under repeated affronts. During the Summer of 1915, therefore, the pro-German press and the pro-German societies in the United States became particularly active. Supplied, as subsequent events proved, with funds from Germany, these societies began a campaign along two general lines: first, to destroy the confidence of the American people in their President, and, second, to prevent the exportation of arms and supplies to the Allies.

"These societies had different names, but they were all financed in large part from the same source, controlled by the same men, and possessed of the same aims. Chief among them were the American Truth Society, the American Independence Union, the American Humanity League, the American Women of German Descent, the American Fair Play Society, the Continental League, the German-American Alliance of Greater New York, and the United Austrian and Hungarian-American Societies.

"In June, 1915, Henry Weismann of Brooklyn, President of the German-American National Alliance of New York, and Albert Sander, a confessed German spy, now serving a two-year sentence in the Atlanta Penitentiary, combined all these other organizations into a federated society called the Friends of Peace. This federated society took offices at 150 Nassau Street after Victor Ridder had sent a letter to the agents of the building written on the letterhead of the Staats-Zeitung, stating that Sander was a member of the Staats-Zeitung staff, and 'would make a good tenant.'

"On May 7 the Lusitania was sunk by a German submarine, with the loss of 114 American lives.

"On the 19th of August, 1915, the Arabic was sunk, with the loss of three American lives.

"On the 20th of August, 1915, the Friends of Peace sent out broadcast letters to members of the subsidiary societies and to pro-Germans generally calling a convention to be held in Chicago during the first week of September. The real purpose of this convention was to protest against the exportation of arms and supplies.

Cheered Loss of American Ship.

"The convention was held. John Brisben Walker, the vitriolic critic of President Wilson, was made Permanent Chairman, and Herman B. Ridder of the Staats-Zeitung of New York was appointed on the committee to assist him. The most significant fact recorded concerning this convention is that Henry Weismann read a bulletin to the convention announcing the sinking of the American liner Hesperian. The bulletin which Mr. Weismann read erroneously stated that hundreds of lives had been lost, and this announcement the convention greeted with cheers.

"In the period between the sending of the letter calling the convention and the convention itself there was a meeting of the Friends of Peace here in New York City on Aug. 26, 1915, in Maennerchor Hall, 203 East Fifty-sixth Street, which was attended by 250 members. At this meeting, Theodore Sutro, at that time President and editor of Hearst's Deutsche Journal, announced the receipt of a letter from William Randolph Hearst stating that he would do all in his power to aid the society; and Henry Weismann, who presided, declared that the Hearst newspapers were at the command of the organization. A motion was made by Bernard Ridder and unanimously adopted that a letter of thanks be written to Mr. Hearst for his editorials in support of the cause for which the organization stood, and Mr. Weismann added: 'Mr. Ridder has risen to the sublimest heights of manhood in making this motion at this time. This means that Mr. Hearst's newspapers, which speak every day, will be at your command. The sun breaks through the clouds at last.'

"If any additional proof were needed of Mr. Hearst's interest in this organization, it is supplied by the fact that when Sander, the right-hand man of the society's President, was arrested, he confessed to the United States District Attorney's office that he was employed as dramatic critic on Hearst's Deutsche Journal. This fact Sander confessed when arraigned in the United States District Court on the complaint of the Secret Service.

"You may naturally wonder what all this has to do with the candidacy of Judge Hylan. Circumstantially my answer is that Hearst was interested in the Friends of Peace, and is now desperately determined to make Judge Hylan Mayor of New York. This in itself is enough; but I am not yet through.

"This sheet that I show you is an enlarged copy of the letterhead upon which the Friends of Peace on Aug. 20, 1915, sent out the call for the convention in Chicago. At the top, in the upper left-hand corner, is the list of the disloyal societies which comprised the Friends of Peace. First is the American Truth Society, of which Jeremiah O'Leary is founder and President. One of the pamphlets circulated by this society and said to have been written by O'Leary declared that if the United States became involved in war with Germany, Germans and other aliens in this country would flee to Mexico, form an army, and, if need be, fight the United States.

"Next is the American Independence Union, of which Herman Ridder was Honorary President and Congressman Bartholdt President. It was founded, according to The Providence Journal, as the result of a conference in New York between Mr. Bartholdt, Dr. Dernburg, and Captain Boy-Ed of the German Embassy. It was financed almost entirely by the German Government and had for its main object the denunciation of the national Government, the stirring up of race hatred between the German population of the country and the rest of the American people, and finally the control of American Congressmen.

"Below, is the German-American Alliance, recognized as the driving force back of the Gore and McLemore resolutions which sought to subordinate the rights of America to the desires of Germany and which brought upon 'the little group of wilful men' who supported the Gore resolution in condemnation of the President.

"Below the list of these disloyal societies is a list of Honorary Vice Chairmen. On this list appears the name of Dr. Edmund von Mach, a violent pro-German propagandist, who aided Mathew Cummins of Boston in his effort to foment a longshoremen's strike in the interest of Germany. Another name on this list is that of Joseph Frey, Treasurer of the Food Embargo Fund of the American Truth Society and President of the United German Societies of the United States, who publicly criticised the United States Government as being unneutral. Another name is that of former Congressman Richard Bartholdt of St. Louis, prominent in the embargo movement, who was forced out of public life largely because of his outrageous defense of the sinking of the Lusitania.

"Another name is that of Frank Buchanan, who is now out on bail on an indictment for a conspiracy with Captain Franz von Rintelen of the Imperial German Navy, and David Lamar, the 'Wolf of Wall Street,' who fomented strikes to prevent the shipment of munitions to the Allies.

"Another name is that of Henry Weismann, the actual head of the Friends of Peace, who rejoiced at the sinking of an American ship, and who wrote the notorious ProBono Publico circular urging pro-Germans to defeat their common enemy, Wilson, at the polls. Another name is that of James K. McGuire, who, in a book entitled 'King, Kaiser and Irish Freedom,' told 'why the Irish heart should beat for Germany.'

"Another name is that of former Governor O. B. Colquitt of Texas, who, while running for the United States Senate, wrote to Alphonse Koelble and the Ridders asking for German aid, and suggesting that his request should be 'kept secret for reasons that you can readily understand.'

"There are many names on this list which are protected from public condemnation by their very obscurity; but there are three names which deserve particular attention.

"The first of these is that of John Devoy, editor of The Gaelic-American and acknowledged agent of Germany; Devoy, who by the evidence of the papers seized by the Government in the office of Wolf von Igel, the German spy, was proved to have received a check for $1,000 from the German government for use in his activities; Devoy, who, according to the confession of Lian Mellowes, conspired with others to assist the present enemies of America; Devoy, described in the documents made public by Secretary of State Lansing as von Bernstoff's 'confidential man.'

"The second name is that of Daniel Cohalan, then and now a Supreme Court Justice of the State of New York, who crowned all his other pro-German activities by a message which, according to Secretary of State Lansing, he caused to be sent to the Kaiser's Foreign Office in Berlin. This message read as follows::

> New York, April 17, 1916.
> Judge Cohalan requests the transmission of the following remarks:
> The revolution in Ireland can only be successful if supported from Germany; otherwise England will be able to suppress it, even though it be only after hard struggles. Therefore help is necessary. This should consist primarily of aerial attacks on England and a diversion of the fleet simultaneously with Irish revolution. Then, if possible, a landing of troops, arms, and ammunition in Ireland, and possibly some officers from Zeppelins. This would enable the Irish ports to be closed against England and the establishment of stations for submarines on the Irish coast and the cutting off of the supply of food for England. The services of the revolution may therefore decide the war.
> He asks that a telegram to this effect be sent to Berlin. 5132 8167 0230.
> To his Excellency Count von Bernstorff, Imperial Ambassador, Washington, D. C.

"As a Supreme Court Judge, Daniel Cohalan has the power to sentence murderers to death. As a friend of Germany, he suggests the murder of helpless women and children by bombs from German airplanes.

"The third name is that of Jeremiah O'Leary, chief of the paid German agents in this country; O'Leary, who threatened to organize an army to invade the United States from Mexico; O'Leary, who sneeringly informed President Wilson that he would be defeated by disloyal votes; O'Leary, who was named by the German Foreign Office in a message to von Bernstorff as a person suitable for carrying on sabotage in the United States; O'Leary, the head and front of the whole seditious crew, who was forever branded and disgraced by the telegram sent to him by President Wilson, in which the President said:

> I would feel deeply mortified to have you or anybody like you vote for me. Since you have access to many disloyal Americans, and I have not, I will ask you to convey this message to them.

Accused Hylan as Pro-German.

"These are the names that appear on the letterheads of the Friends of Peace. These are the men who shaped and directed the activities of this disloyal society. These are the men to whom Mr. Hearst promised his assistance. These are the men who thanked Mr. Hearst for his efforts in their behalf. Upon this roll of infamy there is still another name—the name of a man who was and is the tool of William Randolph Hearst, the name of a man who was and is the servant of Ridder and the Staats-Zeitung.

"If you would know why William Randolph Hearst is now supporting John F. Hylan for Mayor; if you would understand why the Staats-Zeitung is urging its supporters to vote for Hylan; if you would know why every seditious and disloyal society in this city is working secretly and silently to make Judge Hylan Mayor; if you would know the precise manner in which the Hohenzollern has determined to seize, control, and corrupt the government of New York City, you need only look upon that other name. You will find that name here on the list of Honorary Vice Chairmen of the Friends of Peace Society. It is the name of John F. Hylan!

"John F. Hylan won the support and friendship of every disloyal citizen by becoming a Vice Chairman of the Friends of Peace. John F. Hylan secured the political support of William Randolph Hearst in October, 1915, because in August, 1915, he delivered himself over to the agents of the nation with which his country is now at war. He has at his back every agency of organized German sedition, because he has proved his willingness to follow where Hearst and O'Leary lead.

"I accuse John F. Hylan of being the associate of the paid agents of Germany in this country.

"I accuse John F. Hylan of securing the political and personal support of William Randolph Hearst by joining with Hearst in the cult of disloyalty.

"I accuse John F. Hylan of being publicly allied with men whose disloyalty to America has been officially denounced by the United States Government—Cohalan, Devoy, and O'Leary.

"I accuse John F. Hylan of aiding in an effort to alienate this country from those nations which are now our allies.

"I accuse John F. Hylan of membership in a society which in convention applauded the sinking, without warning, of a peaceful American ship.

"As an American citizen, and not as a candidate, I now solemnly call upon the great loyal citizenship of New York to protect their city and their country. I call upon them to meet this German attack from within as firmly and as loyally as their armies are meeting the German attack upon the battlefield.

"I call upon them to prove to Hearst, Hylan, and the Hohenzollern that New York is still an American city."

Erasmus Hall was crowded when Mr. Mitchel appeared. Fully 1,500 persons were there, and it was a thoroughly sympathetic audience. The Mayor was repeatedly cheered when he started to speak, and as he progressed a silence settled over the crowd. It was a dramatic moment when the Mayor revealed that the name of Judge Hylan appeared on the letter head of the society he had denounced. Behind the Mayor stood an assistant with a large rolled-up chart. When the Mayor reached the psychological point in his address the assistant unrolled the chart and hung it up before the audience. It was ten feet long by four feet wide, and every one could see. A strip of black paper hid a name under it, and the Mayor suddenly tore it off, revealing Judge Hylan's name.

The crowd immediately broke loose. For several minutes they cheered and yelled approval. Above the din could be heard some one shouting: "That elects you, Jack. You've got Hylan on the run now."

At the beginning of his speech the Mayor said he had tried to induce Judge Hylan to meet him "eye to eye, face to face, and fact to fact," but that it had been useless.

"He does not meet me," said the Mayor, "because he has neither fact nor capacity, because he dare not come out on the platform and display his utter ignorance of municipal affairs, and last of all, because he is not permitted by sinister and un-American influences which are behind his candidacy."

RIDDER'S REPLY TO MITCHEL.

Under the heading "And Now You Know All About It," Bernard H. Ridder said in the New-Yorker Staats-Zeitung yesterday morning:

"The Mayor desires to know why the Staats-Zeitung supports the candidacy of Judge Hylan, and does not support the candidacy of John Purroy Mitchel.

"The Staats-Zeitung is supporting Judge Hylan because the Staats-Zeitung is convinced that Judge Hylan is the only candidate in the field that can defeat the present Mayor of New York at the coming election, and return the control of the people's affairs to the people.

"Judge Hylan is a man of the people, who has not forgotten that 'unshorn chins and calloused hands' have rights in a democracy, as well as burdens. He is pledged to the support and defense of those rights.

"We further believe that a great many other people believe as we do, and that they are led to that conviction by the fact that Judge Hylan has conducted his campaign cleanly and in the open.

"To be absolutely frank with Mr. Mitchel, and he wouldn't want us to be anything else, we admire many of his estimable qualities. * * * We admire the social Mr. Mitchel much more than we do Mr. Mitchel the Mayor."

ELECTION ODDS UNCHANGED

Only $5,000 Wagered on Curb Yesterday—Varied Bets in Brooklyn.

The rainstorm checked election betting on the Curb yesterday and the scattered wagers were made on the former basis of 2 to 1 with Hylan the favorite over Mitchel for the Mayoralty. Brokers estimated that about $5,000 was put up, all told. No bets were recorded on the other candidates. Quoted odds on Hillquit's chances were 5 to 1, and 8 to 1 was offered against Bennett's election.

Fred Schumm, the Brooklyn betting commissioner, said last night that while the wagers made yesterday were not great in amount, they were varied in character. Judge Hylan ruled a two-to-one favorite with little money in sight. One bet of $1,000 to $500 was made that Hylan gets more votes than Mitchel. Seven hundred dollars was wagered to $500 that Hylan carries New York County by 25,000. A similar bet was made that Hylan carries Kings County by 25,000. Other bets recorded were $500 to $600 that Hylan carries all five boroughs, $900 to $500 that Mitchel runs first or second, $700 to $500 that Hillquit will get more votes than Bennett, $600 even that Hillquit polls 125,000 votes, $700 to $400 that Hylan wins by a plurality of 35,000, and $500 to $300 that Hylan and Smith both win.

MINIMUM PRICES ON MONTREAL MARKET

Stock Exchange Acts to Prevent Failures Among Brokers—Toronto Takes Same Precaution.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—To prevent brokers from being forced into liquidation on account of the recent weak market, the Montreal Stock Exchange decided this morning to revert to the minimum price system, which was in use for a time when the Exchange reopened after closing on account of the war with Germany.

The failure of the Exchange to open at the usual hour today gave rise to reports that brokers with heavy holdings were confronted with ruin. It was officially stated, however, that none of these brokers was actually on the brink of failure.

The official announcement was made also that all the brokers were eager to put themselves behind the war loan. It was pointed out that, with minimum prices prevailing, the brokers could feel free to pay less attention to their private interests and more to Government financing.

The Exchange opened at 11 o'clock, one hour later than usual. The minimum prices adopted were those prevailing at the close of the market yesterday.

TORONTO, Oct. 30.—Following the example of Montreal, the Toronto Stock Exchange today adopted minimum prices for trading, based on last night's closing.

The delay in opening the Montreal Stock Exchange yesterday disturbed sentiment in early trading in the local security markets and found reflection in a sharp drop of Canadian Pacific. The decline continued after dispatches were received telling of the establishment of minimum prices at Montreal, and the price recorded in the afternoon a decline of 6 points.

Private messages from Montreal indicated that the minimum prices were established to relieve the financial situation in advance of the Dominion Government's offering of the pending war bond issue. The continued decline of security values presumably had caused apprehension among bankers. Canadian bankers have been seeking to have the embargo against gold exports from the United States lessened in order that bank balances here might be taken home to Canada. A group of bankers from Montreal were in the city yesterday on their way home from Washington, and it was learned that they had arranged with the Treasury Department and the Federal Reserve Board for the release of a certain amount of gold for shipment across the border in the next few months.

The party included Sir Vincent Meredith, President of the Bank of Montreal; Sir Edmund Walker, President, and Sir John Aird, General Manager, of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and E. L. Pease, Managing Director of the Royal Bank of Canada. The basic purpose of their representations to the Treasury Department for the release of gold was to stabilize exchange between New York and Canadian cities. Wide fluctuations of late have worked to handicap trade operations between the two countries.

DE PINNA

In England young civilians wear with their Trench Coats, cravats with Regimental stripes, thus indicating the particular branch of the service in which they have relatives or friends.

These cravats supplement in a very personal way the service flag.

For young American gentlemen who are in search today of civilian clothing cut on true military lines, we have had sent us by leading military tailors in London original models of Trench Coats, together with a large importation of the proper fabrics from which to make De Pinna reproductions.

We have also secured from England a quantity of silk cravat material, striped in the colors of the different branches of the service in the American Army.

SAKS' CLOTHES

Cost No More, but Look Better

Few men realize that it costs no more to be individual in the selection of their clothes than it does to be "just average." The man who wears Saks' Clothes is usually one who knows the value of being properly tailored. He does not consider his apparel as being "Just Clothes."

¶ Every model in our assortments is representative of the particular preferences or needs of a certain type of individual. Each model has been designed with a common-sense purpose back of it. Every model has a specific reason for existing.

¶ Whatever you select in clothing at Saks—suit or overcoat—will hold its own in any assemblage, standing above its associates because of its superior tailoring and unusual grace of line.

¶ We offer more models for selection than can be seen in any other single stock, tailored in a variety of woollens such as no custom shop has ever attempted or contemplated assembling.

HYLAN CHARGES T. R. RAISES 'FAKE ISSUE'

SAYS MAYOR EVADES FACTS

Democratic Fusion Committee Accuses "Big Business" of Exploiting Gary System.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was branded an enemy of the people and an advocate of special privilege by Judge John F. Hylan, Tammany's candidate for Mayor, in a speech he read at five meetings in widely separated sections of Queens last night. Judge Hylan said he was fighting the people's battles and welcomed opposition from the Colonel.

"I appear before you with mingled feelings of pride and regret," he said. "I am proud that the antagonism and bitter criticism which Theodore Roosevelt one year ago hurled against Woodrow Wilson has now been directed against me. I am fighting the enemies of the people and the beneficiaries of special privilege, just as President Wilson fought and defeated them in' the nation. They were defeated in the nation by President Wilson—they will be defeated in the city by the forces of democracy. I welcome the opposition of every spokesman of special privilege.

"You will not find one of those gentlemen who have profited so enormously through the friendly subserviency of Mayor Mitchel on my side in this campaign.

"The editor of The Evening Post in a signed article some days ago said of Mayor Mitchel: 'Big business is behind him to a man. Captains of industry like Judge Gary of the United States Steel Corporation have the most profound respect for him.' If by 'big business' you mean that business which thrives upon dishonest government, then 'big business' is behind Mayor Mitchel to a man, and every spokesman of 'big business' is speaking for Mr. Mitchel.

"But these advocates of special privilege do not meet the issues honestly. You do not find them defending the exorbitant increase in the price of sugar out of which Mayor Mitchel's campaign Chairman, William Hamlin Childs, his Dock Commissioner, R. A. C. Smith, and other of his backers, made millions in defiance of President Wilson's mandate against war profiteering."

Says Mayor Evades Issues.

The Tammany candidate said that Mayor Mitchel and all those who advocated his election on the stump had carefully evaded all the issues growing out of the shortcomings of the Mayor's administration which had been raised during the campaign.

"You will find them defending none of the scandalous acts of the Mitchel administration," said the Tammany nominee. "They do not dare to discuss those questions. They have come back again to the miserable plea that in some way Mayor Mitchel is a better American than you and I. My friends, I regret that such a fake issue could be raised against us by an ex-President or by any man who has sought that high office.

"Colonel Roosevelt said in his speech last night, 'The next point we have to decide is whether New Yorkers are willing to vote straight United States, as straight-out Americans and not as Americans of the fifty-fifty variety.'

"Will Mr. Roosevelt dare to say that the great body of Democrats and independents who stand behind me in this campaign and will vote for me on next Tuesday are not straight-out Americans? Will he say that those men who have offered their lives, the lives of their children, their fortunes, their all in defense of their country are not straight-out Americans? Colonel Roosevelt must know that he is assailing the loyalty and Americanism of men who have sent their sons to France to fight by the side of his own sons. Will he say that 90 per cent. of the soldiers at Camp Mills, who, it is estimated, voted for me on last Saturday, are not straight-out Americans? Will he say that the great host of Democrats who were among the 1,700,000 Liberty Loan subscribers in this city are not straight-out Americans?"

Judge Hylan then returned to his attacks on the Gary system, and declared that Mayor Mitchel's recent statement that 117,000 children in the public schools had been on part time when he became Mayor was not justified.

"The records of the Board of Education show that when Mr. Mitchel became Mayor there were 34,092 children on part time, and that when the schools opened in September this year that number had been increased to 30,853," said Mr. Hylan.

Last night's meetings were at Public School 77, Ridgewood, L. I.; Parish Hall, Corona; Columbia Hall, Richmond Hill; Queens Lyceum, Queens, L. I., and Arion Hall, Rockaway Beach. Charles L. Craig, Tammany candidate for Controller, and Sheriff Alfred E. Smith, Tammany candidate for President of the Board of Aldermen, spoke beore the same audiences.

Auto Parade for Hylan.

The Business Men's League, one of the organizations which appeared as sponsors for Judge Hylan's candidacy prior to his "indorsement" by Tammany Hall, has completed plans for an automobile parade next Saturday which will take the Judge and his running mates on the Tammany city ticket through four of the five boroughs of the city. The parade will start at Abingdon Square, Thirteenth Street and Eighth Avenue, and will proceed over west side thoroughfares to Washington Bridge and the Bronx. From that borough the parade will go south on the east side, cross the Queensboro Bridge to Long Island City and proceed that way to Brooklyn, returning to Manhattan, after a circuitous journey through the candidate's home borough, via the Manhattan Bridge. The procession will run up the Bowery, East Houston Street, and Second Avenue to East Twenty-third Street, where it will disband. The committee says 3,000 cars will be in line.

James E. MacBride, Executive Secretary of the Democratic Fusion Committee, said yesterday that hundreds of thousands of dollars had been contributed for the purposes of popularizing the Gary system by "the Standard Oil and allied interests who have received special favors at the hands of Mayor Mitchel."

Mr. MacBride said that to his knowledge a member of the Vanderbilt family had contributed $10,000. Other contributors named by Mr. MacBride were J. P. Morgan, Harold I. Pratt, Walter Jennings, T. W. Lamont, Thomas Cochran, George F. Baker, Cornelius N. Bliss, R. Fulton Cutting, Robert W. de Forest, William Hamlin Childs, and George Blumenthal.

"The Gary system is a system by which the Rockefellers and their allies hope to educate the children of this and coming generations in the doctrine of contentment—another name for social serfdom," Mr. MacBride added.

County Clerk William F. Schneider, Chairman of the Democratic Fusion Committee and candidate for County Clerk, has been compelled to cancel all speaking engagements for the final days of the campaign under orders from his physician. Mr. Schneider is confined to his home by an attack of the grip.

IN CASE YOU MISS THE TIMES

Candidate Bennett May Be Able to Tell You What Happened to It.

Rain interfered yesterday with the campaign plans of William M. Bennett. At noon he was to read a funeral oration over The Sun, in Printing House Square, and "to have devoted particular attention to Frank A. Munsey, the undertaker of newspapers." The committal service, according to Mr. Bennett, will be read today instead, weather permitting, and then Mr. Bennett will head his automobile north to Times Square and perform the same office for THE NEW YORK TIMES. Mr. Bennett's funeral oration over The Sun is scheduled for 12:30, that over THE TIMES for 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

"I shall pay attention to these two Fusion papers only, for the reason that The Tribune died with Horace Greeley and The Mail, Globe, and Evening Post are not newspapers," said Mr. Bennett last night.

Mr. Bennett professes to have discovered a deep-laid conspiracy among the daily newspapers in Manhattan to kill his candidacy by printing little or nothing about it.

Mr. Bennett spoke at a luncheon given by the Commerce Club in Greenpoint yesterday afternoon, and at nine meetings in Brooklyn and Queens last night. In all his speeches Mr. Bennett said he was the only candidate who could win, that Mr. Mitchel would be repudiated at the polls as he had been at the primaries and at the most could only aid Tammany Hall in the campaign. Mr. Bennett said he would get the votes of 200,000 Republicans and at least 50,000 Democrats and independents, 25,000 more votes than he needed to win.

"The Republicans in all parts of the city have awakened to the brazen attempt of the Mitchel backers to buy up the Republican organization by the use of patronage and money," said the candidate. "His backers still continue to use frauds in order to elect him. I now learn that paster ballots are being distributed in the military camps with Mr. Mitchel's name under the Republican emblem—the Eagle. It would seem as if it was impossible for the men backing Mitchel to conduct a campaign honestly. The people have determined to repudiate Mr. Mitchel by an overwhelming vote. It is still time for him to save himself from a disgraceful defeat, and he should retire from the race."

DRAFT LIST ERRORS.

Two Men Now at Plattsburg Were Wrongly Classed as Delinquents.

Colonel Paul A. Wolf, Commander of the Plattsburg Training Camp, telegraphed to THE TIMES last night, pointing out that in addition to the name of Robert Harbeson of 243 West 103rd Street, there had been erroneously included in the official list, supplied by the Adjutant General, of those who "failed to respond to the draft call," the name of Oscar Levine of 48 West 114th Street, now a member of the Fourteenth Company, Eighteenth Provisional Regiment, at Plattsburg, and, like Mr. Harbeson, in training for a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

Both these men, Colonel Wolf points out, enlisted on Aug. 27 for three months as members of the Plattsburg Camp, and thus are actually in military service and not subject to call by any draft board during that period. Moreover, steps were taken through military channels to notify each local board concerned and the State Adjutant General of their status, in accordance with the rulings of the Provost Marshal General.

Attention was called in yesterday's TIMES to the error made by the State authorities in the case of Mr. Harbeson.

That a number of men were erroneously listed as "delinquent" when called to the colors in New York City is now admitted by the authorities. The fact that these men, a very small percentage of the 1,500 whose names were published on Monday morning, were listed as technical deserters, was due to their failure to notify their boards that they were already in the service or to the failure of the boards to report that they had appeared for duty at Camp Upton.

Oscar Diaz, 251 West 111th Street, was reported as delinquent by Board 136. He reported at Camp Upton on Oct. 1, and is now acting as clerk in the office of the commanding officer of the Fourth Battalion of the 152d Depot Brigade at Camp Upton. Harry C. Reuben, 145 West 145th Street, and Joseph M. Pennington, 305 West 144th Street, both reported delinquent by Board 144, are at Camp Upton, while Nathan Kaplan, 47 Norfolk Street, reported by Board 107, has been at the camp since Oct. 8. Julian Rosa, reported by a Brooklyn board, has been on duty at Upton since Oct. 11, and the same is true of Charles Anderson of Board 23 in Brooklyn. Barnet Holzman of Board 168 reported to General Bell on Oct. 6, while Charles Holmquist, also of Board 168, is at Plattsburg. John Carey, Board 90, is another soldier who was published as delinquent who is on duty at Camp Upton.

Of the 1,350 negroes who were ordered to report at Camp Upton yesterday about one out of every eight failed to appear. At 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon the police reported that 171 of the men had been listed at Police Headquarters as missing when the special military trains left for Camp Upton yesterday morning.

Boy Burglars Held for Homicide.

Paul Chapman, 16 years old, and Leonidas Davis, 21, two of the boy burglars who aided in planning the robbery of the cigar store of Harry Regensburg at 636 Park Place, Brooklyn, on Sunday night, were held on a charge of homicide by Magistrate Estabrooke in the Flatbush Avenue Police Court yesterday a few hours after Regensburg died in the Jewish Hospital from wounds inflicted by Hughes Davis, 17 years old, who was killed by the police. Samuel Regensburg died on Monday and Mrs. Harry Regensburg is in the Jewish Hospital in a critical condition. Surgeons say she cannot recover. Chapman and Leonidas Davis admitted they had aided in planning the burglary, but denied they had fired any shots.

South America, the maintenance of open market in Argentina and the reorganization of South Brazil equally well whether with or against Argentina. Please cultivate friendship with Chile. The announcement of the visit of a submarine squadron to salute the President would even now exercise decisive influence on the situation in South America. Prospect excellent for wheat harvest in December.

LUXBURG.

Berlin's "Political Aims."

The striking feature of these dispatches, in the opinion of officials, is the statement that one of "the political aims" of Germany is "the reorganization of South Brazil equally well whether with or against Argentina."

The first dispatch, officials noted, was sent three months after the United States entered the war against Germany and the second dispatch four months thereafter. It was last May, a month after this Government entered into hostilities with Germany, that Luxburg sent his "spurlos versenkt" message. Apparently he began an active campaign to cause trouble in South America immediately after the United States acted.

The German settlement of the Brazilian State of Rio Grande do Sul has been a thorn in the side of this Government and those South American Governments which perceived German ambition and the menace of German colonization on this continent. So widespread is this colonization that the whole State of Rio Grande do Sul is influenced by German sentiment. For years American diplomatic and consular officers in South America have been calling attention to the dangers that lay in German domination of part of Brazil.

That the German Government was alive to the importance of its foothold in the Western Hemisphere is indicated by the statement of Count Luxburg that the "principal political aims" of Germany in that continent were "the maintenance of open market in Argentina and the reorganization of south Brazil equally well whether with or against Argentina." That Chile was to be used as a means of coercing both Brazil and Argentina to accede to the German aims is suggested by the recommendation of Luxburg to his Government to "please cultivate friendship with Chile."

Luxburg laid stress on the visit of a flotilla of German U-boats to this side of the Atlantic—as is evidenced by his opinion that "the announcement of a visit of a submarine squadron to salute the President (of Brazil) would even now exercise decisive influence on the situation in South America"—at a time when there was danger of war between Brazil and Germany.

The State Department will not say how it obtained the dispatches of Count von Bernstorff, Count Luxburg, and other German diplomatic officers which it has made public from time to time, each of them showing that German plots directed against the southern part of the American hemisphere had been under way before the United States entered the war. That the department has a considerable number of these secret messages is not denied, but officials merely smile when they are asked if the department has the German diplomatic code book in its possession.

After the State Department made public the "sink without a trace" messages, which caused Argentina to hand von Luxburg his passports, the Argentine Government sent to Washington a number of the former German Minister's dispatches for decoding. Whether the two now published were among them, or were obtained by the United States at the same time it came into possession of other telegrams forwarded to Berlin through the Swedish Legation at Buenos Aires, is not disclosed.

Several days ago press reports from Buenos Aires said a sensation had been created there by the publication of a dispatch from Rio Janeiro saying the Brazilian Foreign Minister had made known that translations of the Luxburg messages revealed a German plot to invade Southern Brazil. The Argentine newspapers demanded then that their Government either publish the dispatches or "authorize their publication by a foreign Government."

The break between Argentina and Germany, which von Luxburg apparently was expecting in July, has not yet come, and latest advices from Buenos Aires do not indicate any intention on the part of the Argentine Government to join Brazil and other South American nations on the side of the Allies. Von Luxburg, who was kept in a detention camp for a time after his exposure, is expected to sail for home Nov. 1, the Allies having agreed to grant him safe conduct for the voyage.

HILLQUIT PROTESTS ROOSEVELT'S A PERIL

"Most Serious Menace to American Democracy," He Tells Brooklyn Audience.

"WE DO NOT WANT WAR"

He Adds That Citizens Will Be Voting For or Against Universal Peace on Nov. 6.

Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor, made a bitter attack upon Colonel Theodore Roosevelt on the stage of the Brooklyn Academy of Music last night. The meeting, attended by 3,500 persons, was held under the auspices of the Collegiate League for Hillquit, and Dudley Field Malone, ex-Collector of the Port and the "Mr. X." of the Socialist campaign, appeared with Mr. Hillquit for the first time.

"I wish to take this opportunity to tell the people of the city," said Mr. Hillquit, "that the loudest issue injected into this campaign, the issue of patriotism, is pure camouflage. There is no such issue in this campaign. Patriotism? Everybody in this campaign, every candidate, is patriotic in his own light and in the light of the interests which he represents. Mayor Mitchel undoubtedly is patriotic from his point of view and his patriotism consists evidently of a desire to slaughter his compatriots on the battlefields of Europe. My patriotism consists in the passionate desire to conserve the life and happiness of my compatriots. Judge Hylan, in the exercise of his patriotism, evidently believes that he can serve his fellow-men best by a guarded and impenetrable silence.

"The issue of patriotism will be overworked within the next few days; you may be prepared for it. And in order to do the job well the pioneer patriot, the source and fountainhead of all Simon-pure patriotism, has been brought into this campaign in behalf of Mayor Mitchel. I refer to Colonel Theodore Roosevelt. And inasmuch as Colonel Roosevelt has referred to me as an agent of the Prussianized autocracy and of the Hohenzollerns and as a Hun inside our gates, may I say that I sincerely and honestly believe Theodore Roosevelt is the most demoralizing influence in the political life of our country?

"I consider Mr. Roosevelt and the type of politics he represents is the most serious menace to American democracy. It is not socialism but Rooseveltism that is the true enemy within our gates, and it is against just this type of politics that the City of New York is now rising in moral and political revolt. It is Theodore Roosevelt and his supporters who represent, and truly represent, the spirit of Prussianized autocracy. I charge that Theodore Roosevelt does not support this war as a measure of necessity in the interests of world democracy, but as a cold-blooded business proposition for the profit and advantage of our rich commercial classes.

During all his attacks upon Colonel Roosevelt the speaker was interrupted many times with hisses, cries of "Shame!" and cheers for the former President. But each time a swelling chorus of Hillquit cheers and prolonged "boos" drowned the efforts of the scattered minority.

"I am here to give proof of my statements," Mr. Hillquit continued. "I realize the gravity of the charge. I am prepared to prove it out of the mouth of Theodore Roosevelt himself. Now listen you and those who cheer for Colonel Roosevelt, listen attentively. Only a year ago when there was no necessity of hiding the real motives a group of super-patriots issued a statement in behalf of the Hughes Alliance. Julius Rosenwald, William Howard Taft, Elihu Root and others besides Mr Roosevelt signed that statement. Let me read it to you:

> Our business is business. We are producers, manufacturers, and traders, without sufficient home demand to absorb the full yield of fields and the output of factories. Year by year it becomes more apparent that the markets of the world must be kept open to American industries.
> We cannot extend our trade further than we are able to defend it. "The rivalries that begin in commerce and end on battlefields." The history of war is green with international jealousies. Whatever the diplomatic excuse, every great conflict in modern times had its origin in some question of property rights.

"Those are our patriots, the men who dare to come before the public and charge us with disloyalty—we who have given our all to the defense of the rights of the people and they who are ready to slaughter the people of America for the profits of the mercantile interests. Mr. Roosevelt wants a war to make the world markets safe for our surplus products. Whose surplus products? Has Mr. Roosevelt ever seen on the Bowery that long, pale, shivering hungry line waiting for a roll of bread? Has he ever seen in the homes of thousands, yes, of tens of thousands of workers' homes where the people are succumbing for the very want of bread, yet it is that surplus, the surplus robbed from our people's mouths—"

The speaker's voice was drowned in a storm of hisses and cheers, but after a moment he resumed:

"You are asked first to kindly permit your rulers to take your bread from your mouths, and then because it cannot be sold on this side you are asked in addition to give your lives and your bodies to making the world's markets safe for it! As for Mr. Roosevelt's patriotism, we want none of it. We do not want war to keep foreign markets open. We do not want war for any other purpose, for war, that brutal process of human slaughter, never accomplished anything.

"And so, while this country is in the war now—and it does not matter for what object at present—while it has the compelling influence in the councils of the Allies, while the United States is in position to throw that power in the balance for war or for peace, for a continuation of the last three years of ghastly slaughter or for a general international peace, a peace without punishment, without humiliation, with assurance of permanency, we favor with all our hearts and with all our souls that that influence be exercised in favor of a world peace. Gentlemen, don't be misled by rabid phrases, by half names, by the rantings of our venal daily press; remember that it will be for or against such a universal peace that you will be voting on Nov. 6 next."

The candidate was wildly applauded as he left the platform to be succeeded by Crystal Eastman with a plea for funds, during which she succeeded, despite sporadic protests, in making sneering remarks about American soldiers, whom she charged with indifference toward or connivance in offenses against the liberties of the people. But when she went on to say, "We must elect Hillquit that President Wilson may learn a lesson," there were so many angry cries of "cut it out" and "shut up" that she quickly took her seat.

Mr. Malone started in by explaining that he was not a convert to the doctrines of socialism, but had entered the field in favor of Mr. Hillquit as "the only man who can give the city a liberalized program of government in the interests of the working people." He pleaded that no support should be denied to Mr. Hillquit because he is a Russian Jew.

He was applauded uproariously when he declared himself in favor of the Pope's recent peace note, lukewarmly when he indorsed President Wilson's answer, and loudest of all when he attacked ex-President Roosevelt and defended Mr. Hillquit for not buying Liberty bonds, saying:

"Mr. Roosevelt, hoping to befog the real issues, says that Morris Hillquit, because of his views on peace and his attitude toward Liberty bonds, is disloyal to the country and a 'shadow-Hun.' The Government at Washington and the Federal Grand Juries are well equipped to take care of the enemies of our country, and I for one am not so much worried about alleged 'shadow-Huns' in this country as I am about certain shadow-Americans like Roosevelt, with their militaristic and imperialistic purposes for this republic.

"The people of New York City have left their swaddling clothes, and they place no great value on the constant advice of this national nursemaid. Do the people of the United States and of New York City exist to serve the views of Mr. Roosevelt, or is Mr. Roosevelt to serve the views of the American people? If Mr. Hillquit, because of his views, could not buy Liberty bonds without offending his conscience, should he, for the sake of the votes and support of men like Roosevelt, have violated his conscience, played the hypocrite, and purchased bonds merely for the purpose of winning votes in this Mayoralty election? I bought my Liberty bonds in the first and second loan, and I am willing to wager that I have invested a larger proportion of my principal in Liberty bonds than Mr. Roosevelt or Mayor Mitchel or Judge Hylan. But this does not give me the right to say or think that Morris Hillquit is a disloyal citizen."

HILLQUIT'S ELECTION A CALAMITY, HE SAYS

F. H. Krebs Challenges Dudley Field Malone to Debate That Assertion in Broad Street.

Franz H. Krebs of 100 Cathedral Parkway has sent the following letter to ex-Collector of the Port Malone:

Oct. 30, 1917.

Hon. Dudley Field Malone, 270 Riverside Drive, New York City, N. Y.

Dear Sir: I read with great interest your statement that you intended to support Morris Hillquit for Mayor of New York at the coming election. I personally feel that the election of Mr. Hillquit would be absolutely the greatest misfortune that could befall the masses of the people of Greater New York, and would, moreover, be a national misfortune. In fact it might reasonably, in my judgment, be termed a calamity. I believe that the election of Mr. Hillquit would prolong this war at least six months longer than it would otherwise last, and I also believe that it would endanger, to a great extent, any possible means of relief from the present high cost of living, which unfortunately, although necessarily, is the main issue in the minds of many, regardless of other municipal issues.

I intend to speak on Friday noon on Broad Street, near the corner of Wall, in opposition to the election of Mr. Hillquit. Allow me to suggest that we have a debate on the issue of Mr. Hillquit's candidacy. There have been many challenges to debate during this campaign, none of which has been accepted, and I feel that you undoubtedly deplore the wholesale mudslinging which has been indulged in by practically all parties and candidates. Would it not have a tendency to elevate the election were there to be a debate between two men who were not candidates and who handled the matter along broad lines of decent and constructive citizenship?

I have picked out Broad Street partly because at the noon hour there are many thousands of people passing there, and also partly on account of the fact that it is near the building in which there are many men employed who served under you and have a high regard for you; so I am certain that you will be assured of a friendly audience, and I know that any audience made up of friends of yours would treat your opponent in debate with the utmost courtesy. Moreover, I feel that, owing to your past personal friendship with Mayor Mitchel, which he is undoubtedly broad-minded enough not to terminate on account of your refusing to support him, you will be able to obtain all necessary police protection and enable us to engage in a dignified and undisturbed discussion.

While I have not spoken in public for many years, I have spoken more or less in the recent campaign for the Liberty Loan meetings to which I was assigned by the Bureau of Speakers of the Liberty Loan Committee. I realize that in meeting you, I shall meet one more than ordinarily qualified in the arts of oratory, but I trust that a presentation of plain facts in a plain way may possibly be effective. Kindly let me hear from you at your earliest convenience, so that we can make arrangements regarding the meeting, provided you are willing to meet me as suggester. In any event, whether you accept or not, I will speak on that day, at that time and place, and Mr. Hillquit will be the subject of my discussion. Very truly yours,

FRANZ H. KREBS.

P. S.—I do not intend to advocate or oppose the election of either Mitchel, Hylan, or Bennett. In fact, I intend to say all that can fairly be said in their favor. I prefer to look for the good and not the worst in my fellowmen, and I realize that there are cogent reasons on account of which a large percentage of our citizenry intend to vote for each of those gentlemen.

But I believe that there is absolutely no reason why any intelligent American citizen should vote for Mr. Hillquit, and I believe that I can fairly maintain the conclusion that I have reached by the facts that I am prepared publicly to present. I am herewith sending a copy of this letter to the managing editor of each of the daily morning papers published in New York. I am doing this because I feel that before you decide whether or not you care to participate in a debate on the advisability of voting for Mr. Hillquit for Mayor, you will naturally wish to discuss the matter with your friends, and undoubtedly any publicity that may be attained will get you a much readier and larger expression of opinion from them than you would otherwise receive.

SWANN ALLEGES NEGLECT.

In Hospital Management, and Says He Will Investigate After Election.

District Attorney Swann announced to reporters yesterday that "after Election" the Grand Jury would be called upon to investigate complaints which had been received by his office charging negligence in various hospitals under city supervision. The alleged incidents upon which Mr. Swann based his announcement occurred last Summer.

Mr. Swann gave no details, but one of his assistants supplied them. The complaints, according to the assistant, concerned five little girls from 4 to 6 years old who, it was alleged, contracted disease while attending the Harlem Hospital for treatment of minor ailments. The names of the children were obtainable at the District Attorney's office, and it was asserted there that their parents alleged that the disease was contracted in each case through the carelessness and negligence of attendants in the hospital.

Mr. Swann said he had "decided to postpone the Grand Jury inquiry into these complaints until after Election in order to avoid an appearance of instigating an investigation against a city hospital for purely political reasons."

HOW DOWLING HAS EARNED ELECTION AT YOUR HANDS

DOWLING GOES TO VICTORY ON HIS RECORD

To those residents of the Borough of Manhattan who are actuated solely by the desire for intelligent and straightforward administration of the borough government there should be no hesitation in making a selection for Borough President at the polls next month.

The Democrats have put forward Frank L. Dowling, one of the wheelhorses whose record is unblemished and whose knowledge of administration of public affairs is unexcelled. He is a product of the city of New York who knows intimately its people, its needs, their aspirations and its financial and commercial intricacies.

As a member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and for more than a generation a leader in the Board of Aldermen, Frank L. Dowling has had opportunities for feeling the pulse of New York as no other public official could. Since 1900 he has represented the old Chelsea district.

While serving the city as a district Alderman and as member of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, President Dowling has devoted his entire time to the study of municipal problems. His twenty years of city service has equipped him for administrative duty.

HALTED FARE INCREASE.

It was President Dowling's resolution in the Board of Estimate and Apportionment that administered a death-blow to the aggressive agitation for an increase of surface railroad fares. His analysis of the extravagant underlying leases and operating guarantees made by the New York City Railways Company and its predecessors, disarmed the attorneys and officials of the transit lines to such an extent that since his exposure of actual conditions only feeble efforts have been made to press the fare increase demand.

When the free transfers between various lines of surface railroads were cut off at 255 transfer points, it was Frank L. Dowling, as majority leader in the Board of Aldermen, who rallied the opposition to the proposal and not only secured aldermanic indorsement of the demand for a restoration of these transfers, but urged the enactment of legislation at Albany that restored the present transfer arrangement.

Every measure directed at an increase in the city tax budget, without a more than corresponding increase in public benefit, has been opposed by President Dowling. He has aggressively protested against the constant rise in taxes and in the tax rate. He has agitated untiringly for the sale of unused and unneeded city property.

He has protested in the Board of Estimate and in the Sinking Fund Commission against the policy of leasing city-owned real estate at figures so ridiculously small that taxpaying owners in the vicinity were hopelessly handicapped by being compelled to come into competition with lessees of unneeded city realty.

While constantly advocating the payment of a fair wage and proper compensation to city employes, President Dowling has waged constant warfare on the policy of calling nonresidents to the city service on the plea that the most progressive community in the world had not within its confines sufficient talent to handle its own affairs.

FOUGHT HIGH LIVING COST.

Long before the cost of living became a vital question with most of the residents of the city, President Dowling devoted himself to a study of municipal control over foods and foodstuffs. Several years ago he forced through the Board of Aldermen an ordinance for the regulation of cold storage plants. The ordinance, however, was vetoed.

Mr. Dowling has prepared and passed an ordinance which provides for the sale of bread by weight.

He strenuously opposed the proposal that every dwelling in the city should be equipped with water meters, and that the consumption of water should be paid for by measure. That measure has been defeated.

Always an advocate of parks and playgrounds, President Dowling was one of the leaders in the agitation for city-owned free baths. He worked for the establishment of the municipal bath house at Coney Island and for the creation of bathing beaches in all of the city parks touched by tidal waters. He was the first to suggest that the old reservoir in Central Park be made a playground.

It was largely due to his agitation that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment appropriated funds for the destruction of the beach barriers that had been erected by greedy amusement purveyors.

As chairman of the Board of Estimate Committee on Food Gardens Mr. Dowling this present year arranged for the plowing and planting of hundreds of acres of unused city land for the "potato patriots" and other amateur food raisers.

OPPOSED WEST SIDE DEAL.

In the Board of Estimate and Apportionment President Dowling led the opposition to the surrender of the city's rights to the New York Central Railroad Company in the so-called West Side deal. His searching inquiries brought out many of the phases of the deal by which the city would be forever deprived of its valuable water front and of the use of a great slice of Riverside Drive.

He has unalterably stood out against the continuance of the "Death Avenue" menace.

President Dowling has also opposed all the extravagancies in land operations that have made the city tax budget burdensome without corresponding benefit to taxpayers. He has again and again assailed the policy of the city administration by which millions were expended for unused or useless sites and practically nothing appropriated for the repavement of streets or the construction of needed public schools.

President Dowling was born in this city in 1867 within a block of the house in which he now resides. His education was secured in an elementary school, and he has always evinced the keenest interest in the administration of school affairs. His own education was limited because of the necessity of becoming a wage earner at the age of twelve.

This fact has sharpened his desire that the educational affairs of the city shall be so administered that the children of the poor shall receive the greatest possible instruction in educational fundamentals. He has been a close student of the operation of the so-called Gary System.

Outstanding Facts in Public Service of Frank L. Dowling

Born at No. 360 West Twenty-fifth street, July 31, 1865. Attended public school in West Twentieth street. After elementary school education started to earn his living.

From 1891 to 1899, inclusive, served in the office of the District Attorney. Elected Alderman from the old Chelsea district in 1899, re-elected every term until 1916, when he was elected President of the Board of Aldermen. In that capacity served as Acting Mayor in the absence of the Mayor. Was floor leader in the Board of Aldermen for eight years.

Introduced resolution for revenue bonds for after-care of children suffering from infantile paralysis. Introduced resolutions appropriating money for the use of Board of Child Welfare, commonly called the "Widow's Pension Fund."

Introduced resolution permitting the soliciting of contributions for Jewish war sufferers in Palestine and resolution favoring full pay to members of the Police and Fire departments attending military camps.

Introduced resolution extolling Nathan Straus for twenty-five years of service in maintaining pasteurized milk stations. Introduced resolution protesting against the increase of fares on street surface railroads.

BELL DID HIS DUTY, HE TELLS HILLQUIT

In Letter He Denies Any Personal Bias Against Socialist Candidate.

SAYS HE HAS NEVER VOTED

Neither Has He "Ever Read a Single Speech Published as Uttered by You."

Morris Hillquit, Socialist candidate for Mayor, made public last night a letter he had received from Major Gen. J. F. Bell, U. S. A., in command of the Seventy-seventh Army Division, stationed at Camp Upton, Yaphank, L. I., in which General Bell disavows any personal bias against the Socialist nominee in prohibiting him from making a campaign among the drafted men at the camp. The letter was written in reply to one which Mr. Hillquit sent to General Bell several days ago protesting against the decree of exclusion and the publicity given to a letter the latter sent to Mayor Mitchel in response to one from the Mayor interceding with the General in the interest of the Socialist candidate. Here is the letter:

Headquarters, 77th Division,
Camp Upton, N. Y., Oct. 29, 1917.

My dear Mr. Hillquit: Your letter of last Friday, Oct. 26, has just been received by me this morning. I am not in the slightest degree responsible for the publicity given by the New York press to my letter in reply to the one received from the Mayor. I recognize, and have always been aware of, the difficulties involved in a consistent adherence to the policy outlined in regulations issued by me for the government of political meetings in this camp. Of course, I am not infallible, nor do I possess more than average wisdom or ability, but I have made conscientious efforts to interpret my duty correctly and to adhere to what I believed was necessary in order to discharge it.

You are in error in believing that explicit assurances were given me by your representatives to the effect that you would confine your discourse strictly to the political and economic issues directly involved in the municipal campaign. Had I had any idea that my making an effort to ascertain your attitude or intentions by direct communication with you would have been considered appropriate and have been welcomed by you I might have made it.

I have chosen to single out no candidate for my approval. I have absolutely no political bias and have never voted in my life. I wish it might be possible for you to believe that I have not experienced the slightest personal feeling or displeasure toward you. I have absolutely never read a single speech or a single word published in the papers as having been uttered by you. This was not because I might not have been enlightened thereby, but because I take no interest in local political discussions and have not time to read them. Mr. Schwartz has kindly sent me your small work entitled "Socialism Summed Up," but I have not yet had time to read it. Everything I have ever been told about you, even by those who disagree with your political views, has been favorable to you as an individual member of society. There has never existed, therefore, the slightest basis for displeasure on my part toward you. I can hardly think it should be difficult for men of intelligence like yourself, to believe that men in my position can have many righteous motives for their acts, entirely uninfluenced by personal feeling or displeasure, this notwithstanding their views and judgment may appeal to you as fallible.

Your letter makes reference to the status of soldiers as citizens, and to the fact that in voting they will be exercising "a civil right, not a military duty." As the law provides that they shall have the privilege of voting in military camps, I did not consider myself privileged to prohibit political meetings of every kind. I fully recognized the existence of the "elusive line" referred to in your letter and never expected to be able discharge my duty in such manner as to be satisfactory to every one. That was no reason why I should not endeavor to do what I conceive to be my duty. Assuring you of my highest personal esteem, believe me,

Cordially and sincerely yours,
J. F. BELL, Major General U. S. A. Commanding.

The Socialist campaign managers have brought speakers from all parts of the country to aid in the final drive they are making this week on behalf of their candidates. Among them are Mayor Thomas Van Lear of Minneapolis, James H. Maurer, President of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor; Arthur Spence, who was Chief of Police of Milwaukee when that city had a Socialist Mayor; Alderman John C. Kennedy of Chicago, Frank L. White of Louisville, William Toole of Baltimore, James A. De Bell of New Haven, Conn., and George Grover Mills of Boston. A special campaign is being conducted by the Socialists among Irish sympathizers with the rebellion. Among the speakers in this campaign are Nora Connolly, daughter of James Connolly, who was killed in the uprising, and Mrs. Hanna Skeffington, widow of F. Sheehy Skeffington, the Irish leader.

It was announced last night that Amos Pinchot would preside at the Hillquit mass meeting which is to be held this evening at Madison Square Garden under non-Socialist auspices. The speakers will be Morris Hillquit, Dudley Field Malone, Norman M. Thomas, and Allen McCurdy. Socialists have been requested to stay away from this meeting in order to give non-Socialists a chance to gain admission.

RELIEF FOR STEEL PLANTS.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Owners of steel plants, in conference with Mr. Garfield, the Fuel Administrator, today, came to an arrangement by which they will be able to obtain, through Government regulation, coal by-products required in their factories in making munitions and other war products. This means that several plants which were threatened by serious shortage will receive a requisite supply at the price fixed by the Government.

An agreement was reached whereby the Fuel Administration, informed by weekly report from the steel plant owners, will decide exactly what the demand for each is and will see that it is met. This will be based upon an average determined by the amount of work the plants do for the Government. If a plant has 100 per cent. of Government work it will get more in proportion than another plant. The supply will be diminished according to the relation of Government and other work.

BARS WATERFRONT TO ALL GERMANS

afternoon concerning the new regulations said:

"There are many reasons why I have decided to take this drastic action relative to allowing German aliens to continue their employment along the waterfront. Their employment along the waterfront has kept this office and other investigating branches of the Government service very busy of late investigating all sorts of rumors. We have found it necessary to intern a number of these waterfront workers also, and after due consideration and serious thought I have decided that the best way to handle this situation is to clear them away from the waterfront entirely.

"If these men are the good mechanics that they profess to be they will not find it very difficult to get other employment away from the waterfront. It is also my opinion that we will be better off generally if the work of reconstructing the interned German ships into transports to carry our troops across the sea is handled by Americans solely. We can feel sure about one thing, and that is that no alien enemies will have anything to do with the work on these transports hereafter. Then again I feel that we should exercise the utmost secrecy regarding the movements of our transports, and how can we do this if we continue to allow these aliens to have access to our waterfront? This rule is going to be carried out, and I warn all those who come under it to obey it immediately or else they can expect arrest and internment."

About 37,000 Government permits have been issued to German subjects in New York City, of whom about 26,000 live in Manhattan and the Bronx. A complete list of these persons, together with their present addresses, has been turned over to the Police Department, and it is understood that from this time on the police will co-operate with the Government agents in seeing that every enemy alien lives strictly up to the regulations which were promulgated by President Wilson immediately following the declaration of war.

United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy of the Southern District of New York said last night that the regulations governing enemy alien activities along the Manhattan waterfront were already as stringent as they could be made and that no enemy could now be employed in any capacity in the Manhattan zones, and furthermore that none were permitted to travel on ferryboats or other craft except under certain conditions made necessary by their employment. The entire Manhattan waterfront, Marshal McCarthy added, was patrolled every minute of the day and night by agents of the Government.

ATTACK ON HILLQUIT KEPT UP BY FUSION

Managers Declare Tammany Is Growing Weak, While Mitchel Is Gaining.

WHITMAN FOR PRENDERGAST

Governor Urges Citizens to Vote for Keeping Controller in His Present Office.

The Fusion campaign managers continued yesterday to turn their campaign guns upon Morris Hillquit, the Socialist candidate for Mayor, as being the candidate with the best chance of defeating Mayor Mitchel. They asserted that all their reports showed a steady decrease in the Tammany strength, due to defections in the Tammany organization itself, and to the fact that many anti-Mitchel voters who went into the Hylan camp several weeks ago have now swung back to Mitchel under the menace of Socialism. A corresponding swing of Bennett men back to Mitchel has also set in, the managers asserted.

As proof of the fact that original Bennett voters are now coming back to the Mitchel standard, the Fusion Committee announced that the South Side Republican Club of Woodhaven, Queens, had rescinded a resolution passed two weeks ago in favor of Mr. Bennett and had passed one indorsing Mayor Mitchel. A statement from the committee said that the realization of just exactly what the defeat of Mitchel would mean to the city caused the rank and file of the club and some of its officers to start a revolt against sacrificing the city's interest to party regularity.

"The drive is still on for Mitchel and the meetings last night showed it," said Emory R. Buckner, Chairman of the Mitchel-Fusion Committee. "The Mayor made nine speeches and every hall was crowded and the crowd extended into the streets. The people at the last meeting waited until midnight to hear the Mayor. Hylan is still going down, Mitchel is going up, and Hillquit wants to crowd into the elevator, while Bennett is down in the cellar."

Governor Whitman announced last night his support of Controller Prendergast in the following statement: "I am supporting the Controller's candidacy earnestly. I express the hope and belief that he will be re-elected. He has had an exceptional preparation and training for the important position which for the last eight years he occupied with very great credit. He is thorough, able, conscientious, and attentive to his public duties. eH is a native New Yorker, and since his boyhood has been a student of the city's affairs, so that he has an unusual grasp on the problems which daily come to him for solution.

"He has not alone done the great work of placing and keeping the City of New York on a sound financial basis, but has also given timely and substantial aid in the reform of State finance. My confidence in the election of the Controller is based not only on what I know to be the high esteem in which he is held for his splendid public service, but also on the fact that he has the united and whole-hearted support of the Republican organization in the city. In addition to this, his independence in performing his public duties has aligned with him a very large number of the independent voters of all parties. I am sure that no thoughtful citizen will cast a vote which will turn the fiscal affairs of the city over to Tammany Hall."

The Governor already has strongly indorsed Mayor Mitchel. Henry Bruere, President of the Board of Child Welfare, sent a letter yesterday to Morris Hillquit denying his assertion that the board "is practically reduced to a mere paper existence while its appropriations are diverted." Mr. Bruere wrote:

"You should not let yourself into such grossly untruthful and ignorant misrepresentations. My knowledge of your intelligence and character makes me certain that emotional ignorance and not malice prompted the assertion. The board has allotted and is now paying monthly pensions to 3,700 widows. It has only today sent $105,000 to widows for next month's allowance. These widows before 1915, when the board began its work, were compelled to neglect their children, to underfeed them or to send them to institutions. There are 11,000 children under the care of these widows, and these 11,000 children the Board of Child Welfare is helping to good citizenship. For the work the city appropriated $1,250,000 in 1917, and $1,550,000 is allowed next year."

The Fusion Committee announced yesterday that the Greek colony in the city had come out for Mayor Mitchel, largely because of the patriotic issue. Petros P. Tatanis of The National Herald had written the Mayor praising his administration and stating that citizens of Greek birth in the city would vote for him. The Mayor sent a letter of thanks in reply.

J. G. Phelps Stokes issued a statement yesterday answering Morris Hillquit, who in a pamphlet asserted that Mayor Mitchel had not handled the 1916 car strike properly and in which he said: "If Mr. Mitchel had had the interest of the people at heart he would have said to the employers, 'During the strike your shop or factroy remains closed; any attempt to open it will be treated as an attempt to incite to violence, and you will be prosecuted for that crime.' That would be the right way to handle an industrial dispute."

Mr. Stokes made this comment: "If Mr. Hillquit were Mayor and a few workers should call a strike in the power house of a public service corporation, he would have the police keep the power house closed and would treat as a 'criminal offense' any attempt to open it and to keep the street cars going for the benefit of the remainder of the city's population of some five millions. If a few strikers were to shut the gates of the Croton aqueduct or of the new aqueduct that brings water from the Ramapo Hills, Mr. Hillquit, we are told, would treat as a 'criminal offense' any attempt to open them and to run the water works in the interest of the entire people."

SOLDIERS TO VOTE NOV. 6.

Election at Camp Upton Had to be Postponed Until Then.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, Yaphank, L. I., Oct. 30.—Election Day for the New York City division, which was first set officially for Saturday, Nov. 3, has been postponed until the more conventional date of Tuesday, Nov. 6. It was denied at divisional headquarters that the change of date was because an early voting at Camp Upton might be construed as a straw vote for the coming municipal election. The reason assigned for the change was that the late arrival of the last recruits would make it impossible for all of the troops to be registered before Saturday.

Campaign workers welcome the postponement. The Fusionists have scheduled two big meetings for the nights of Nov. 2 and 5, at which Mayor Mitchel, Colonel Roosevelt, and Charles Evans Hughes are to speak. Democratic workers are arranging a meeting for Thursday night, when they hope Judge Hylan will be present to read a speech to the men, followed by a reception to the candidate in front of the Democratic headquarters tent at the base of Hill 77. Tomorrow both suffragists and anti-suffragists will invade the camp to hold street meetings in different parts of the cantonment.

While Socialist political meetings have been forbidden at Camp Upton, Socialist workers have been active among the men of the New York City division. Especially to recruits from the east side the Socialists have declared that Mr. Hillquit's election would result in Camp Upton's soldiers being returned to civil life. In one company of 250 men 69 were found with Socialistic tendencies. Few of these men, however, are registered voters. Out of the 30,000 men at camp about one-half have registered for the coming election.

THE GERMAN HEROLD SUPPORTS MITCHEL

Because, It Says, He Has Protected People of German Blood in Their Just Rights.

The New Yorker Herold, which claims the largest circulation among German-language newspapers published in the United States, explained yesterday why it is supporting Mayor Mitchel's re-election. In an editorial it pointed out that if the Mayor was defeated German votes would be held responsible, and German-Americans could not afford to take this responsibility. Under the caption "The Municipal Election," it denounced "professional agitators who wickedly try to turn the German people against a Mayor simply because he has been American through and through." It said, in part:

"An unscrupulous political coterie of men is now shown to be identified with sinister influences and working day and night to inflame the voters of German descent to vote against Mayor Mitchel because he has been loyal to his country, as every other man should be. As every German-American in New York knows, these politicians have never had any use for the German-Americans except around election time; they attempt to shoulder this job now on the German people by trying to agitate them through agitators and servile newspapers.

"No matter what Mitchel has or has not done, it is recognized throughout the country that, despite the fact that we are at war, the Mayor's administration has entirely protected our people of German blood in the full enjoyment of their rights as, for instance, in the creation of the Mayor's Advisory Committee, which is aiding the peaceful Germans in obtaining employment and earning a livelihood. In fact, the Mayor has frequently said that there is no better class in America than the loyal German-Americans. The German-Americans understand more easily the value of the liberties which our city has extended to all people in the midst of a bitter war, when they bring to mind the picture of the hardships, for instance, of Americans living in Germany.

"The German-Americans in New York are known all over America as patriotic and honest people whose chief concern is that good government shall survive in the city. Everywhere you hear it said that the people in all our American cities will attribute the defeat of Mitchel, if he is defeated, to a great extent to the German-Americans in New York. How shall we face such a charge when we know we all have been safe and secure in the possession of our homes, our positions, and our rights under the full protection of the Mayor, the splendid Police Department, and the home guard organized under his administration? We German-Americans who have lived in this country know we owe everything to our opportunities in America, no matter what we may have felt in the past, when our minds were agitated through the machinations of the elements who are trying to compel us to do their bidding so that they may derive all benefits."

Tips to Voters
No. 2

INFORM yourself on the campaign.

Go to the big independent mass meeting at Madison Square Garden to-night at eight, arranged by Non-Partisan organizations supporting HILLQUIT for Mayor.

Hear Dudley Field Malone and other non-Socialists on the significance of the City Campaign.

Hear why they are going to vote for HILLQUIT.

Amos Pinchot says: "Most of the people of this city have learned by bitter experience that they can expect nothing from either Tammany or the Republicans, or from a Fusion administration."

Dudley Field Malone says: "Mr. Hillquit advocates no separate peace for America, but the quickest possible peace that can be negotiated in the interests of the masses of all nations, with no forcible annexations or punitive indemnities. If this be Socialism, it is also sound Catholicism, Protestantism, Judaism and Americanism."

Rev. Norman M. Thomas says: "War itself is only the most horrible and dramatic of the many evil fruits of our present organized system of exploitation. Entirely apart from the so-called peace issue I think Mr. Hillquit's election must be of very great significance in the struggle for a new day."

J. A. Hopkins says: "I shall esteem it an honor to stand shoulder to shoulder with Mr. Hillquit in this battle for constitutional liberty, human welfare and the preservation of our democratic ideals."

The RAPE of BELGIUM

HUGH GIBSON, first Secretary of our Legation in Brussels, now that the ban of American neutrality is lifted, is able to give us for the first time his own personal diary of Germany's occupation of Belgium.

From his close-up position in the wings he watched the setting of the historic stage, the dramatic rise of the curtain, and then the full sweep of the fearful tragedy. His day by day jottings simply but graphically make you live over with him the dynamic happenings of those unreal days. Gibson's diary, prosaically titled "A Journal From Our Legation in Belgium," begins publication in The Tribune of Sunday, November 4th. It is perhaps the most gripping narrative that has appeared since Europe burst into flames. If you but read the opening entries you'll want to follow it through day by day as it appears. It is going to give you some mighty enjoyable reading, so don't miss the beginning. Order your Tribune for next Sunday ahead of time and you won't be disappointed.

HUGH GIBSON
—witnessed King Albert's great speech of defiance.
—took over the German Legation when war was declared.
—was in Louvain during the burning and pillaging of this city.
—passed many times through the firing lines between the Germans and Belgians with American dispatches.
—was in Brussels when the Germans entered.
—had all manner of official and unofficial dealings with the Germans.
—had many opportunities to see King Albert both in the field under shell fire and behind the lines.
—spent 48 hours trying to save Miss Cavell. He argued, pleaded, and finally threatened, without effect.

REGULATIONS AIMED AT FOOD HOARDERS

Administrator Is to Announce Rules Limiting Licenses to 60-Day Supply.

RESTRICTION ON SALES ALSO

Placarding of Cold Storage Goods and Marking with Dates Are to be Compulsory.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Regulations designed to check hoarding of food are soon to be issued by the Food Administration in connection with its system of licensing dealers.

The Food Administration announced today that no licensee would be permitted to "keep on hand or have in possession or under control by contract or other arrangement, at any time, any food commodities in a quantity in excess of the reasonable requirements of his business for use or sale by him during the period of sixty days."

Moreover, no licensee will be permitted to "sell or deliver to any person any food commodities if the licensee knows, or has reason to believe, that such a sale or delivery will give to such person a supply * * * in excess of his reasonable requirements for use or sale by him during the period of sixty days next succeeding such sale or delivery." With respect to some commodities only a thirty-day supply may be held.

Exceptions are made of commodities produced in great abundance at certain seasons, such as fruits, vegetables, fish, poultry, eggs, dairy products and cottonseed products. These may be held in sufficient quantities to meet reasonable requirements throughout the period of scant or no production.

Excess Sales to Government.

Sales in excess of sixty days' supply may be made for the use of the United States Government or the Allies, or for city and State Governments.

It also is provided that for seeding purposes food commodities may be stored longer than sixty days if notice is sent to the Food Administration.

Special regulations for cold storage houses will be put in force by the Food Administration Thursday, when distribution of the most important foodstuffs will go under license.

Poultry, eggs, butter, and fish stored thirty days or more cannot be sold as fresh, and will not be permitted to go on sale unless marked with a placard "cold-storage goods." All fresh meat, fresh meat products, fresh fish, game, poultry, eggs, and butter must be marked with the date on which they are placed in storage and their date of release. No warehouse will be permitted to store any tainted foods.

Classification of Warehouses.

To check speculation, the Food Administration will limit loans and advances by storage warehousemen to their patrons. Warehouses will be classified as public or private, and those storing goods on their own account as well as for the public will be required to take out also dealers' licenses.

All warehouses will be required to file schedules of their rates with the Food Administration.

"The purpose of the regulations," it was said at the Food Administration today, "is to strengthen the legitimate warehousemen by bringing the operation of all storage concerns out into the open and preventing those who patronize the warehouses from taking advantage of opportunities for speculation. It is not believed that the practices aimed at are general, but rather that they have been indulged in only by the few who have abused the system."

Preliminary search of storage warehouses has failed thus far to disclose food hoarding to any appreciable extent. The investigation by the Secret Service and the Food Administrator is still proceeding.

WOOD ALCOHOL SOLD AS LIQUOR KILLS SIX

POLICE SEIZE 100 FLASKS

Owner Says He Bought Spirits from Peddler, Who Said It Was Fit to Drink.

Six men died in Bellevue and St. Vincent's Hospitals yesterday after drinking wood alcohol sold to them as liquor by Antonio di Alfonzo, an Italian Saloonkeeper of 153 Bleecker Street. After the sixth man had been taken to the hospital from the Mills Hotel at 160 Bleecker Street the police began an investigation, and sent out special policemen and detectives last night with warnings to the hotels and lodging houses in the neighborhood of the saloon to prevent further use of the alcohol. The police believe that as many as twenty or thirty men bought flasks of the wood alcohol, because it has been on sale for two days.

When the first man died in Bellevue Hospital from the effects of the poison early yesterday morning, a report was made to the Coroner's office, and policemen at once began a search for the saloon where the flasks were being sold. At the Mills Hotel it was learned that the man was a porter in the saloon of di Alfonzo, but before the police could trace the source of the poison two other men had been taken to Bellevue Hospital, where they died.

While detectives were questioning di Alfonzo two other men were taken to St. Vincent's Hospital from the Mills Hotel with flasks of the same shape and size in their pockets, and when the deaths were reported to the Coroner's office di Alfonzo was arrested on a charge of homicide. The Italian said the poison had been sold to him by a peddler as alcohol "for to drink," and he had not known it was wood alcohol. He said he had bought four large jugs and several large bottles for $46, and had put it in flasks to sell to men from the Mills Hotel for about 50 cents a flask. Police say that about twenty or thirty bottles had been sold, but di Alfonzo said he had no idea of the number because he had begun to sell the new drink on Monday and then had been away on Tuesday.

About 100 flasks of the poison in the saloon were seized by the police and the place was closed to permit a careful examination of all the stock. The names of the dead men were: Charles Collins, a clerk; C. E. Jones, a teamster; Clinton Arnold, a salesman, and John C. Wilson and Elmer Smith, all from the Mills Hotel; and Patrick Cahill of 203 Bleecker Street.

DENIES ELECTRICITY WASTE

Edison Official Says Power Is Generated Especially for Signs.

John W. Lieb, Vice President of the New York Edison Company, said yesterday that dispatches from Washington were in error in saying that the reduction in use of electrically lighted signs would result merely in a waste of electricity. "All the electricity consumed by electric signs is specifically generated for that purpose," he said, "and would not be generated if it were not to be consumed, so there is no question of waste.

"The position taken by this company is that the question of the consumption of electricity is one which should be settled solely from the standpoint of the best interests of the nation, and we have urged no plan upon the Fuel Administrator, but have furnished all the facts at our disposal. Two leading considerations in the matter relate to the psychological effect on the public: First, the depressing effect of brightly lighted streets are partly darkened, and, second, the impression of waste if the electric signs are kept illuminated as they have been, even in spite of the fact that this lighting is produced by a relatively small consumption of coal."

MEXICO WANTS MORE GOLD.

Luis Cabrera to Visit Washington to Protest Against Embargo.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 30.—It become known definitely today that Luis Cabrera, former Minister of Finance, was soon to leave here for Washington, having obtained leave of absence from the lower house of Congress, of which he is a member, to carry out a commission for President Carranza.

Cabrera's mission is said to be connected with embassy affairs at Washington in an effort to obtain gold and the lifting of the embargo on such necessities as Mexico desires to import.

BASEBALL SITUATION INDICATES PROBABILITY OF THIRD MAJOR LEAGUE NEXT SEASON

THIRD BIG LEAGUE MAY SETTLE SUIT

FAVORS A NEW CIRCUIT

With Johnson and Baltimore Officials Amicable Another Organization May Be Formed.

The recent action of the National League in granting to President John K. Tener full power to negotiate the settlement of the Baltimore Federal League's suit for $900,000 and also in the adjustment of the Federal League peace compact claims, it is believed may result in a settlement of the former matter by the formation of a third major league.

Further indications of a tendency toward a new league are contained in a statement made by B. B. Johnson, President of the American League, in Chicago yesterday, in which he said: "A new league might benefit the game during the war, and it should be a war measure exclusively. It is a certainty that the minor leagues will have to make some adjustments next season in order to get by. They cannot go on as they have in the past."

It is not improbable that the Federal League affairs will be adjusted without further court action, because of the attitude of the Baltimore Federal League officials, who have consented to a compromise in the event of a third major league. President Thomas J. Hickey of the American Association has called a meeting of his league to ascertain whether any of his clubs were going to join the third major league.

President Hickey said yesterday: "It looks to me as if Louisville, Indianapolis, Toledo, and Columbus would quit the association and join with four International League clubs in the organization of a third major league. I understand that the National and American Leagues are in favor of the proposed new circuit, as the former owners of the defunct Baltimore Federal League Club have promised to drop their suit for $900,000 against organized ball provided they receive a major league franchise."

The Federal League tangle has become complicated, and an adjustment of some kind will be necessary before another season starts. Organized ball has held up the payments to Harry F. Sinclair, Edward W. Gwinner of Pittsburgh, and the Wards of Brooklyn, as was agreed in the peace negotiations a couple of years ago, because the Baltimore Club failed to carry out its part of the agreement and brought suit against organized ball.

Meanwhile the Federal League has been placed in the position of defendant as well as plaintiff, for Mordecai Brown, former manager of the St. Louis Federals, has asked that a receiver be appointed for the organization, to effect a settlement of his contract. Recently Vincent Campbell of the Newark Feds was awarded a five-thousand-dollar judgment against Harry F. Sinclair.

Brown's suit for a receivership may clear the atmosphere, as it may lead to an adjustment of all the affairs of the league which are now hanging fire. Brown seeks a legal dissolution of the Federal League and the appointment of a receiver for its assets, which he charges were taken over by the clubs of the National and American Leagues.

Vesting absolute power in President Tener marks a new era in the National League. Heretofore the National League has conducted its affairs as a body of eight club owners, a policy which has often resulted in anything but harmony. The older league has been noted for its wrangles among rival club owners, while in the American League the one-man power of Ban Johnson has usually resulted in quick action in that organization.

In placing its affairs in the hands of President Tener the league puts at rest all rumors that the former Governor of Pennsylvania would retire from the game when his term expired in December. He was elected four years ago, but served only in an advisory capacity during his first year, while he was still Governor. As the Federal League adjustment is the most important affair with which organized ball will have to deal before another season comes around, President Tener's appointment to carry on the league's negotiations alone is taken as a sure indication that he will be re-elected in December.

LONG SCHEDULE FAVORED.

Comiskey Against Any Change in Baseball List of Games.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—The question of a shorter playing schedule for the major leagues and the possibility of a third major league as a war measure was revived today with the return of B. B. Johnson, President of the American League.

There will, however, be opposition to the proposed 140-game schedule, as Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, has already expressed his disapproval of any shorter schedule than 154 games. It is said that two other club owners in the American League also will oppose a short schedule.

KOLEHMAINEN OUT OF RUN.

Finn May Not Defend Ten-Mile National Title.

The official list of entries for the ten-mile run and seven-mile walk national championship competitions, which will be held at Macomb's Dam Park next Saturday, was announced yesterday. While the names of many prominent athletes are missing from the list, the calibre and past performances of those received indicate that the events will not lack anything from a competitive standpoint.

Although it has not been definitely settled yet, it is unlikely that Hannes Kolehmainen, the Finnish distance runner, will be among the starters in the ten-mile run event. The Finn is at present working up State, and he may be unable to get away. His absence will be felt, for he has been victorious in the event for the last four years. Jimmy Henigan, the Boston runner, and holder of the junior national championship, is another whose participation is as yet problematical. A letter has been sent him, but no reply has been received by the local officials.

The most formidable contenders loom up in Villar Kyronen of the Millrose A. A., another Finnish athlete, and Charles Pores, also of the Millrose A. A., who has shown up strongly at this distance in various other races.

The walking championship will lose its most prominent contender in Dick Remer, the veteran pedestrian, and Eddie Renz, fifteen-mile national champion. Both are members of the New York Athletic Club, and are prohibited from taking part in championship competitions by an edict of the Winged Foot organization. Another who will not start is George Goulding of Toronto, Canada, national walking champion. The best of the walking field, therefore, appears to be Willie Plant of the Long Island A. C., metropolitan champion. The entries as announced yesterday are:

Ten-Mile Run—Willie Kyronen, Millrose A. A.; Charles Pores, Millrose A. A.; James Plant, Long Island A. C.; William Kennedy, Morningside A. C.; Hans Schuster, unattached; Terry Halpine, unattached; Louis Schmidt, Bronx Church House; Harry Spies, Morningside A. C.; John P. Knox, Home News A. A.

Seven-Mile Walk—William Plant, Long Island A. C.; Wm J. Rolker, unattached; Kurt Zulch, American Walkers' Association; J. Plecha, Mohawk A. C.; G. C. Trefry, Jr., unattached; Alexander Jessup, unattached; William F. Lane, unattached; Joe Aronson, Pastime A. C.; Louis Labowitz, Pastime A. C.; G. A. Braunlich, Long Island A. C.

FORDHAM BEGINS BIG DRIVE.

Maroon Eleven Starts Practice for Georgetown Game.

The Fordham players started a big drive for the Georgetown game yesterday afternoon. A hard workout was obtained, despite the rain and the soggy field on which the Maroon practiced.

With Monday a day of rest, Coach McCaffery had no wish to let the elements interfere with his plans. Following a long punting and signal drill the 'Varsity and scrub elevens lined up for a battle in the mud. After fifteen minutes hard going the regulars, with Erwig carrying the ball, skidded to a single touchdown.

Fusch, Brennan, and Fogarty were not out for practice. Abbott, the chunky lineman, who played well against Rutgers, was in at guard. Coletti and Galligan filled the vacant places in the back field.

A number of new formations were taught the players for the Election Day game. These were gone over, and more frequently under, on the slippery field, and then were tried out against the second team. The players were in good shape and worked until darkness.

Manager Delehanty wired to Colgate yesterday for a game with the up-Staters at Fordham Field on Thanksgiving Day. No reply had been received last night. The two elevens have met many times on the diamond, but have never clashed on the gridiron.

COLUMBIA STAYS IN GYM.

Metcalf Puts His Charges Through Forward Pass Drill.

With South Field a lake of mud, Coach Metcalf put the Columbia 'Varsity and freshman football squads through a practice drill in the gymnasium yesterday. Mason, coach of Stuyvesant High, brought his eleven to Columbia and gave the Blue and White 'Varsity some snappy indoor practice on both the offensive and defensive of forward passing. After spending an hour at that, several new formations which may be used against Amherst on Saturday were tried out.

Houlahan and Shaw did not report. They are still resting up from the ordeal of the Williams game.

Coachman McCabe had the freshman eleven tuning up its signals. Allen Mills has been chosen to take the place of Stewart, who has been playing regularly at quarter, but who dropped because of an injury. Mills ran the yearlings with a good deal of snap considering his greenness. Kienninger, acting Captain, and Laskey, the best half back among the freshmen, did not report to McCabe because of muscle bruises.

N. Y. U. TRIES NEW PLAYS.

Coach Wall Begins Preparation for the Trinity Game.

The New York University football team yesterday had its first practice since the Union game. In spite of the weather Coach Wall put the players through a long drill. There was no scrimmage, but the signal practice which took its place was strenuous.

Early in the afternoon Wall gave the men a talk in the gymnasium, and by means of blackboard diagrams pointed out the bad points of the Saturday game. He then outlined a few new open formations. He is gradually replacing his old plays with a system of open-work formations, and is centring all his attention upon such tactics for the Trinity game on Election Day, the next fray for the Violet.

After giving the theory of the new plays the men were sent outdoors, and there the plays were given an initial tryout. Following this the 'Varsity and scrub and freshman teams spent the remainder of the time in signal drill. The ball and the field were slippery, but the regulars showed up well in spite of these obstacles. Finley, the left end, yesterday distinguished himself by catching some difficult forward passes. His handling of the wet ball pleased Coach Wall and indicated that in the future Gardiner, the right end, who has done the major forward pass work to date, will have a worthy running mate in aerial tactics. Egan was not in the regular lineup yesterday. He has the grip, and is not expected to appear on the field before another week.

It was learned yesterday that Alderman, the freshman quarter back, whose generalship led the rookies to victory against Commerce on Saturday, has been drafted and will appear no more for practice.

LEADING PREP TEAMS MEET.

De Witt Clinton and Stuyvesant to Play at Polo Grounds.

The attention of those interested in scholastic football will be riveted next Saturday on the game to be played at the Polo Grounds between the Stuyvesant and De Witt Clinton High School teams. This contest will bring together the two leading scholastic elevens of the city. To the victorious eleven will be conceded an excellent chance of finishing the season with the championship. The De Witt Clinton eleven recently was forced to reorganize because of holes made in the team through accidents, but with new faces in the lineup the eleven shows up strongly.

Harvard Students on Committee.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 30.—Robert E. Gross, manager of the informal football team; Andrew F. Tribble, manager of the crew, and Norman S. Walker, Jr., Captain of the 1920 hockey team, have been appointed to the Committee on the Regulation of Athletics at Harvard.

Kinsley on A. A. U. Ballot.

John J. Walsh, Pastime A. C., Chairman of the Nominating Committee of the Metropolitan Association of the A. A. U., yesterday reported that the committee had agreed upon E. Wetmore Kinsley of the Hollywood Inn A. A. of Yonkers as its nomination to fill the vacancy on the Registration Committee, caused by the resignation of James Clark, former Chairman. Clark recently accepted an appointment as physical instructor at the Camp Upton army Y. M. C. A. Kinsley's name was submitted by Secretary Herman Obertubbesing to the Board of Managers of the Metropolitan Association for a mail vote, which will close on Nov. 12.

FOOTBALL POPULAR UNDER WAR STATUS

Secretary Baker's Recommendation for Wide Participation Finds Ready Response.

When Secretary of War Baker last Summer asked the delegates of the National Collegiate Athletic Association to foster sports in a manner which would encourage the largest number of students to make themselves physically fit, many of the college officials were skeptical about whether such a plan could be carried out successfully. The football season has shown that such a plan was possible, for there are now hundreds of young men playing the game who would not have taken up the sport in the colleges if the old conditions existed.

In spite of the fact that three of the leading universities have abolished 'Varsity football, hundreds of students are playinging interclass football for the pure physical advantages it gives. Secretary Baker called the attention of the college men last Summer to the fact that the big, strong men in the colleges received all the attention in being trained for football, at the expense of the majority of students.

"There are not enough star athletes in the colleges to fill our armies," said Secretary Baker. "What the nation requires is that all our young men attending school shall have the benefit of physical training so as to develop their bodies and make them proper material for filling the armies of the country in the present emergency."

Conditions this Fall have encouraged many students to take up football who would never have ventured on the practice field if the gridiron stars had held a monopoly of all the positions. Their absence has encouraged more second-string players to come out for the teams and others who never before would take a chance at playing the game. While the intercollegiate competition is not so keen as it was when Harvard, Yale, and Princeton held the limelight in the football arenas, nevertheless more football is being played than ever before.

Football has become the leading sport at all of the cantonments. Every man who played the game at college is playing it in the army camps and has encouraged great numbers of soldiers to take up the game, who never played before. Also many veterans, who have not donned a football suit for years, have taken up the sport again.

So popular has football become that the Commission on Training Camp Activities is planning a schedule of games to be played between all the big cantonments, in a series of elimination contests, so that a championship of the camps can be decided.

SPORT SECOND TO MILITARY

Princeton Decides All Players Must Drill for War.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 30.—Athletics at Princeton this year will be on a military basis similar to the system at Yale. Men will have to take part in the drill work here or be connected with some military activity in order to be allowed to participate in any sports. All teams with the exception of freshman football and crew squads have been asked by President Hibben to hold practice on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, reserving Monday and Wednesday for the drill. These two squads will be allowed to finish the present season, but all Winter and Spring sports will come under the new rule.

The Executive Committee of the Athletic Association has not made its decision as to whether Princeton shall take part in any more contests this Fall. It was denied that there had been any negotiations for a game with the Maine "heavies" at the Polo Grounds on Nov. 10, as was announced several days ago. Princeton has invitations to play several more contests, but has not replied to any.

There is general satisfaction with the informal game on Saturday. It required no worry or hard work on the part of the players and it was just as satisfactory from the spectators' point of view as a contest between two highly trained teams.

HARVARD TEAMS ARE IDLE.

Rain Prevents Scrimmage for Freshmen and 'Varsity.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 30.—The anticipated scrimmage for the Harvard team today was prevented by rain. Neither the 'Varsity nor the freshmen were out. The regulars had a long session at the blackboard in the locker building, and then spent the remainder of the afternoon running through plays in the baseball cage.

This afternoon Dan O'Connor, Captain of last year's team at Georgetown, reported to the Charlestown Navy Yard team coaches on Soldiers' Field. He probably will play tackle Saturday for the sailors against Camp Devens in the Stadium.

STEVENS HOLDS SCRIMMAGE

Despite Wet Field Hoboken Team Has Long Practice.

Despite bad weather the Stevens Institute football squad put in a full afternoon of practice at Castle Point Field yesterday. With the exception of Carlson and Goodale, who have been nursing "charley horses" since the game with Middlebury last week, the regulars were all in tiptop condition, and they slopped around on the slippery field in a rough-and-tumble scrimmage with the scrub, getting their plays perfected for the game with Worcester Poly on Saturday.

Olcott to Coach Naval Reserves.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 30.—Herman Olcott, head football coach at the University of Kansas, today was chosen Director of Athletics at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. He has been given leave of absence from the university for the duration of the war. Olcott was a former Yale star.

NAVAL TEAM IN YALE BOWL.

Cupid Black's Eleven to Play at New Haven Saturday.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 30.—Arrangements are being completed for a football game in the Yale Bowl Saturday between the Newport Naval Station team, under the leadership of Cupid Black, Captain of Yale's triumphant team of last year, and a team from one of the army posts, probably the heavy Maine Artillery team.

Black has a formidable array of former gridiron stars on his team. In the backfield Charley Barrett, former quarter back at Cornell and All-America choice by most of the critics of the country, plays alongside of Gerrish, who gained fame at Dartmouth; Devitalis, whose brilliant playing both on the line and in the backfield at Brown last year was one of the big assets of the Providence team, and Howard Miller, the Columbia University quarter back, who recently was called into service. This backfield already gives promise of upsetting any kind of opposition, as it possesses speed and line-plunging ability. Barrett is a great punter and Miller has made an enviable record as a dropkicker.

Schlacter, a Brooklyn boy, who made a reputation as a guard on Syracuse, is another player on Blake's team, and probably will play one guard, with Black at the other.

The proceeds of the game are to be divided between the Army and Navy Commissions on Athletics to purchase equipment for the various sports at the training posts. Walter Camp, head of athletics in the naval stations, said that games probably would be played in the Harvard and Pennsylvania stadiums on the same day. At Harvard the Boston Navy Yard team will meet an eleven from Camp Devens, while at Pennsylvania the League Island team, under Ned Mahan, former Harvard star, is expected to be one of the contestants.

PENN STATE IS JUBILANT.

Defeat of West Virginia Wesleyan Increases Prestige of Team.

STATE COLLEGE, Penn., Oct. 30.—Followers of Penn State's football fortunes are jubilant because of the fighting spirit displayed by the eleven against West Virginia Wesleyan. In the face of almost certain defeat, the Blue and White players fought to the last whistle, and were rewarded with a hard-earned victory. Their opponents were a powerful and versatile aggregation, who had the advantage of seven points during three-quarters of the stiffest struggle seen here in recent years.

Charlie Way's 45-yard dash for the winning touchdown in the last half minute of play decided the issue. The Downingtown boy played a finished game in his first experience as a 'Varsity quarter back. By reason of his strong defensive work back of the line, Gross is slated to return to his place at full back, where he will probably be found in the Dartmouth game Saturday.

POWER BOAT OWNERS MEET.

Only One New Officer Elected in National Body.

Only one change was made in the official family of the American Power Boat Association at the annual meeting of that body at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel yesterday afternoon, and that was necessitated by the war. Reuben Clark, formerly official timer for the organization, is enlisted in the naval service, and Harry Sampson, Jr., was elected to take his place. The officers who were unanimously re-elected were A. L. Judson, President; C. P. Tower, Secretary; George C. Krusen, Treasurer; F. K. Lord, Measurer, and F. W. Horenburger, Surveyor.

No dates were allotted for the coming year because of the uncertainty of sports in general, and only one club announced that it would hold a regatta. That was the Toronto Motor Boat Club, which was admitted to membership and promised to hold a regatta in which a valuable challenge trophy would be put up. The regatta of the Canadian organization is to be similar to that annually held by the Thousand Islands Yacht Club.

In the official changes of the constitution the Racing Committee was vested with power to withhold sanctions for regattas should it see fit. The Racing Committee received absolute power to determine the fitness of a course and to decide whether the turns on a course were suitable for racing. It was further ordered that all courses should be measured by statute miles and not by nautical miles, as in the past.

The Treasurer's report showed the association in a splendid condition financially, with a large balance in the bank and no obligations. The Secretary reported that there were 141 clubs in the association last year, that seven dropped out and eight were admitted, leaving 142 active members now. Fifty clubs were represented at the meeting by delegates. All the clubs were asked to send in the lists of members now in active service that an honor roll could be compiled.

MUD LARKS REVEL ON SODDEN TRACK

Small Fields Compete in Heavy Going at Laurel—Favorites Are Withdrawn.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 30.—Only mudders had any chance of success on the sloppy track today and in consequence the two principal races were so affected by scratches that there was little competition in either. The Marine Liberty Bond purse for three-year-olds, in which $1,500 was added, had only four entries originally, and the scratches reduced it to a two-horse race, with S. C. Hildreth's Deckmate opposing J. K. L. Ross' Priscilla Mullens. The latter was a topheavy favorite and Lyke had no difficulty in landing the long end of the purse with her.

Westy Hogan, Top o' the Morning, and numerous other crack sprinters had entered for the Blue and Gray Handicap at six furlongs, but all but four of the fourteen named were withdrawn. J. E. Widener's imported Naturalist, which had previously shown a liking for heavy going, was installed an odds-on favorite over the Brighton entry, St. Isidore and Milkman. With Keogh in the saddle, Naturalist showed the way from the break and at the finish was galloping to beat Water Lady. St. Isidore proved the better of the Brighton pair and took third money.

The going was responsible for a reversal of form in the opening race for two-year-olds. Robert L. Gerry's Miss Filley, which had run disappointingly in all her previous starts, was at home in the soft dirt and splashed to the front with two other outsiders, Green Grass and Golding, following her.

The summaries:

FIRST RACE.—For two-year-olds; claiming; purse $700; five and a half furlongs. Time—1:12 4-5.

STORM MARS HUNT RACES.

Two Rose Tree Events Canceled—Small Fields in Others.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 30.—With an icy wind blowing from the northwest the final meeting by the Rose Tree Hunt was run off at Media today in the presence of about seventy-five spectators. The scratches were so numerous that in the first race there were only three contestants. Dido, owned by H. Merion, led from start to finish over the six-furlong course. Jim, the entry of M. A. McKenna, finished in second place about thirty lengths behind.

The second and fifth races were cancelled, none of the owners of the horses entered being willing to risk their animals to the dangers of the course.

In the third race there were only four entries and they remained bunched very closely throughout the two miles. Eagle Thistle, the entry of George Prooke, 3d, came through by a length with Brazenose second.

BOXING PAGEANT OFFERED.

Five Bouts Between Ring Leaders at Manhattan A. C. Tonight.

A galaxy of ring stars will appear this evening at the Manhattan A. C., in a series of five six-round bouts, which have been arranged by the officials of the club. One champion, an ex-champion, and several leading contenders for titular honors will be among the participants. Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, will box in the main affair against Johnny Lustig, a worthy opponent from the east side. Freddie Welsh, former holder of the lightweight title, will have for an opponent Jimmy Paul, a local lad. This will be Welsh's first appearance in the ring since he lost his title to Leonard several months ago. He is endeavoring to obtain another match with the present champion.

Irish Patsy Cline, the fast and clever Harlem lightweight, will box Young Rector of Jersey City in another six-round event, and Frankie Callahan, a Brooklyn boxer, will oppose Harry Condon, also of Brooklyn, in another contest. This bout will serve to give local enthusiasts a line on Callahan's ability for his bout against Leonard on Friday night. The other bout will bring together Soldier Bartfield, the aggressive Brooklyn welterweight, and Ted Kelly of Harlem.

DUNDEE HAS SLIGHT MARGIN OVER DUFFY

Italian Again Gains Verdict in Bout, but with Less to Spare.

Johnny Dundee scored his second victory over Jimmy Duffy, the west side lightweight, in their return engagement of ten rounds last night at the Pioneer Sporting Club, but the Italian boxer's margin of points at the final bell was by no means as convincing as was the case in their previous meeting. Dundee's showing on the whole was something of a disappointment to his many admirers. Duffy, on the other hand, boxed in his usual aggressive style and, plodding along almost mechanically, gave a good account of himself, holding his own in many of the exchanges.

Especially in the earlier rounds did the west side lad show up strongly, for in the opening three sessions Duffy stood willingly and swapped blows with his more prominent adversary. The contest to this stage was mostly infighting, with each man doing effective work, although Dundee managed to land the cleaner blows. Intermittently, too, the Italian boxer brought his cleverness into play against the sturdy west side boxer, and in this department Dundee clearly excelled.

The Italian shifted his mode of attack in the fourth, and began popping Duffy with a stiff left-hand jab, alternated with a right cross to the side of the face. With this offensive Dundee had his rival in a quanadry, and most of Duffy's attempts went wide of their intended mark. In the fifth session, and thereafter until the eighth, Dundee gave flashes of the ability of which he is capable and hammered Duffy at will. At times, in fact, Dundee just stood off and measured his opponent for a right-hand blow to the face.

From the eighth session to the final bell, however, Dundee failed to make a visible impression on Duffy. The Italian seldom used his right hand, and when he did it brought a grimace of pain to his face, sending abroad the impression that the hand had been injured when some of his previous attempts at the body had landed on Duffy's protruding arms. The west side lad kept plodding along, and always went to close quarters against Dundee's left-hand jab or hook. In the closing three rounds Duffy cut down his opponent's lead somewhat, and the final bell found Dundee the winner by an unimpressive margin.

Colleges to Pay War Tax.

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 30.—The Athletic Associations of Dartmouth and the University of Pennsylvania will pay the 10 per cent. war tax on the tickets for the annual football game to be played on Braves' Field, instead of making an extra charge to ticket holders, it was announced today. The tax amounts to 11, 14, and 26 cents for the three classes of tickets.

Yes; it is true that the English are more frankly sentimental than we, more simply emotional. To us a comedy is a play to make you laugh, and if there are tears to shed they are furtive tears. Our kinsmen over seas love gentle feeling and all the simpler, tenderer motions of the spirit for their own sake, and are content if the laughs are few and incidental. When we go in at all for this emotional stuff we make it strong.

In the hands of an American playwright "The Old Country" would probably have developed into tense emotional drama, a regular three handkerchief play. James Fountain is an illegitimate son, whose mother has been driven out of the English village in which he was born by the guardians of respectability. Growing up in American slums, lumber towns, and mining camps, he has nursed a bitter hatred of his mother's persecutors. In the prime of life, having made a fortune, he returns to the place of his birth and, by the clever use of his money, is able to ruin the local doctor and clergyman and squire who drove his mother to America. And then he realizes that his revenge is bitterest of all to himself.

The village girl whom he has grown to love, and who loves him, turns her back. His neighbors, at first won by his genial liberality, are aghast at him. Most of all his mother is wounded. He had thought to please her by it all, and has bought the manor house for her to queen it in. But she was born a serving woman, and a serving woman she remains, painfully ill at ease in her grand surroundings. Moreover, it was in this house that she loved and lost, and the ejected owner of it is her old lover, Fountain's father.

And so we come to the great scene. In the moment in which Fountain's revenge is triumphant she revolts from him and makes him feel his cruelty to people who, though they have been severe with her, are after all honest and well-meaning. Fountain awakes from his triumph of revenge to realize that he has lost everything, even the respect of the two women he loves above all else. Then comes the final act of reconciliation, of mutual understanding, and of deepening bonds of affection. There would not be a dry cheek in the house if the sympathetic heart interest were developed to the full as emotional drama.

The English play, now on view in Thirty-ninth Street, sounds few of the depths of feeling, passing lightly along the surface of obvious sentiment and romance. No washtub will be busier next Monday for its coming. The original version by Dion Calthrop, in fact, as Mr. Faversham confessed in his curtain speech, was of doubtful vigor and viability. He had given it up as hopeless when the happy thought occurred to him to call in Dr. George Broadhurst, who is himself an Englishman by birth, though an American by profession.

A new Broadhurst version and a road tour brought the play to its present state of health. The metaphor is Mr. Faversham's, and he is authority for the statement that the patient is now convalescent—in fact cured.

At the worst estimate, the play tells an amiable, agreeable, and wholesome story about people one would quite love if one met them in real life. On the stage, however, it may seem rather sentimental and thin, and all in an English manner that has never been appreciated here as it no doubt deserves.

Mr. Faversham's performance intensifies the impression of superficial sentiment and romance. As depicted in the lines of the play and in what he does, this James Fountain is a man of bitter passions and rough hatreds. His life on the frontier would inevitably have left a strange accent upon his speech and manner.

The fundamental rightness of heart which eventually proved his salvation lies deep within, in a region which, in his busy, forceful life, he has never had time to explore. Mr. Faversham's manner and speech are what they always have been—graceful, suave, romantically picturesque. It is pleasant to see and hear him; but in glozing over the rough surface of the character he has detracted unmistakably from its vigor, and from the vigor of the play.

The supporting cast were capable but by no means remarkable, even that admirable actor, Russ Whytal, suffering a temporary eclipse. But the three scenes were in excellent taste, at once rich and simple.

THE LETZ STRING QUARTET.

Successful Appearance of a New Chamber Music Organization.

The Letz String Quartet made its first appearance last evening in Aeolian Hall, where it was welcomed by a considerable and friendly audience with much warmth. This new addition to the city's chamber music organization is one of the latest and most promising results of the good seed planted by the Kneisel Quartet in its long career. Mr. Letz, as all music lovers know, was the second violin of the Kneisel Quartet in the last years of its existence, he has associated with himself as first violin in the new quartet, Sander Harmati, second violin; Edward Kreiner, viola, and Gerald Maas, 'cello.

These four showed themselves last evening skillful players individually, and possessed of the true spirit of chamber music—equal co-operation and subordination to the end of perfect ensemble. Mr. Letz's quality has long been known from his work in the older organization. The ideals that he shared in that it is evidently his purpose to implant in the quartet he has now formed. In the matter of style, in the details of ensemble, in finish, tonal balance and beauty of tone a high level has been aimed at

For the first concert of a new string quartet a remarkably high level was reached. Perfection of ensemble, or a measurable approach to it, is a matter of slow growth, not to be arrived at over night by taking thought. hTe performance of the Letz Quartet last evening was one that could rejoice the soul of the lover of chamber music, not only for what it was, but for what it promised.

The program included Haydn's quartet in G, Op. 64, No. 4, not one of the most familiar, which was played with delightful animation and spirit. Beethoven's in F minor, Op. 95, wherein Mr. Letz showed an especial authority, and the organization as a whole a fine feeling for style; and a quartet in E flat, Op. 4, by Leo Weiner. His name is unfamiliar to many in New York. He is a young Hungarian, pupil of the Academy of Music in Budapest, and now or recently a teacher there. His quartet is a work of much charm, though not always wholly original and not aiming at gravity or power. There is much graceful and sparkling fancy manifested in it, expressed without straining after originality, and the writing for the stringed instruments is extremely skillful. Though the composer is Hungarian, the musical influences at work in his music seem much more Bohemian; there is in the second and fourth movements respectively more than a suggestion of Dvorak and Smetana. The new organization was put to a severe test of its skill in playing Weiner's work, for it is extremely difficult in ensemble and in intonation.

'THE LOVE DRIVE' A TAME COMEDY

BUILT ON AN OLD MODEL

Romance for All of the Characters, Regardless of Their Ages, in Sydney Rosenfeld's Play.

Ernestien Waite	Violet Heming
Mrs. Jepson	Hilda Spong
Mrs. Gramercy Harden	Zeffie Tilbury
Laura Bridgman	Beth Franklyn
Celia Bridgman	Eileen Wilson
Cosette	Lea Penman
Bruce Markham	Fred Niblo
Tom Bridgman	Arthur Laceby
Oliver Croyston	Albert Gran
Lykens	Douglas Patterson
Footman	Cy Weaver

"The Love Drive" is the somewhat enigmatical title of a comedy by Sydney Rosenfeld which had its first performance hereabouts last night at the Criterion Theatre. It takes its name from the ways and means resorted to by a Southern gallant to compel the lady of his choice to accept him, and by means of a long approach the rather tenuous tale of the hero's lovemaking is spun over four acts. It is comedy which is never very robust and generally dull, and the case is aggravated by the fact that the hero is such a thorough nuisance that it is a distinct disappointment to see him fold the heroine in his arms as the final curtain falls.

No particular reason, except the necessity of having a play, is advanced for Ernestine Waite's refusal to accept Bruce Markham some time before the first act began. However, she refused him, and he followed her North, with all his wiles and glibness, and besieged her for four rather lifeless acts. In the third act, as was to have been expected, he invades her bedroom, and in this act there crops out the suggestion of an idea, which, however, is not permitted to show its head for long. Markham's attempt to compromise the lady proves a boomerang, and momentarily he is discomfited, but the fourth act, for some unexplained reason, finds him just as buoyant, assertive, and generally objectionable as he was all along.

The play is built on rather an old model, being the type of piece in which there is romance for all concerned, regardless of their ages. Thus the widow of 40 weds her white-haired but persistent suitor; another middle-aged couple who were on the brink of separating think better of it, and there is a hint of romance for the ingenue as well. The play suffers considerably from the sameness of these various episodes, as well as the author's lack of ingenuity in developing his main story.

The company includes the ingratiating Fred Niblo, who does everything possible to make a likable chap out of the hero. In the vernacular, however, the hero is a smart aleck, and the most satisfactory moments of the play are those in which he is scored upon. The leading feminine rôle is played by Violet Heming, who is both pretty and capable. Albert Gran was amusing in the sort of rôle usually associated with Walter Jones, and Hilda Spong worked hard as the widow of 40. The settings are in excellent taste.

'BROKEN THREADS' PLEASES

BROKEN THREADS, a drama in a prologue and three acts, by Ernest Wilkes. At the Fulton Theatre.

Murphy	John Jo Ward
Bill	Daniel E. Hanlon
George	Burr Caruth
John Brenton	William H. Pringle
Harry Wynn	Cyril Keightley
Dorothy Darrell	E. Phoebe Hunt
Dick Brenton	William Roselle
Durant	Alfred Hesse
General Creighton	Robert Cummings
William Budlong	Paul Stanton
Freddie Creighton	Harry Redding
Jule Creighton	Florence Carpenter
Robert Beekman	Francis Byrne
Mike Daly	Guy Hitner
Bell Boy	Marshall Mercury

A well-pleased audience left the Fulton Theatre last night after the opening performance of "Broken Threads," a play in three acts and a prologue, by Ernest Wilkes. The play is of the popular novel type. The scene is laid in the California of the present day, with, however, the opportunity existing for an enterprising young prospector to find a mine worth $1,000,000 somewhere in the West.

The part of Harry Wynn, the prospector who finds the mine, was taken by Cyril Keightley, whose acting was enthusiastically approved by the people in the house whenever they had a chance to applaud. Miss Phoebe Hunt, who appeared as Dorothy Darrell, a cabaret singer, was likewise indorsed by the audience not only for her interpretation of the character but because of the musical voice in which she sang a number of songs as the entertainer in restaurants. The other members of the cast were good.

The scene of the prologue was the balcony of the Gaiety Restaurant in San Francisco. It quickly developed that John Brenton was such a political power in the city that he was able to command two plain clothes policemen to "frame up" Dorothy Darrell so that she would have to leave San Francisco and Dick Brenton, the boss's younger brother who had become a victim of the singer's charms.

The frameup was not necessary, however, because the younger Brenton, when he discovered that the girl had "thrown him over" in order to reform and marry Wynn, attempted to kill her, and was killed with his own revolver by Wynn defending the girl's life. When the cabaret singer insisted that she would stay in San Francisco and save Wynn by her testimony the plain clothes men, at John Brenton's direction, drugged her and put her on a ship bound for Australia. That was the end of the prologue.

The first act was five years later in a hotel in San Diego. Wynn had been sentenced to life imprisonment for murder, had escaped into "the desert," had discovered the mine, and was in the hotel under the assumed name of Jim Kendall just completing the sale of his mine for $1,000,000 to General Creighton, a wealthy mine owner. Events followed rapidly—and dramatically.

Dorothy Darrell was in the hotel singing professionally, she met Wynn, explained her disappearance after his arrest, and the broken threads of the romance were tied together. But Wynn was suspected, identified, and then arrested. At the climacteric moment General Creighton appeared, held a long-distance telephone conversation with the Governor of the State, who was his friend and political creation, and arranged for Wynn's pardon. Thus the same power behind the throne that led to the young man's downfall pulled him out of his pit.

The ending of the play was as happy as that of any novel, and the presentation and acting put life into the dangerously fictitious plot.

Soprano and Baritone in Recital.

Geraldine Marwick, soprano, and Burton Cornwall, baritone, gave a joint recital yesterday at the Princess Theatre before an audience as small as the weather was stormy. They sang a duet from the "Elijah," airs from "Ernani," and Bemberg's "La Mort de Jeanne d'Arc," and songs of Mozart, Schumann, Burleigh, and Mrs. Salter.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The title of the new revue at Raymond Hitchcock's Forty-fourth Street Theatre will be "Words and Music." Wellington Cross has been added to the cast.

"Over the Top," in which T. Roy Barnes and Justine Johnstone will be featured, will begin its engagement on the Forty-fourth Street Theatre Roof on Thursday night, Nov. 15.

The Washington Square Players, who begin their season tonight, will give their first matinee on Saturday. Thereafter matinees will be given Thursdays and Saturdays.

The Norworth Theatre, in Forty-eighth Street, will be opened on Monday night, Nov. 19. The first attraction will be Jack Norworth's musical revue, "Odds and Ends of 1917."

Those who will act here in the Dunsany play, "A Night at an Inn," are Lynn Pratt, Gerald Pring, Tracy Barrow, Maxwell Ryder, and Henri Russell. It will be produced on the same bill with "Service."

LORD NORTHCLIFFE BACK.

Praises American Railways After Tour of Middle West.

Lord Northcliffe returned to New York yesterday from his ten days' tour of the Middle West, and spoke in high praise of the comfort of the American railroads. It was such easy riding that it was not like traveling, he said.

On the trip Lord Northcliffe visited Cleveland, Chicago, Dayton, Ohio; St. Louis, and Kansas City, and delivered twenty addresses on the subjects of shipping, food, and the mistake it was for any one to imagine that this would be a short war. Up to the present time he had seen no reason to modify his opinion that the war would last for a long time. One of the meetings he enjoyed most was given before 200 newspaper editors in Kansas City, the majority of whom came from small towns.

Lord Northcliffe was accompanied on his tour by Colonel Campbell Stuart and other members of the British War Mission, of which he is Chairman.

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, OCT. 31, 1917.

THE HYLAN PLOT EXPOSED.

In an arraignment of JOHN F. HYLAN that makes CICERO's oration against CATILINE seem like a procession of stately compliments, Mayor MITCHEL last night faithfully and pitilessly kept his promise to lay bare the secret reasons for the support of HYLAN by the Staats-Zeitung and Mr. HEARST, exposed through the long stages of its development the plot to make the election of a Mayor of New York a means of giving encouragement and aid to the enemies of the United States, destroyed the candidate of these plotters against the safety and honor of the country, and delivered this city from the double peril of betrayal into the hands of Tammany for plunder and of the agents of the Kaiser for organized treason against the Government.

Of the art of formal oratory the Mayor's address shows no trace, but it breathes throughout the spirit of an art that is beyond all mastery save for him "who speaks right on the things he knows," the perfectly convincing presentation of evidence to prove a damning accusation. From the opening sentences in which he charged that "HYLAN is the candidate "of WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST, the "spokesman of the Kaiser in this "country," to the succession of terrible indictments with which he closed the address, the Mayor marshaled his proofs and specifications in an unbroken chain that binds the Tammany candidate to a group of German plotters, long notorious, and sledgehammers could not deliver him or them from its coils.

The city and the country owe Mr. MITCHEL a debt of gratitude for his exposure of this infamous and seditious plot. It is a deliverance for the city, for it is now impossible that any man who cherishes in his bosom one spark of loyalty to his country should cast his vote for JOHN F. HYLAN. He was picked and chosen for this nomination in order that, uniting some of the chief forces of disloyalty, his election might be made to seem a condemnation by this city of the war policy of the United States. There is more, far more, in this conspiracy than appears in the Mayor's marshaling of the facts. Why was this obscure Brooklyn lawyer raised to the post of Honorary Vice Chairman of the Friends of Peace, the traitorous organization that at its Chicago convention cheered the announcement that hundreds of lives had been lost by the destruction of an American steamship? Who brought him to the notice of the Friends of Peace? Who was his sponsor, then as now? The Mayor has made the motive of his nomination too plain for dispute. He is the candidate of the seditionaries, of those who would paralyze the arm of the Government raised to strike the blow for freedom and democracy.

HILLQUIT, the other candidate of the friends of a German peace, is destroyed, too, for Mr. MITCHEL's exposure of the Hylan plot will so rouse the loyal men of New York that they will defend the honor of the city and of the nation by an overwhelming vote on Election Day. The necessity of keeping the city out of the greedy hands of Tammany is still an issue in the contest, but the Mayor's revelations have again raised the issue of loyalty, of Americanism, to the first place. New York is not going to let itself be put in thrall by agents of the Kaiser.

An influential German-language newspaper, The Herold, appealed to its readers yesterday to support Mayor MITCHEL and denounced the conspirators who are striving to compass his defeat because of his loyal Americanism. It is a counsel of wisdom and of safety. There is much sound advice in The Herold's article which German-Americans who owe everything to the opportunities they have enjoyed in this country would do well to heed. Certainly any German-American who intends to live here, to do business here, will be exceedingly ill-advised if he consorts with plotters of sedition of the kind Mr. MITCHEL held up to the execration of the public in his speech last night. This country has a stern duty to perform, and it is going to deal as sternly with its enemies at home as with those abroad.

MR. ROOSEVELT IN THE CAMPAIGN.

Mr. ROOSEVELT is an old New Yorker who has been familiar with the City Government for years, and a conspicuous part of it in his time. He speaks from long study and first-hand knowledge when he says that for fifty years no Mayor "has been as efficient" in administering the City Government "on the principles of straight-out democracy" as Mr. MITCHEL.

Mr. ROOSEVELT is an American of the Americans. No man has insisted more strongly on Americanism as no matter of birth or descent, but of the heart, mind, and act. No man has a more catholic list of friends or a more generous conception of American patriotism. And few Americans have a heartier detestation of "the Prus-"sianized Germany that we are "fighting at this moment."

Singularly happy is Mr. ROOSEVELT's remark about the issue of national patriotism in the campaign:

> The foes of Mr. MITCHEL have asked, "Why should he drape himself in the American flag?" I can answer. It is because the flag would look out of place on either of the other two candidates.

The appearance of this robust, highly human, and always interesting personage in the campaign for good government and good Americanism is welcome and a strong help.

THE BOLSHEVIKI.

> I am an American if that means a citizen who seeks for the greatest welfare of his country, of his fellow-citizens.

It is time for Mr. HILLQUIT and the other misleaders who are bent on the Bolshevikation of New York to learn what Americanism is, and that Americans will not permit the perversion of it into alien policies. Mr. HILLQUIT came here, as many of the persons of good-will whose ignorance of American institutions and ideals he plays upon came here, from Russia. He came, presumably, to escape the inequalities, political and social, religious and racial, the persecutions, oppressions, restrictions, the obstacles to education and free opportunity imposed by the Russian autocrats, a dynasty largely German by blood, for many years the pupil and accomplice of the Hohenzollern. He left a country economically, morally, and politically Prussian, true Prussian in its intolerance and its treatment of nationalities.

He came to a land of ordered freedom, of opportunity for all. He prospered. What return did he make to the hospitable country where he throve, where he enjoyed the liberties and privileges denied him at home? Let those Russians answer who returned to their native country after the revolution to tell falsehoods about the United States, to deceive the workingmen and soldiers, to turn, as far as in them lay, the birth of free democratic Russia into a revival of Germanism, to disorganize and dishonor a mighty nation, to co-operate with the tools of Germany to defeat the aspirations of every oppressed people, to promote the triumph of Prussian absolutism and make free Russia its vassal once more.

For Mr. HILLQUIT brought with him the doctrines of German socialism, which since the war began has been a German propaganda, an obedient and useful instrument of German imperialism. Mr. HILLQUIT repeats from day to day the false peace formulas of the Leninites and their dupes in the Soviet. A little while ago he was retailing the "no annexations, no indemnities" fraud. Now his election "will be a clear mandate to open negotiations for a general peace," a peace for the benefit of the Central Powers, a peace such as the United States will never have a hand in making.

Russia is a sufficient lesson in German socialism. Americans will make no experiment in that doctrine and practice of disaster. Mr. HILLQUIT is not an American. That man, sprung from whatever stock of our citizenship of many origins, is an American who puts this country always first, who is true to its institutions, its honor, and its interests. Mr. HILLQUIT is trying to change our institutions. Deny it as he may, he seeks by plain intent to smirch American honor and sacrifice American interests. He belongs with the Maximalists and the Leninites, with those Socialist agents of Germany whom the United States kept him from joining at the Stockholm Conference.

Mr. HILLQUIT's followers, doubtless for the most part sincere if mistaken men, many of them deluded by his talk of peace, should understand that the only result of his election, if he could be elected, would be to lead Germany further along the road of self-deception, to give her an utterly false notion of American sentiment, and to continue the war in the hope of an impossible peace. Neither New York nor the rest of the United States, neither Great Britain nor France, will submit to a peace that would betray democracy, make vain the treasure and lives spent, and be but a breathing space for Germany to gather her forces for a new struggle for the headship of the world.

In another respect, Mr. HILLQUIT is deceiving the expectations of the extreme pacifists and the seditionaries. Were he Mayor, and should he act, or even talk, as he now talks, the Federal Government would fall afoul of him. He would be locked up, silenced. Amateur dabbling at treason may pass in a candidate. It would be punished in a Mayor. But this city is not going to be annexed to Germany, nor controlled by partisans of Germany.

HOLLAND'S SHIPS AND FOOD.

After a delay of nearly four months, owners of the Dutch ships lying at the Port of New York are now inclined to accept our Government's plans for the use of these vessels. There are more than sixty which have been held here, with expenses exceeding $100,000 a day, because they were not permitted to take cargoes of wheat and fodder to Holland. It was suggested that they should unload and go into our coastwise service. Several have discharged their cargoes, are ready to take freight for South or Central America, and await instructions from owners or the Dutch Government. Others have taken on foodstuffs for the Belgian Relief Commission. This is in accord with another suggestion from our Government.

Holland, not only continuing the sale of food to Germany and Austria under old agreements, but also making new ones, cannot reasonably expect that the waiting cargoes of wheat and fodder will be released for her use. On the 26th a semi-official newspaper in Berlin reported the signing of a new agreement providing for the exchange of German coal and steel for food supplies from Holland. A few days earlier dispatches from Vienna to papers in Switzerland spoke of "an agreement recently concluded" by the terms of which Holland furnishes foodstuffs in return for lubricating oil, wood, and other products from Austria, at the same time loaning $1,600,000 to facilitate the exchange. The supply of food is even less in Austria than in Germany, and there have recently been food riots in several Austrian cities. Both countries will strive in every possible way to get from the neutrals a part of what they need. Our Government cannot forbid Holland to export the food, but it can and does refuse to assist by allowing the shipment of food from this country to take the place of supplies thus sent to the enemy. If the Dutch ships enter the coast trade or work for the Belgian Relief Commission, this will not, in all probability, cause modification of our Government's decision. American foodstuffs will not be permitted to go where they can indirectly aid the enemy. The decision will be confirmed and supported by Holland's two new food export agreements.

NOT ITALY ONLY.

The German campaign against Italy is in aid of a revolution which Germany hopes to create there, by which the Government may be forced to a separate peace. Germany has been stirring up this revolutionary movement for months, and now seeks to bring it into being. Her expectation is to duplicate in Italy the conditions in Russia. For months the German newspapers have been coupling "Russia and Italy" as the sources of their hope for an early disintegration of the Grand Alliance. They have not succeeded in debauching Russia to the point of making peace, but the measure of success they have had is known to all men. They hope for a similar, or a greater, measure of success with Italy, and now they have struck this mighty blow to give emphasis to their arguments with the Italian people.

They advance on the Italians with banners inscribed "Peace!" and the Kaiser's faithful newspapers take up the pretense, assuring the Italians that they need fear no conquest, nothing worse than an honorable peace. It is the form which the German propaganda has taken in Italy for a long time, and the Germans believe it is bearing fruit. It may be that the course taken is ill-chosen. The Italian sense of nationality is keen, and the spectacle of the Tedeschi violating the soil of Venetia may rouse a patriotic fury which will put an end to pacifism. The Germans, however, do not expect this; they count on exactly the contrary result. They count on an Italian defeat to give point to all the arguments with which the Italian Bolsheviki have been plying their compatriots.

In every country in the world, except Germany and her companions, the German is appealing to the feeling of internationalism. Why fight against your brothers? Why shed your blood? If all the soldiers will lay down their arms and refuse to fight, will not universal peace come? And, fooled by this idyllic picture, many Russians proceed straightway to follow the German precept. What they do not see is that, if every soldier in the world except the German were to lay down his arms and refuse to fight, the German soldier would become lord of the world and all the others his slaves. That is precisely what Germany does see and does intend. It is the whole purpose of the propaganda. Men with intelligence and foresight in the allied armies and the allied nations see it plainly enough and refuse to be cajoled; but there are plenty of ignorant and foolish men in all armies and all nations, and it is not upon the intelligent and clear-sighted that Germany expects to work.

In Russia she has had this much of success, that while the intelligent and clear-sighted soldier sees plainly her intention and refuses to follow her precept, he cannot fight effectively against her because of the paralyzing uncertainty about what the foolish and ignorant soldier by his side may do. Precisely that state of affairs is what she aims to bring about in Italy, and ultimately in other countries. She tried it in France, but without success. She has been trying it in Rumania, so far without success. She is trying it here in the United States.

We have seen the result of this work in Russia; we are face to face with the uncertainty of whether it has been successful to any degree in Italy, an uncertainty that must soon be resolved one way or the other. And now the time has come to take warning, if we are ever to take warning by the misfortunes of other nations, if we are ever to give over our ancient habit of stumbling into pits that are in full sight in our path. Let us no longer treat these agents of disruption and destruction as if they were honest but amiably misguided American patriots, exercising their holy right to express their opinions without let or hindrance. What they are doing is not exercising the right of free speech, but carrying on the demoralizing and disintegrating propaganda concerted in Berlin for the purpose of paralyzing the American national will. These Hillquits and Nearings and "Friends of Irish Freedom" and the rest are doing the same work that HINDENBURG and MACKENSEN are doing, only not with guns. Let us take warning by Russia; let us hope for the best in Italy; and let us see to it that we be not betrayed into the ruinous path which Russia has taken, the ruinous path into which the Italian Hillquits are betraying Italy.

AUSTRIA AND THE UNITED STATES.

In form we are at peace with Austria, neither country has declared war upon the other or recognized the existence of the state of war. In the moral sense this is a shallow and absurd fiction, since Austria with her entire military force is supporting the Germans, with whom we are actually at war; while by giving support to the British and the French in the field we are doing everything in our power to overthrow the military power of Austria and bring her to her knees. In the military sense the fiction of peace with Austria is something more than absurd, since so far as it may be permitted to control our action it must obstruct our efforts to give effective aid to our allies.

Without the action of Congress war cannot be declared on Austria, but that fact should not be permitted to stand in the way if we find it possible to give help to Italy in her present danger. It is one of the great crises of the war, involving not only Italy but the success of the entire allied cause. Fictions cannot be allowed to control the determination of so great an issue. We have sent money to Italy, we are entirely free, and without exposing ourselves to reproach from Austria, to send munitions and troops. The defeat of the Italian troops on the Isonzo line and the invasion of Italian soil are German achievements altogether. It is the German Army that has occupied Udine. The Austrians attempted to invade Italy and failed. Therefore, if it were possible for us to send American troops to Italy they would confront a German army. The presence of Austrian soldiers in the army of invasion would be merely incidental—it is Germany that threatens Italy and Germany is our enemy.

The question is not of immediate importance, since the troops we have sent to France are not as yet fully trained, and for such an expedition seasoned soldiers would be chosen. But if American guns and munitions can be sent to strengthen the Italian resistance, or if aid can be given in any other form, the fiction of our peace with Austria presents no obstacle either in law or in common sense. It is not merely that we have a duty to perform to our ally, Italy, to all our allies, it is a duty we owe to ourselves to do everything that lies in our power to avert the peril that threatens Italy, since if she were conquered and subdued, the part we have yet to perform in the war would thereby be made much greater and more costly in money and in human lives.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Suburban Politics Illustrated.

They always play politics with commendable earnestness up in New Rochelle, and this year the Mayoralty contest there is marked by more than the usual vivacity. The increment is due, presumably, to the fact that the present occupant of the office, EDWARD STETSON GRIFFING, has already held it for two terms of two years each, and the fact that he wants it again is enough, of course, to give deadly offense to the class of voters, numerous there as in most American cities, who view public positions merely as devices by means of which honor and salary—particularly salary—can be enjoyed, turn and turn about, in more or less equitable succession by men active in politics.

The New Rochelleans of this sort are sarcastically asking the friends of Mr. GRIFFING if they want him to be Mayor forever. When the friends answer, "Well, not forever, perhaps, but we are quite willing for him to continue in the office as long as he is, as now, by experience and training the most competent man in town to perform its duties," the questioners throw up their hands and turn sadly away. They simply can't understand that attitude of mind.

But Mayor GRIFFING has other opponents than these survivors from the Dark Ages of politics. The fiercest of them are the residents whose one idea of commendable city financing is to keep this year's taxes down, by any means, and no matter how high may be piled the debt to be paid later, principal and interest, by "posterity." Notable in this group are the real estate speculators, who abound in New Rochelle as in other suburban towns, and they are all filled with a natural and easily understandable rage because it has been Mayor GRIFFING's ambition—and achievement—to reduce the city debt instead of increasing it.

He has offended, too, by at least attempting to eliminate politics from the conduct of the city's business, by obeying instead of evading the law as to the assessment of real estate, and by demanding of the city's servitors something like the amount of work a private employer would expect. In the circumstances, it is no wonder that the Mayor is having a hard fight or that his reelection is held by the experts to be a matter of some doubt. That he has been far and away the best Mayor New Rochelle ever had does count for something, probably, but the extent of its counting remains to be seen.

Don't Forget That Extra Cent.

A good many people will remember that on and after Friday next letter postage in this country, for all except what are called "drop" letters, is to be 3 cents an ounce or fraction thereof instead of 2 cents. The probability, however, that great numbers will forget the change is so great that there can confidently be expected a whole lot of trouble in mail delivery for at least a month to come, for though notification of the change has been given so often and in so many ways that everybody should have heard and heeded it, a habit as old and as firmly fixed as is the one of putting a 2-cent stamp on all ordinary letters cannot be easily or quickly broken.

There is excuse, too, for fearing—very sorrowfully, of course—that there will be some intentional forgetfulness of the new rate, in the hope of transferring to other persons the payment of the extra penny. Perhaps it was to foil that iniquitous purpose that the rulers of our postal affairs decided that underpaid letters, when possible, should be returned to the senders, and not transmitted, with a "postage due" stamp affixed, to the person addressed. No other explanation of that decision can be imagined, at least by the present commentator. If that be the justification in the official mind, it is an inadequate one.

The receipt of mail not fully prepaid is felt, indeed, to be an annoyance and a discourtesy by everybody who gets it, but both can be borne with more patience than the failure of more or less important communications to reach their destination promptly. There are some people, fortunately few in number, who will not let the postman deliver to them any mail matter on which the postage has not been fully prepaid. They are within their rights in thus refusing to be exploited by guileful correspondents, or taxed for the profit of those who are merely careless or ignorant, but the exercise of this right, like that of some others, often carries with it penalties so heavy that it is the part of wisdom as well as of generosity to pay the trivial tax unless one is quite sure that the imposition of it is intentional and persistent.

As for the 3-cent rate, it is, after all, no new thing. One need not be very much of an old-timer to recall the later of the many years it was in force before. We all endured it well enough then, and no doubt shall do so again. If only it were the worst of our troubles!

A Startling Theory Promulgated.

Stern reason totters on its throne when the possessor of it, having some slight knowledge of energy and its production, reads the contention of those who profit—or think they profit—by the maintenance of large electric signs that this method of advertising does not increase the consumption of coal. Yet that is what delegates from Broadway and Fifth Avenue told Dr. GARFIELD, the head of the Fuel Commission, in Washington, this week, and he seemed to hear them with patience!

If they are right—if the coal that lights the multitude of bulbs on these signs would have to be burned just the same if the signs remained dark—then a good many of the "laws" recorded in the treatises on physics are in need of instant revision. Moreover, if this new theory is sound, it ought to be absurdly easy for the electric light companies to cut down both their expenditure of fuel and their charges for the mysterious product of their big dynamos.

A WAY TO HELP ITALY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As Chairman of the American Poets' Committee now engaged in providing ambulances for General Cadorna's army I have just received from Mr. Nelson Gay, our representative in Rome, a cablegram informing us that the work of delivering our cars to the Italian Government is proceeding with the utmost possible dispatch. Mr. Gay spent last week in Milan, where our Ford chassis have been bought, rushing the work of preparation, equipment and delivery to General Zaccone's representative, who tests the efficiency of the cars and superintends their consignment. The ambulances are being sent immediately to the front and the early delivery of at least forty is assured. Our funds are being cabled to the Banca Italiana Sconto, (formerly Sebasti and Reali,) Rome, to the credit of Mr. Gay and his auxiliary committee, and the public may be assured that not a moment will be lost in putting to active use any contributions that may be sent to us.

In this connection we make special appeal for "dead" funds—what I may call "good intention" funds—moneys, raised to buy ambulances or other material of war relief, which are safely reposing in bank, in the hope that somehow they will there benefit the soldiers of the Allies. But, as Emerson says:

> Blood is blood that circulates,
> Life is life that generates.

I have already heard of several such funds, and we earnestly covet them for the urgent work that we have the facility to do in aid of the valiant though now temporarily defeated Italians.

Are there so many organizations now engaged in the actual work of helping Italy that lovers of liberty can afford to omit or delay supporting this pressing and practical work? Should it be put aside because greater plans are in contemplation? We have now over $100,000. To supply quickly this group of available ambulances, sorely needed by Italy's stricken army, we should have the other $100,000 this week. Men are dying on the Isonzo line in defense of America; let us make a forced march to save them.

We particularly need the aid of men and women of means to secure the co-operation of other persons of means. Meantime, checks in any amount—preferably of $2,000 for the donor's car—are greatly desired. They should be sent to me at Room 411, 70 Fifth Avenue, New York, drawn to the order of George A. Plimpton, Treasurer.

THE UNUSED LAND.

A Government Survey Suggested in the Interest of the Food Supply.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I wish to make the following suggestion with regard to the increase in the food supply.

I think it advisable to have a survey made either by the Federal or State Government of all unoccupied lands all over the country, and a list made up of such as are suitable for planting. The Government should next ascertain from the owners whether they would agree to use the lands or any part of them, and then take over temporarily the best parts of such unused ground and use it for the kind of planting that will give the best results.

It is highly desirable that this be done in a large businesslike way, which the Government could do by getting the right machinery and employing the necessary help, and also providing for necessary transportation facilities. Should it be impossible to get the needed labor, on a volunteer or paid basis, prisoners might be used for part of the work. If all this fails to supply the needed help, then such available labor as is suitable might be conscripted the same as we do now for the army and navy, taking, however, only persons not fit for military service. To make a complete and thorough survey of the country's resources and then have competent supervision and direction by those who are able to get results on a large scale is the most important thing to achieve. I believe that by doing this we could increase the production of foodstuffs in very large proportion, so that there would be enough for this country and for our allies. The present method of encouraging promiscuous planting, while helpful, is far from solving the problem, which, I believe, could be done if we proceed in the way above outlined.

HILLQUIT PHILOSOPHY.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

There may be a secondary reason of weight why the Socialist candidate for Mayor refused to buy a Liberty bond—namely, the anti-thrift "philosophy" to which the writer once heard Mr. Hillquit commit himself.

After a meeting of the Intercollegiate Socialist Society, a group of Yale students went to a dormitory to continue the discussion, which soon turned upon a simple matter concerning the rights of capital. Finally, after listening to much hazy talk, and in order, if possible, to secure one direct statement, a student asked: "Why have any economic surplus at all, or why contemplate anything more than a hand-to-mouth existence? What would you say of the man who lays up 'a penny for a rainy day?'" The reply was as prompt as it was emphatic: "I would call that man a fool!"

This unfortunate "philosophy" has many manifestations, and into it may be read many immoralities of our day, but one label is appropriate for it on all occasions. It is the "philosophy" of the quitter—the philosophy of unrefined jungleism, of ultimate selfishness. It is perilous stuff for New York City; it is an insult to the millions of men who are now paying their lives into the future security and happiness of mankind.

Keep Up New York's Prestige.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the pending municipal elections so many conflicting issues have been presented to the electorate as to obscure the one important point to be taken into account. It is not a political issue. It is a question as to whether a city whose taxable property is assessed at a value of $8,000,000,000—with its principal source of revenue derived from taxation of that property—and having an annual budget reaching the enormous total of $200,000,000, shall be efficiently and honestly governed, or whether it shall be placed at the tender mercies of professional politicians or of untried and unqualified men whose records and associations give but little promise of a satisfactory realization of the responsibilities so eagerly sought. The municipality of New York is often referred to as the City "Government," and, looking at the magnitude of the interests subject to its jurisdiction and the number of inhabitants within its defined areas the description of "Government" is not altogether an exaggeration of the position. For all practical purposes it is a Government charged with the two primary governmental functions of protecting the public rights and of promoting the welfare and happiness of the citizens.

The mere fact that a fusion of the best elements of the chief political parties was successfully organized four years ago with the excellent object of ridding the city of corrupt municipal government, to which it had long been a victim through a lack of public spirit on the part of its citizens, abundantly shows that the issue in the pending elections is one of men and not of party. It is now for the citizens to choose from the men before them and to say which of them are worthy and which of them unworthy to be intrusted with the municipal control of one of the greatest, if not the greatest, of the cities of the world. One need not appeal to the discriminating power of the people of New York City to secure a just and safe decision. It is to their spirit of good citizenship that appeal should be directed in order to arouse them from their civic slumbers into an active exercise of their privileges and their duties to maintain the prestige and greatness of the city of which every resident ought to be truly proud.

LEOPOLD GRAHAME.

HALLOWEEN, 1917.

Elves and goblins are abroad—eerie sights are seen.
Now a witch's sombre cloak trails across the moon.
This fateful night black magic shall decide
Who is doomed to die a maid, who will be a bride.
Search then your mirror's depths with anxious stare—
Is your lover tall or short, is he dark or fair?
All the truth it will reveal, if you ask it—when?
Why, at half past kissing time, time to kiss again!

Ah, kleine Gretchen! La, petite Marie!
Gazing in the crystal pool, whose face do you see?
Trim roguish Nora, eyes of Irish blue—
Can it be no lad shall speak words of love to you?
Poor Belgian Lily, pretty English Rose,
Magic rite by candle-light—what can it disclose?
Youth, strength and manhood meant to be your shield
Lie tonight inert and white on a battle-field.
All these shattered, silent ones—who shall tell them when
It is half past kissing time, time to kiss again?

RULES ON TAX RETURNS.

Time Limit Fixed on Corporation Incomes and Excess Profits.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—In order to co-ordinate the two taxes the Commissioner of Internal Revenue today announced a ruling fixing the limit of time within which returns for corporation income tax and war excess profits taxes, as imposed by the law of March 3, 1917, and that of Oct. 3, 1917, as Jan. 1, 1918.

The text of the ruling follows:

"The act of Oct. 3, 1917, imposes upon the net income of every corporation, joint stock company or association, and every insurance company a war income tax of 4 per cent. and a war excess profits tax at certain graduated rates, which taxes are in addition to the tax imposed by Title I. of the act of Sept. 8, 1916, as amended.

"The first-named act is effective as of Jan. 1, 1917, and applies to all corporations making returns on the basis of a fiscal year ending during the calendar year 1917, as well as to corporations making returns on the basis of a calendar year. It will be necessary for all corporations liable to these additional taxes and which have made or which shall hereafter make returns for a fiscal year ending in 1917 to make supplemental returns for the purpose of the excess profits tax. This requirement will apply to all corporations which may have heretofore made excess profits tax returns for the 1917 fiscal year pursuant to the requirements of Title II. of the act of March 3, 1917.

"Because of the desirability to have all returns made upon a prescribed form and in accordance with approved regulations, and because of the fact that it will be impossible for several weeks to put into the hands of such corporations the blank forms and instructions prescribed by this department for the use of such corporations in making excess profits tax returns, the time within which such returns may be filed in the case of those corporations whose returns are due to be filed on or before Jan. 1, 1918, is hereby extended to that date. This extension is made pursuant to the proviso in Subparagraph (c) of Section 14 of Title I. of the act of Sept. 8, 1916, and applies also to those corporation income tax returns due to be filed on or before Jan. 1, 1918, the correct preparation of which depends upon the excess profits tax returns."

BRADY SALE YIELDS $150,397

The "Diamond Jim" Brady sale closed at the American Art Galleries yesterday afternoon with returns of $24,762 for the afternoon, making a grand total for the sale of $150,397. The highest price of the day was given for a magnificent rock crystal wine service with intaglio cutting. There were eight sets of a dozen glasses, with three decanters and twelve finger bowls with plates. This is one of two sets made by James Hoare of the Corning Glass Company, Corning, N. Y. It went to C. O. Canfield for $1,850.

Elaborate plates brought good prices, S. K. Morrow paying $350 for one dozen Cauldon fish plates, with paintings by I. Birbeck, Sr.; an Austrian china dinner service in blue, gold, and coral red, went to Walter Bamford for $580, and a Limoges dinner service to C. W. Newman for $600. Mrs. J. B. Blatz had her own initials thrown in when she purchased a Minton dinner service with the monogram of the late owner, "J. B. B." The same buyer also purchased a set of monogrammed table glass for $310.

Captain J. R. Delamar, a well-known purchaser of the American Art Galleries, paid $200 for a round tablecloth of Cluny lace and Madeira embroidery and $410 for what was catalogued as a "sumptuous table cover," with cutwork border and sixteen inserts of Italian needlework and filet, framed.

Herbert Du Puy of Pittsburgh paid $130 for twelve glass plates with intaglio cutting of game birds; S. K. Morrow gave $260 for twelve Royal Doulton dinner plates, paintings of cattle by C. Beresford Hopkins, and $800 for twelve Vienna porcelain plates with painted decorations of different subjects. Another "sumptuous" tablecloth of Italian needlework and filet lace went to Mrs. J. Baruch for $350.

ADMITS ORDERS TO CAMPS.

Secretary Baker Extends Privilege Granted to Knights of Columbus.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Secretary Baker announced today a policy to govern activities of fraternal organizations in army training camps. Camp commanders will be directed to permit the construction of buildings within the camp sites by any fraternal organization or group of organizations acting together; facilities of the camp for social and fellowship meetings will be extended and accredited representatives from the various societies will be authorized to visit the camps and arrange for entertainments for the men at the buildings thus erected or in nearby communities. It is agreed, however, that no initiations or secret meetings of any kind are to be carried on within the camps; that existing well-recognized societies only shall be accorded the recognition and that propaganda work among the soldiers in behalf of any new society is forbidden.

The regulations were the result of conferences held yesterday and today between Secretary Baker and representatives of the principal fraternal orders of the country. A previous order by the War Department had permitted the Knights of Columbus, with the Young Men's Christian Association, to carry on welfare work within the army training camps, but barring other secret orders. This resulted in representations from the other fraternal orders.

INCORPORATION IS DENIED.

Justice Goff Refuses Application of Lafayette French Heroes Fund.

Supreme Court Justice Goff denied yesterday an application made by Coudert Brothers for the incorporation of the Lafayette French Heroes Fund, formed to purchase the birthplace of General Lafayette in France and establish schools, hospitals, and asylums in memory of the noted French General. The organizers included Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia, Mrs. William Astor Chanler, James M. Beck, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and ex-Ambassador Myron T. Herrick. The application was made some weeks ago and at the time Justice Goff asked the attorneys to confer with him or submit briefs on the question of whether, under the laws of this State, the organization should not first get the approval of the State Board of Charities to found hospitals and of the Board of Regents to establish schools.

In his memorandum yesterday Justice Goff said that the attorneys paid no attention to his request that they confer with him or submit a brief, and added: "Apart from the discourtesy, I assume from the neglect that the application has been abandoned. The approval of the certificate is denied."

QUOTES LUTHER FOR WAR.

Wittenberg Manifesto Assails Democratic "Heresy" in America.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 30.—On the occasion of the four hundredth anniversary of the Reformation, the German Evangelical League launches from Wittenberg a manifesto in which the militant sayings of Martin Luther are applied to present day events. The manifesto rejects pacifism and thunders against the Pope's peace proposals as being invested with no religious authority. It concludes:

"We especially warn against the heresy promulgated from America that Christianity enjoins democratic institutions, and that they are an essential condition for the establishment of the kingdom of God on earth. As Luther said: 'The freedom of a Christian does not depend on the forms of government, which are shaped by historical developments and the accumulated experience of nations.'"

PERMITS USE HERE OF GERMAN PATENTS

Trade Board Makes Them Available for American Firms Under License.

20,000 ARTICLES AFFECTED

Include Dyes, Drugs, and Mechanical Devices—Interests of the Inventors Guarded.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The vast store of German scientific information in this country was opened today to American manufacturers in regulations issued by the Federal Trade Commission, under which enemy-owned patents and copyrights will be licensed for manufacture by citizens of the United States.

When the regulations had been made public the commission met a group of medical men to consider licensing the manufacture of certain drugs, principally salvarsan, used in virulent blood diseases, and non-toxic substitutes for local anaesthetics, of which the supply in this country has run dangerously low since the war interrupted commerce.

Approximately 20,000 patented and copyrighted articles are said to be affected by the commission's order. These include dyestuff formulas of vital importance to American industries and mechanical devices of wide use; but the humanitarian effect of the order attracts the widest attention. German thought for many years has been active in medical research, evolving remedies for disease and for alleviation of pain, all of which, patented in the United States, will now become available to end suffering in this country.

Conferring with the commission today, with Commissioner John Franklin Fort presiding, were Julius Stieglitz of Chicago, President of the American Chemical Society; Oscar G. Ruge, Assistant Surgeon, U. S. N.; Major C. Vaughan, Surgeon, U. S. A.; J. W. Kerr, United States Public Health Service; Marston T. Bogert of Washington, representing the Council of National Defense, and Dr. G. W. McCoy of Washington.

In Charge of Regulations.

C. H. McDonald of Wisconsin, Chairman of the Board of Review of the Trade Commission, will have charge of administering the regulations, assisted by Edward S. Rogers of Chicago and Francis J. Phelps of Washington as advisers.

The discussion at the conference covered questions of manufacture, of control of the product, distribution, and price. It was said to be likely that any licenses issued for the manufacture of salvarsan would carry a provision that a certain per cent. of the output be turned over to the public health service.

Whether prices for drugs manufactured under license would be determined by the commission was not announced, but it was intimated that the commission would safeguard the public against exploitation. The Trading with the Enemy act, by authority of which the patents and copyrights will be taken over, confers on the President, who has delegated the Trade Commission to carry out the law, power to fix conditions of licensing which might be construed as authorizing limitations of prices if the public welfare demanded it. Prices of drugs have undergone tremendous increases since 1914, many having increased as much as 1,000 per cent.

The regulations issued today follow the law closely in safeguarding the interests of patent owners, who must be reimbursed for the use of their inventions, and provide that licenses will be issued only where the interest of the public demands it, to supply a demand not now being met. The licensee must give evidence of ability to manufacture the article.

When the commission will issue licenses for manufacture of articles patented by enemy aliens or their allies probably will depend on the time required for American producers to meet the license requirements. Physicians at today's conference were said to have pointed out that an early supply of important drugs would be a contribution to the national defense.

Patent Applications Held Up.

War has caused an anomalous situation in the Patent Office, where the number of applications for patents on war devices increases daily, and the fear of giving valuable information to the enemy is causing the withholding of patent rights to scores of inventions.

Patents Commissioner Newton announced today that the bureau within the last few weeks had refused patents to about sixty war inventions, acting under the recent law giving the Federal Trade Commission and the Patent Office authority to prevent publication of patents which the enemy might use.

A corps of West Point and Annapolis graduates, trained in the technical problems of war, scans the thousand or more patent papers issued weekly for details of military significance, and chooses those on which patent proceedings should be suspended during the war. Inventors thus deprived of patent rights may offer their devices to the Government, and sue after the war for compensation.

Nearly 200 applications for patents from German citizens also are pending. Commissioner Newton is postponing action until he can learn whether Germany is granting reciprocal rights under an act extending for nine months the time in which foreign applicants for patents must apply in the United States, normally one year from the issuance of a patent in the foreign country. The State Department has been asked to ascertain through the Spanish Embassy at Berlin, which has charge of American interests, whether similar courtesy is shown American inventors in Germany.

NAMED AS McADOO AID.

R. C. Leffingwell of New York Made Assistant Secretary of Treasury.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The appointment of R. C. Leffingwell of New York City to be Assistant Secretary of the Treasury was announced today by Secretary McAdoo. Mr. Leffingwell is well known as a finance lawyer, and has for several years been a member of the firm of Cravath & Henderson, New York. He takes the place which was created by Congress at its last session, but only temporarily, as he desires ultimately to return to his practice in New York. Mr. Leffingwell and Secretary McAdoo have known each other many years, the Secretary having taken a decided interest in the new Assistant Secretary when he was a boy.

Mr. Leffingwell has been stationed here since the beginning of work on the first issue of the Liberty Loan, Secretary McAdoo having asked him to act as special counsel in all matters relating to the war loan. He has given his services without compensation, and has lived almost night and day in the Treasury Building since he took up the work on the loan. The place Mr. Leffingwell takes is practically the Fifth Assistant Secretaryship, as there are four such places already, and two were added by Congress the last Summer.

Woods Wants Stricter Drug Laws.

Police Commissioner Woods has sent letters to United States Senator William M. Calder and United States Attorney General Gregory asking their co-operation in stamping out the drug habit in this city. The Commissioner asks for adequate Federal legislation restricting the sale, exportation, importation, and distribution of all habit-forming drugs. He declares that the use of heroin and cocaine in the last ten years has become prevalent to an alarming degree, and says that notwithstanding the close co-operation of the State and Federal authorities these drugs are easily obtained in New York. This, the Commissioner points out, is partly due to the loose methods in enforcing the law in other States.

JAPANESE ASK RIGHT TO JOIN ARMY HERE

MANY ENLISTED IN CANADA

Plea for Better Understanding Between the Nations Made at Formal Luncheon of Japan Society.

Pleading for a firmer bond of friendship between the Japanese and American peoples, T. Massao, head of the Japanese Parliamentary Commission yesterday urged that the Japanese men who have made the United States their adopted country be permitted to volunteer and serve in its armies. He said there were thousands of them here as in Canada, who would willingly and gladly shed their blood in the cause of the Allies against Germany.

Mr. Massao made this appeal in the course of an address at the luncheon of the Japan Society at 115 Broadway. He and the other members of his commission, M. Uyehara, T. Shimada, K. Mochizuki, and M. Yamane were the guests of honor, this being the first formal function which the commission was called upon to attend since its arriavl in New York on Monday.

Lindsay Russell, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Japan Society, presided. In introducing the members of the commission Mr. Russell declared a greater development of intercourse could be accomplished between the United States and Japan by a reduction of cable tolls, by the establishment of more extensive sources of information with reference to Japanese affairs, and finally by the substitution wherever possible of the Roman alphabet for the Chinese idiograph, upon which the written language of Japan is based.

Mr. Massao in his address said:

"On behalf of the Parliamentary Commission, I beg to thank you for the honor you are doing us in inviting us to such a distinguished gathering as this. As you know, we five of us constitute a special commission from the House of Representatives of Japan to the United State of America, and our mission is that of conveying the greetings of the Japanese people to the people of the United States and of getting acquainted with them. Today the United States and Japan are standing together as allies in the great war. Both are situated on the Pacific, and are next-door neighbors to each other. In such circumstances it is well that each of the two should endeavor to become familiar with the thoughts, wishes, and hopes of the other; and there never was a better time for such an endeavor than now.

"There is nothing like meeting each other under favorable circumstances. You can then arrive at a fair knowledge of each other. A fair knowledge of each other is the beginning of mutual confidence, and mutual confidence is the beginning of mutual respect, which is the key to international harmony.

"In this country there are thousands and thousands of Japanese obtaining their living and they owe the protection of their lives and properties to you. Their fidelity to their mother country is characteristic of them, but it is this very characteristic that ought to make them faithful and loyal and useful to their adopted country in time of need.

"As you know, Canada has been making use of Japanese volunteers in these times of need, and up to the date of our departure from Yokohama, we heard that scores of them had already sacrificed their lives for their adopted country and scores and scores more of them had become wounded.

"Those of you who have read the history of Japan will have realized that there is nothing that Japan values more highly than her honor. Japan has no finer inheritance, no greater possession, no acquisition more worthy to be cherished than her sense of honor. The entry of the United States into the war as the champion of right has touched the heart of every Japanese, and nowadays President Wilson's addresses go as deeply into the heart of the Japanese as into the heart of the Americans. One of his recent utterances that has gone into the bottom of the Japanese heart runs as follows: 'For us there is but one choice. We have made it. Woe be to the man or group of men that seek to stand in our way in this day of high resolution, when every principle we hold dearest is to be vindicated and made secure for the salvation of the nations.'

"The Japanese are determined to cooperate with you till the last and will not stop until our monster enemy, Germany, the pirate of the seas, the assassin of the air, and the violator of all decencies on land, has been completely thrashed."

The Japanese delegate was followed by M. Marcell Knecht, the French representative, who praised the generous support which Japan was giving to the Allies, and welcomed her into the "society of nations into which Germany could not be admitted because her hands were not clean."

EDWARD MORRIS PLAYS.

A Young American Pianist Reappears in Aeolian Hall.

Edward Morris, a young American, who gave a pianoforte recital in Aeolian Hall yesterday, had played before in this city last season, and now, as then, he deserves praise for many excellent qualities; for a straightforward, unaffected style, robustness, vitality, and good taste; for an ample equipment in technical dexterity; for an evident desire to penetrate into the significance of what he plays. He did nothing better than his first number, the prelude and fugue in E minor by Mendelssohn, in which he built up an imposing climax and succeeded in setting forth the larger proportions as well as the contrapuntal structure of the piece clearly.

In the "Character Piece" by the same composer, marked "light and airy," he did not quite achieve the lightness and airiness that belong to it, and herein disclosed a quality in his playing that prevented his reaching the best results. Last season, in an auditorium much less resonant than Aeolian Hall, he had to labor somewhat to produce the volume of tone he desired. Yesterday he produced too much, not only in Mendelssohn's dainty piece, but also in Beethoven's sonata Op. 27, No. 1, and in some of his other numbers. The first movement of this sonata is to be played "pianissimo" almost throughout, but he reached no pianissimo in it. Mr. Morris needs to refine his touch in quality as well as in dynamics, and this was emphasized also in Schumann's Romance in F sharp and his "Des Abends." The expression of grace and poetical feeling in his playing will gain thereby. There is much to hope for in the attainment of deeper qualities from a musical nature so sound as this young pianist's.

Mr. Morris played the rapid movements of the sonata with great spirit; there were great spirit and brilliancy, too, in his performance of Tausig's arrangement of Schumann's "Der Contrabandiste," and he was called upon to repeat it. The last group of his unconventional program comprised a "Humoresque," by Rachmaninof; "Svanen," by Palmgren, a study by Moszkowski, and Liszt's polonaise in E.

SWITCHMEN DEMAND A 50% INCREASE

Will Vote on Nation-Wide Strike in 30 Days if Railroads Resist.

BASED ON COST OF LIVING

Union Has About 20,000 Members and Wage Scale Is Approximately That of Seven Years Ago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Demands for a 50 per cent. wage increase will be submitted to the railroads of the United States by the members of the Switchmen's Union of North America, as a result of action taken by a special committee at a two-day meeting which ended here today. The Adamson law, enacted in 1916 to avert a threatened strike, reduced the daily hours of labor of the switchmen from ten to eight, but did not increase their wages.

The demand for a wage increase will be followed by a referendum vote on a nation-wide strike of switchmen if it is not granted within thirty days, it was announced by S. E. Heberlin of Buffalo, President of the union. The thirty-day notice which the contracts of the union with the railroads require must be given before any change in wage questions can be taken up was served on the railroads at once.

The increase was demanded, it was announced, because of the steady rise in the cost of living, which the union men say has made their wages insufficient for a fair living. The demands are for a 50 per cent. increase for switchmen, switch tenders and car men, and time and a half for time over eight hours' labor in any twenty-four hours.

The membership of the union is about 20,000 men. Their wage scale is approximately the same as seven years ago, except for the reduction in the hours of labor brought about by the Adamson law. The Chicago standard now in force provides for $3.50 a day for a day helper, $3.80 a day for a day foreman, $3.70 for a night helper, and $4 for a night foreman. Switch tenders now draw $50 a month up, according to President Heberlin, and sometimes work as long as twelve hours a day.

The special committee which authorized the demands comprised about eighty men, and contained representatives from nearly every railroad system on which the switchmen are members of the union.

GREEK WARY OF GERMANS.

Author Declines to Speak Before League of Small Nationalities.

Adamantios Polyzoidis, a Greek author and editor, who was listed to speak at the convention of the League of Small and Subject Nationalities at the Hotel McAlpin yesterday afternoon, sent his regrets by special delivery letter yesterday afternoon, saying that he did not wish to present the case of Greece in an atmosphere that might be suspected of pro-Germanism. Mr. Polyzoidis said that he had no reason to think that the league was not sincere and well-meaning, but that he could not grasp the exact purpose of organizing it, and did not see just how it purposed to ameliorate the condition of the small and subject nationalities, among which the league classes Scotland and Assyria. Mr. Polyzoidis was the twelfth speaker to resign.

Mrs. Sheehy Skeffington, by her denunciation of England, aroused more enthusiasm than has been elicited by any other speaker at the convention, at which there were about fifty-five present yesterday. Mrs. Skeffington argued for Irish independence, and caused an outburst of aplause when she said that England would be greatly benefited by being reduced to a much smaller nation.

HEMPEL WILL SING ANTHEM.

Can't Have Concert Unless She Includes "Star-Spangled Banner."

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 30.—The Police Commission today withheld the granting of a license for a concert here Sunday by Frieda Hempel, pending a promise by the grand opera singer that she would sing "The Star-Spangled Banner." While in this city last Spring Mme. Hempel refused to include the national anthem in her program, saying she did not know it.

"If she does not know it she must learn it by Sunday if she hopes to appear then," the Chairman of the commission said when application was made for a license.

Mme. Hempel, through her New York representative, last evening issued a statement denying that she had refused to sing the American anthem. She knew the song, she said, and would include it in her Providence recital.

War Stimulates Bird Study.

War has stimulated a study of the economic uses of birds, according to an announcement made yesterday at the annual meeting of the National Association of Audubon Societies held at the American Museum of National History. Establishment of a museum where all birds used for millinery purposes may be shown was proposed, as well as a library to show bird conservation. Reports showed the membership in the association had increased one-third during the year. T. Gilbert Pearson, Secretary of the association, suggested a fund for the establishment of national headquarters.

Lord Innes-Ker, War Relief Speaker

Major Lord Robert Innes-Ker is to speak at the first of the War Relief Assemblies, to be held on Saturday evening at the Automobile Club. The proceeds of the opening evening are to be turned over to the Red Cross. These assemblies are to be held on consecutive Saturday nights during the season for various war reliefs, and many prominent society women are acting as patronesses.

GERMAN LOSS 6,000,000 IN THREE WAR YEARS

4,000,000 Dead, Crippled, or Absolutely Invalided, Ledebour Told the Reichstag.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Germany lost 6,000,000 men in the first three years of war, according to a declaration made in the Reichstag by the Independent Socialist Georg Ledebour. A report of his speech which has reached Washington through Switzerland states that, contemplating the prospects of a fourth Winter campaign, the Socialist leader said:

"You have not evidently, gentlemen, an exact conception of what war means. We have had 1,500,000 dead, 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 wounded, of whom 500,000 are crippled for life, and 2,000,000 absolutely invalided. That makes altogether 6,000,000 men lost during three years."

It is stated that official information confirmatory of these figures has been in the possession of American officials for some time.

The figures given by Ledebour exceed not only the British and French estimates of German casualties, but also the estimates based on the weekly official bulletins issued by Germany up to Aug. 1, when the returns published became so confused that little could be made out of them. Using the designations of Herr Ledebour—dead, wounded, crippled for life, invalided—the British, French, and German estimates, with prisoners, run as follows:

	British Estimate.	French Estimate.	German Estimate.
Wounded	2,922,320	919,000	2,888,787
Crippled and invalided for life	......	3,000,000	602,858
Prisoners	710,454	630,809	602,506

PRINCIPALS FOR LONGER DAY

Appeal of High School Students Finds No Support.

The Committee on High Schools, of which John Whalen is Chairman, held a conference yesterday with the principals of the High Schools and the latter expressed themselves unanimously in favor of the longer school day. Mr. Whalen read a brief submitted by a committee of high school students protesting against the longer day.

The students asserted that the long day subjects them to great fatigue, that it deprives them of social activities and prevents them from working after school. Dr. F. J. Paul, head of the De Witt Clinton High School, said that the matter of the long day could not be settled merely by a consideration of the brief submitted by the students. Dr. Arthur M. Wolfson, Principal of the High School of Commerce, said he believed in the longer school day because of the added educational opportunities that it afforded.

Mr. Whalen declared that it appeared that the longer day was not a hardship. He thought that the spirit of unrest in the high schools would be settled if the students were convinced that the longer day was established exclusively for their benefit.

DR. E. B. ANDREWS DEAD.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 30.—Dr. Elisha Benjamin Andrews, formerly President of Brown University and later Chancellor of the University of Nebraska, died today at Interlaken, Fla.

Dr. Andrews was born at Hinsdale, N. H., Jan. 10, 1844. He enlisted in the Fourth Connecticut Volunteers at the outbreak of the civil war, becoming a Second Lieutenant in 1863. He was graduated from Brown University in 1870. He was principal of the Connecticut Literary Institute for two years, and then studied at the Newton Theological Seminary from which he was ordained to the Baptist Ministry in 1874. After preaching for a year he was elected President of Denison College, in Granville, Ohio. He was appointed President of Brown and Professor of Moral Philosophy in 1889. In 1900 he was made Chancellor of the University of Nebraska, retiring in 1908.

During the Bryan-McKinley campaign Dr. Andrews in private letters to Western graduates of Brown University approved the free coinage of silver. Opposition to his ideas by the officials of Brown University caused him to resign and he went to Chicago, later to the University of Nebraska. In 1907 he received a pension from the Carnegie Foundation.

GEN. C. H. GROSVENOR DIES.

Ohio Congressman for 20 Years and Once a Republican Leader.

ATHENS, Ohio, Oct. 30.—General Charles H. Grosvenor, for many years a notable figure in Republican politics in Ohio, and formerly for twenty years a member of Congress from the Eleventh Ohio District, died at his home here early today.

General Grosvenor was born at Pomfret, Conn., Sept. 20, 1833, and moved to Ohio with his parents five years later. He was admitted to the bar in 1857. He enlisted as a private in the Eighteenth Ohio Infantry in August, 1861, and the following month received a commission as Major. In 1863 he was a Lieutenant Colonel, and two years later was brevetted a Brigadier General for gallant services. He entered national politics as a member of the Forty-ninth Congress in 1885, and served three terms. He was again elected in 1893 and served continuously from the Fifty-third to the Fifty-ninth Congress, inclusive.

General Grosvenor was the author of a "Life of McKinley," and the editor of "The Book of the Presidents." He made a reputation and had the sobriquet of "Old Figgers" for his close forecasts of election results.

"PRIVATE" JOHN ALLEN.

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 30.—"Private" John Allen, member of Congress from Mississippi for sixteen years, until his retirement in 1901, and one of the picturesque figures of that body in those days, died at his home, at Tupelo, Miss., today.

He was born in Tishomingo County, Mississippi, July 8, 1846, and served as a private in the Confederate Army during the civil war. He was admitted to the bar and had practiced law in Tupelo since 1870. He was District Attorney of the First Judicial District of Mississippi from 1876 to 1880, and in 1885 was elected to Congress from the First Mississippi District, serving until 1901, when he declined renomination.

Whenever he rose to speak in Congress his audience was large, due to his reputation as a storyteller and wit. He was generally described by newspapers after his career in Congress as "'Private' John Allen, who kept Congress awake for sixteen years."

Cromwell Gardner Macy.

Cromwell Gardner Macy, former Deputy Attorney General for the State of New York, and probably the oldest lawyer in Brooklyn in point of service, died from heart disease yesterday at his home, 103 Bay Seventeenth Street, Bath Beach, in his seventy-fifth year. Mr. Macy was born in Nantucket, Mass. He served as Deputy Attorney General for two terms, and also served several times as Commissioner of Street Openings. He was a former President of the Taxpayers and Rentpayers' Association of the Thirtieth and Thirty-first Wards, and was one of the oldest members of the Royal Arcanum. He was a regent of Utrecht Council, No. 1,332, and a member of the Dyker Heights Country Club and the Lake Ronkonkoma Improvement Association.

Mother Follows Son in Death.

John A. Leonard, a member of the Newark Fire Department for fifteen years, died yesterday at his home, 278 Plane Street, Newark, and five hours later his mother, Mrs. Rose Leonard, widow of John Leonard, a Newark policeman, died in an adjoining room, unaware of her son's death. Leonard had been ill for five months. His mother suffered a paralytic stroke several days ago.

Moses L. Scudder.

Moses L. Scudder, President of the St. Joseph, South Bend & Southern Railroad, died at his home in Huntington, L. I., on Monday in his seventy-fifth year. He was born in Charleston, Mass., a son of the late Rev. Moses L. Scudder, and was educated at the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute and at Wesleyan University. In 1885 he established the Investor's Agency of 55 Wall Street, which is now carried on by his three sons, and during the panic of 1893 he became connected with several reorganization movements, among which were the Lincoln Traction Company of Lincoln, Neb., and the St. Joseph, South Bend & Southern Railroad. Mr. Scudder lived in the house in Huntington that has been in the family since 1810.

COLD WAVE GRIPS EAST AND SOUTH

Lowest October Temperatures on Record Reported — Gale Sweeps New England.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The cold wave today overspread the eastern half of the country. Frost extended to the Gulf Coast, Texas, and Central Florida, and snow fell as far south as Asheville, N. C. The coal shortage was being keenly felt in some localities.

Lowest October temperatures of record at various points in Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, Missouri, Indiana, Mississippi, and Louisiana were reported by the Weather Bureau. Cold wave warnings were sent out for the territory from Eastern Pennsylvania southward to Northeast Florida.

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—An 84-mile gale, with heavy rain, swept this section today. Telephone and telegraph service was crippled and many suburban cities were without electric light for a time. Small craft in the harbor were driven ashore.

With the storm came an uncomfortable rise in temperature to 72 degrees, but tonight the wind shifted back to the northwest, the forerunner of a cold wave.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

The early part of yesterday's session on the Stock Exchange was confused by a message from Montreal to the effect that the Stock Exchange at that centre had not opened. Later on word was received that the opening had merely been delayed for an hour to give the authorities time to discuss the fixing of minimum prices as a measure of protection necessitated by the rapid declines in Canadian Pacific shares. The New York market suffered a further sharp break on the news from Montreal but afterwards rallied, reaching its best prices after 2 o'clock. A secondary slump just before the close carried the active issues off again, and the close was made at substantial recessions for most stocks.

The feature of the day was the publication of the Steel Corporation's quarterly earnings statement and the announcement that the Directors had declared the usual extra dividend of 3 per cent. Though Wall Street has apparently made up its mind that this is the last extra to be paid at the rate in force for the last three quarters, the corporation's surplus earnings to date do not indicate the necessity for reducing the payments to stockholders. For the first three quarters of the year the surplus after all charges, preferred dividend and the heavy requirements of the income and excess profits taxes, was equivalent to more than 28 per cent. on the common stock. It is too early to learn from actual results what the effect on earnings of the prices fixed for Government materials will be. It is with that in mind that traders have begun to discount the possibility of the elimination of at least part of the extra dividend, which has been paid at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum so far this year. The quarter's net earnings before taxes, of $131,900,000, were disappointing.

Steel was very active throughout the session and fluctuated over a range of 2 points, closing at 102?, with a net decline of 3¼. Republic Iron and Steel was relatively weaker and closed at 75¾, off 2¼ for the day. Bethlehem Steel sold off 4⅜ to 79¾, with the B shares, on heavy dealings, dropping off 2½ to 80 at the close.

Canadian Pacific is still being sold extensively on the theory that Sweden may become involved in the war. At yesterday's low figure it showed a decline of an even 6 points from Monday's last price, but part of this loss was made up and the close was made at a net decline of 4⅜. Most of the American rails also lost ground, although the declines were confined to narrow limits. General Motors had a renewed attack of weakness on the report that the Government is going to rank raw materials for the automobile manufacturers as among the articles not entitled to priority in freight shipments. General Motors dropped off to 83¼ and closed with a net loss of 3½ at 84. Interest in the decision of the International Mercantile Marine Directors as to back dividends, which is expected to be brought up for discussion at the meeting tomorrow, was not sufficient to hold the stock up to Monday's level, and the preferred closed at 99½, off 2½ for the day, and 7 points below the point reached on the announcement of the formation of a committee to recommend a plan for the payment of the accumulation.

The Street is taking a gloomy view of the war situation, as altered by the Italian defeats. Exchange on Rome fell further, while rates on Sweden and Denmark reached new high levels as part of the movement to transfer funds in anticipation of the breaking off of friendly relations.

LONDON TRADING LIMITED.

Stock Market Still Apprehensive Regarding Italian Situation.

LONDON, Oct. 30.—Money was in good demand today. Discounts were steady. The weekly war bond sales were smaller, at £14,000,000.

The stock market was still apprehensive regarding Italy, but was less depressed. Italian exchange was 38.05, against a normal of 25.22. Prices of British securities occasionally were firmer. In other directions the market was harder. Spanish, Russian, and Scandinavian bonds made a good showing. Rubbers and Argentine rails were better on repurchases. American stocks were easy.

Trading Quiet on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Oct. 30.—Trading was quiet on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 61 francs for cash; exchange on London, 27 francs 18 centimes; 5 per cent. loan, 88 francs 70 centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

A Factor for Suspense.

The closing of the Montreal Stock Exchange for an hour yesterday morning added one more item to the list of factors disturbing sentiment on the local stock market and apparently had considerable influence in depressing prices. As the news was received in Wall Street, the management of the Canadian board decided to postpone the opening from 10 to 11 o'clock for the purpose of "considering conditions," a reason sufficiently broad to arouse many suppositions and misgivings in New York. Traders asked one another whether Canadian financiers did not possess adverse information about the conduct of the war, particularly about the Italian reverse, which had not reached New York bankers. When dispatches were received later that business was going ahead in Montreal, with minimum prices established, the relief felt by traders and investors was evident, although the course of prices made little, if any, reflection of the development.

Canadian Pacific Liquidation.

With the closing price of Canadian Pacific on Monday as the minimum for transactions on the Montreal Exchange, it was natural to expect that liquidation which would have been put through in Canada would be completed in New York. Canadian Pacific closed on Monday at 138⅝ and the first sale here was at 137½, an over-night decline of slightly more than a point. Thereafter the stock was offered in heavy volume, dropping 6 full points before a recovery occurred, which left the quotation with a net decline of 4⅜ points. From whatever sources the recent selling of this premier railroad stock has come, the fact stands forth that market values have had small consideration to the sellers. The price has dropped more than 10 points this week, on top of a decline in excess of 5 points last week.

New Low Average Prices.

The general average of prices for both stocks and bonds on the Stock Exchange established new low records for the year yesterday. The average quotation for forty representative bonds declined a quarter point, the largest decline for any one day since Sept. 11. Since Oct. 1 the average quotation for twenty-five railroad stocks used in compiling the table found elsewhere on this page has dropped 4.83 points, and in the same period twenty-five industrial issues have receded 7.28 points. The forty bonds during the month have experienced a recession in their average price of nearly 1½ points.

Richmond's Reserve Bank Letter.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond has sent out a circular letter, printed in red ink, giving its member banks final instructions for sending in their final returns of Liberty Loan subscriptions. The directions are somewhat different from those issued by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The Richmond bank, for instance, declares that the 2 per cent. payment "cannot be made by credit upon your books," while the New York bank is anxious that the payments be made by book credits. The Richmond bank also says: "Please do not request correspondents to make payment for you, but send drafts upon your correspondents." The New York bank has no objection to one bank making payment for another. Although there are variations in minor details, generally speaking all the twelve Federal Reserve Banks have uniform methods for transacting business.

Planning for Third Campaign.

So enthusiastic are the bankers over the success of the second Liberty Loan campaign that they are already talking about getting to work on the third. Many believe that the present feeling of optimism should be capitalized and not permitted to disappear. Plans are now on foot which contemplate the retention of part of the organization which was used in the flotation of the second loan, and without any delay active steps will soon be taken in preparation for the next campaign. It is understood that the war loan certificates will not be available until about Dec. 1. The date of the next campaign has not yet been officially fixed, but some bankers are suggesting Feb. 1 as a probable time.

Backing Up the Railroads.

A recent declaration of a Western banker advocating the admission by the Federal Reserve Board of short-term railroad paper to rediscount privileges on the same basis as other high-grade commercial paper has attracted considerable favorable comment among the railroad men in the financial district. "The Government, which is virtually operating the railroads of the country as a unit and an industrial weapon through the Railroads' War Board," one of them said yesterday, "cannot remain indifferent to the financial end of the railroad business, which is just as vitally important to its efficiency as the operating end. You cannot centralize one and ignore the other."

Ocean Freight Rates.

There is a growing feeling among shipping men that the Shipping Board, or rather its active subsidiary, the Chartering Committee, will not delay much longer a definite announcement regarding the proposed reductions—everybody assumes they will be reductions—it will make in general freight rates from the present allowed maximum of forty-two shillings and sixpence a ton. Shipping men and shippers alike want to know if the reduction is to be horizontal or "adjusted" to particular trades and classes of merchandise, and when it is to become applicable. One shipping man yesterday wanted the committee to announce three months in advance when and how much it was going to cut the rate. But this apparently is just what the committee will not do, because it does not want to commit itself prematurely. The committee's feeling seems to be that the whole subject is too big and too difficult for anything but the most patient approach and cautious dealing.

Cotton and the War.

The effect on the cotton market of the Italian reverses appears to have been less than many, even close observers, expected. In fact, its only bearing seems to have been the revision which it forced in estimates of the duration of the war and the consequent length of time before the German and Austrian markets are open again. Italian buying has been such an inconsiderable factor for some time in any case that the direct effect was only psychological at most.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

SHARP ADVANCE IN SILVER.

Day's Gain of 5 7-8 Cents Greatest in Memory of Bullion Dealers.

The price of silver yesterday scored the sharpest advance for a single business day that downtown bullion dealers could recall. The metal sold at 90⅝ cents per ounce, an overnight advance of 5⅞ cents, the quotation being established by cabled advices from London that the market there had advanced 3d. an ounce, to 46d. The New York price represented a recovery of 8 cents an ounce from the lowest quotation of last week. The year's maximum record was $1.08½, established last month.

Silver dealers were able to account for the exceptional bulge only in a general way. They stated that apparently the advance in London had been caused by the receipt of a large buying order presumably from one of the European Governments for coinage purposes, and the dealer had been forced to bid up the price in a market nearly bare of supplies in order to fill the order.

Local silver merchants were not surprised at the recovery, although its extent was unlooked for. India is expected to absorb a vast amount of silver in the next few months, as that country's crops are reported to be abundant and commanding high prices. With this potential demand in sight, dealers predict that silver prices will continue high for some time. China was a heavy buyer of the metal in the early part of September, and further purchases for Chinese account are looked for in some parters.

THE COTTON MARKET

The cotton market yesterday abruptly emerged from the period of uncertainty of the last few days, and after some little early hesitation, made a fresh start toward top prices. The advance was well sustained and steady, and the close found the entire list firm, from 70 to 95 net points up. Increased trade buying and renewed appreciation of the gravity of the crop situation both played their part in the rise.

Early fluctuations were rather nervous and irregular. Reactionary or bearish sentiment was still more or less in evidence, although the market opened 12 to 16 points higher on Liverpool buying and the unfavorable weather map. Offerings were gradually absorbed, however, owing to continued buying by houses with Liverpool connection, while there was also a good demand from New Orleans and domestic trade sources. The character of this buying rendered recent sellers uneasy, with the uneasiness increasing, and the detailed weather reports came in showing general rains in the Eastern belt and abnormally low temperatures west of the river. It was apprehended that the cold wave would follow the rains east of the river, possibly causing a further reduction in crop estimates, and the buying became active and excited during the middle of the day. December sold up from 26.77c, the early low level, to 27.55c, and March from 25.81c to 26.64c, with the close only a few points off from the best under realizing.

The presence of buying here from Liverpool and New Orleans and also from trade interests created an impression that recent reactions had carried New York too low, and that demand was concentrated in the cheapest market. This probably had considerable bearing upon the later advance, with covering stimulated by the bullish character of crop and spot news. Crop estimates of below 11,000,000 bales were again circulating during the afternoon. Exports for the day were 22,690 bales, making 1,292,251 so far this season, against 1,677,091 last year. Southern spot markets as officially reported were unchanged to 80 points higher, Southwestern markets being relatively firm. More business was reported at Houston, which showed the maximum advance.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

According to latest advices from Europe the wheat crop has not turned out well, and import requirements will be large. Surplus stocks in exporting countries are quite liberal, and as far as the world's supply is concerned there appears to be plenty of wheat to go round if it could be distributed. Advices from Argentina said that the allied Governments have purchased the entire new crop of wheat there, the exportable surplus of which is estimated at 144,000,000 to 176,000,000 bushels. There are large stocks in Australia, but owing to the long haul from other countries America is the most accessible market and will be called upon to supply the bulk of the needs of our Allies in Europe. With this in view the Food Administration is urging the American people to use stringent economies in order to make our contribution a liberal one.

RYE.—Market barely steady. No. 2 Western, $1.87, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

CORN.

Weather conditions over the corn belt were decidedly unfavorable for husking operations, as well as for curing the new crop and placing it in a position for early marketing. Further rains and snows occurred throughout the Ohio Valley States and in the East. West of the Mississippi it was cold and clear, but the forecast was for further unsettled conditions. In consequence the cash position was firm and the market ruled steady, closing ¼c higher to ⅜c lower. In the local cash market old No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $2.15 and No. 2 mixed $2.13, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

Price changes in the oats market were comparatively narrow, the close being ⅛c net higher. Receipts at primary points were quite liberal, but country offers were not large, and it seemed more than probable that the movement will fall off again. The export demand was slow, with no business reported. The local cash market was dull; standard quoted at 66½c; No. 2 white, 66½c; No. 3 white, 66c; No. 4 white, 65½c; fancy clipped white, 68c; ordinary clipped white, 67c; all asked in elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The Government will take control of the packing industry tomorrow, and as there seemed to be some uncertainty as to whether or not any drastic measure will be taken in regard to speculative operations, the provision market was nervous and irregular. Hogs were higher and receipts at interior points were moderate, totalling 70,000. Receipts at Chicago were 14,000; estimated for today, 26,000; Kansas City received 11,600 and Omaha 3,000 hogs.

SUGAR.

Raw sugar was quiet at nominally unchanged prices, with no confirmed sales, but it was believed that raws for early delivery were salable at quotations 5⅞c, cost and freight basis. There was no change in refined prices, quotations still being 8.35c, regular terms. The general situation is very acute, refiners being bare of stocks and with an increasing demand from the country, but there appears to be no early relief in sight until Western beets and the Louisiana cane sugars begin to move.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The fact that Government supervision over numerous commodities will be extended from tomorrow and may include further jurisdiction over cottonseed products in the South caused a good deal of nervousness in the local cottonseed oil market yesterday. The market early was firm, with further advances to new high records on the strength in crude, but eased off late and closed 10@25 points net lower. Total sales were 13,700 barrels. Range of prices.

COFFEE.

The market for coffee futures was a little more active yesterday, and showed a generally steady tone, although earlier advances were not fully maintained. The demand, however, was by no means active or general, and after showing net advances of 5 to 8 points there were reactions, with the market closing net unchanged to 3 points higher. The business includes exchanges of December for July at 60 points, and for September at 74 and 75 points. The local spot market was quiet at 8c for Rio 7s and 9½c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

To the Thrifty

It was the army of small investors who contributed materially to the wonderful success of the first and second Liberty Loans.

It was the same army of buyers who largely sustained the stock market during its recent depression and prevented the demoralization which usually accompanies such declines.

It is the same army of buyers who, now educated to the blessings of thrift, save while they invest.

There is no better way to win a competence than to buy well seasoned securities on the Partial Payment Plan. Prevailing low prices present many real opportunities for beginning your thrift program.

U. S. STEEL RESERVES $63,733,013 FOR TAX

Sets Aside 48 Per Cent. of $131,976,796 Net Income for Last Quarter.

EXTRA DIVIDEND DECLARED

Total Fund Built Up Since Jan. 1 to Meet Special War Levy Now Amounts to $164,233,609.

The United States Steel Corporation's statement yesterday on earnings for the quarter ended Sept. 30 showed that of the $131,976,797 income left after operating expenses had been met and maintenance of plant provided for, no less than $63,733,013, or 48 per cent., had been set aside for taxes. In the item both the corporation income, and the excess profits tax, as provided under the new law, were covered. The balance of $68,243,784, counted as net earnings, was $22,335,420 less than the preceding quarter turned in above war taxes.

The balance for dividends was $49,732,329, a total of $19,141,207 less than in the June quarter, and after providing for the preferred stock dividend an amount equivalent to 8.54 per cent. on the $508,000,000 common stock was left. This was at the annual rate of 34.16 per cent., compared with 49.24 per cent., the yearly rate of the preceding quarter.

The Directors declared an extra dividend of 3 per cent. on the common stock, as in the two preceding quarters, as well as the usual disbursement of 1¼ per cent., payable Dec. 29 to stockholders of record Nov. 30. The regular preferred dividend of 1¾ per cent. was ordered, payable Nov. 28 to owners of the stock recorded Nov. 5.

In the financial district the report of earnings was received with mixed feelings. While it was realized fully that the actual earnings of the big organization were not far below those of the best quarter ever experienced, the heavy inroad of war taxes was something of a surprise to many persons interested in the corporation's shares.

Marked Reduction in Surplus.

Beside making the tax reservation mentioned, the Directors set aside an additional sum of $12,716,724 from the surplus for the war tax of the first half year. Last quarter a special reservation of $33,865,000 was also made from the surplus as an offset to the expected war tax of the first quarter. The result of these withdrawals was a marked reduction of the surplus which for the nine months ended with September amounted to $80,962,547, compared with $132,678,157 for the same period of 1916.

The total reserve built up by the corporation to meet the special war taxes since Jan. 1 amounts to $164,233,600, taken from aggregate net earnings of $436,177,615. On a percentage basis the tax deduction exceeds 37 per cent. of the net revenue, and, presumably, further withdrawals will be made in the current quarter.

A significant item in yesterday's statement was the notation that "an estimated proportion of extraordinary cost of facilities installed by reason of war requirements" had been charged out of gross income. These costs amounted to several millions of dollars and indicated that the corporation's income was considerably larger in outside measurement than the report showed.

Busy with Government Orders.

During the three months the corporation's mills handled a large amount of Government work which received preference over private contracts at higher prices. The report did not indicate the proportion of Government orders to the others. As the bulk of the steel turned out for the army and navy and the Federal shipbuilding operations was on a price basis to be adjusted after President Wilson had established fixed quotations, earnings on this business were relatively low in comparison with the return which would have been received on an equivalent tonnage for private consumers.

The meeting of Directors lasted only ten minutes, and no debate occurred over the dividend policy. The earnings' statement showed that, despite the Government's claim upon the corporation's income, the margin above costs and taxes was ample for the continuation of the common stock disbursement at the rate of 17 per cent. a year.

$4,000,000 FOR CURTISS CO.

Funds for New Airplane Plant Are Raised on Short-Term Bonds.

Some details of the manner in which the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motors Corporation was able to pay for its big new plant in Buffalo without being compelled to resort, as other firms doing Government work have done, to direct Government assistance, were learned yesterday from a trustworthy source.

The plant complete will cost about $4,000,000 in round figures. This sum was raised by the issue, on Oct. 1, of $4,000,000 of first mortgage 6 per cent. short-term bonds, secured by the new plant itself, but constituting no lien on the old plant or other property of the Curtiss Company. Of these notes, $1,000,000 mature April 1, 1918, and the others, in three equal installments, on July 1, 1918, Oct. 1, 1918, and April 1, 1919.

The flotation of these notes at par was successfully accomplished in the midst of the preparation for the Liberty Loan. Of the total, $1,000,000 was personally subscribed by members of the Board of Directors of the Curtiss Corporation itself. The money was raised, moreover, only a short time after the company had successfully raised $2,100,000 of working capital by the issue of 63,000 shares of common stock at 34, practically all of it subscribed by the stockholders at 35.

The new plant itself is now virtually finished, and will be ready for full operation on Nov. 15, despite some delays in delivery of steel for one end of the structure, which have since been overcome. The company is known to have something more than $50,000,000 in Government orders for planes, training planes, spare parts &c., on its books.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Closing prices on the Consolidated Stock Exchange were irregularly changed from the preceding finals. The last hour of trading was the quietest and most orderly of the session. At the opening the market was weak and lower, specialties particularly being under pressure.

MANHATTAN TAKES OVER FIFTH OF LOAN

Incomplete Returns to Federal Reserve Bank Already Reach $1,016,000,000.

MONEY MARKET KEPT SAFE

Gov. Strong Says Representatives of Banks and Trust Companies Rendered Valuable Service.

With final reports from about 280 banks and trust companies still missing, and all institutions having until the close of business tomorrow to file their final summary of applications, the records of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York showed last night a total of $1,436,666,800 of subscriptions to the Liberty Loan. The day's increase was approximately $26,500,000, and the increase since Saturday night more than $136,000,000. Some of the larger cities up-State, among them Buffalo, have not yet sent in their reports, and about six New York City institutions are yet to be heard from. By the time all the figures are in it is expected that this district's total will be found to be close to the estimated total of $1,650,000,000.

The latest official figures show that Manhattan and Richmond boroughs have exceeded their allotments, the former taking more than $1,016,000,000, and the lattter $1,331,850. The total for the five boroughs is about $10,000,000 short of the allotment of $1,075,861,500, but there is not the slightest doubt that the receipt of the final reports will make good this deficiency. Fairfield County, Conn., has also exceeded its quota; while the twelve northern counties of New Jersey, and the remainder of New York State are very close to theirs.

Sales of the new 4 per cent. Liberty Loan bonds on the New York Stock Exchange amounted to $200,500 yesterday, all transactions being made on a cash basis for immediate delivery of the bonds. About $25,000 worth of the bonds changed hands at 100.02 and the balance at par. The price for the 3½ per cents of the first Liberty Loan was unchanged at 99.96, with sales aggregating $2,261,500.

All the banks have been advised to make their payments, amounting to 2 per cent. of subscriptions received, to the Federal Reserve Bank befor the close of business tomorrow. Treasury certificates of indebtedness are not acceptable, but the payment may be effected by book entries in the form of United States Government deposits.

Honor List for Cities.

The Publicity Department of the Liberty Loan Committee gave out yesterday the following list of forty-two cities and towns in this district which have furnished subscriptions of 200 per cent. or more of their allotments:

Statement by Gov. Strong.

Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, gave out a statement yesterday regarding the activities of the so-called Money Committee, a sub-committee of the Liberty Loan Committee, in which he called attention to the fact that throughout the loan campaign the money market had been kept in a comfortable condition. It was possible for merchants and manufacturers to borrow freely from their banks, and sufficient funds were available for collateral loans. The "money pool" which was organized shortly after the creation of the committee supplied approximately $200,000,000 for immediate use, but it is understood that only slightly more than $100,000,000 was actually required.

The Money Committee will continue to serve, and at a meeting to be held Friday, plans for future service will be discussed.

Governor Strong's statement follows:

The Money Committee was appointed to keep close watch upon the money markets, and to see that all proper money requirements were promptly met and at reasonable rates of interest. To enable the committee to act effectively a very large sum was placed at its disposal by the banks and trust companies of this city, although it was not thought probable that any considerable sum would be used, as the financial situation was very sound and the banking institutions were severally well prepared to continue normal loaning operations. What was needed was assurance to the public that the banks would act as a unit, and were prepared to deal with an emergency should one arise.

Throughout the period of the Liberty Loan campaign not only have merchants and manufacturers been able to borrow freely from their banks of deposit, but there has been a free movement of commercial paper in the open market; collateral loans have been taken for periods ranging from sixty days to six months in aggregate amounts sufficient to relieve any tension that may have existed in the time-money market, and there have been throughout ample supplies of call money at rates fluctuating from 6 per cent. to as low as 2½ per cent.

The Money Committee, representing the banks and trust companies, and acting for them, did valuable service, and used only about one-half of the fund originally made available to it, while a much larger fund would have been subscribed if required.

The concentration of the reserves of the national banks, and now, happily, of many important trust companies and State banks in the Federal Reserve Bank, provides a reservoir of credit available to member banks which I am assured they will freely use as needed, and which, to their credit be it said, they have already freely availed of.

The Money Committee will be continued in the interest of future Government financing and of business interests generally.

The Money Committee is composed of Governor Strong, James S. Alexander of the National Bank of Commerce, George F. Baker of the First National Bank, Walter E. Frew of the Corn Exchange Bank, Gates W. McCarrah of the Mechanics and Metals' National Bank, Charles H. Sabin of the Guaranty Trust Company, Frank A. Vanderlip of the National City Bank, James N. Wallace of the Central Trust Company and Albert H. Wiggin of the Chase National Bank.

Thirty women volunteers and trained clerical workers have been tabulating and checking up the Liberty Loan subscriptions taken by the Women's Committee, from morning till midnight since Saturday night when the campaign closed, at the Columbia Trust Company, and now announce that $18,000,000 was raised for the second Liberty Loan. "I am more than surprised," said Mrs. Courtlandt D. Barnes, Chairman of the New York State Committee, yesterday. "I had hoped for $15,000,000, but I did not dream of this. The women of America can be counted upon to do the work required of them." The committee will not consider their figures official until they have been approved by an expert accountant.

Federal Inquiry Into Pro-German Activity in Illinois.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—The Federal Government has started an inquiry into the activity of pro-German and pacifist propaganda conducted in those districts of Illinois that failed to support the second Liberty Loan. Joseph B. Fleming, assistant District Attorney, is in charge of the investigation.

No county in Illinois fell below 10 per cent. of its allotment but, it was said today, several counties were financially able to subscribe far more than they did, and the apathy is ascribed to the activity of pro-Germans and peace propagandists. Attention is called to the fact that these same districts refused to aid in the Red Cross drive and were laggards in the first Liberty Loan.

BANKS TURN IN CASH FROM LIBERTY LOAN

BOSTON EXCEEDS MAXIMUM

District's Returns Indicate Total Above $500,000,000—Chicago Subscribed $80 Per Capita.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The Treasury Department received today the first actual cash from the sale of the second issue of Liberty bonds. Federal Reserve Banks turned in $124,590,753, representing part of the 2 per cent. paid by subscribers with their applications, and a small part of the fund received for the smaller bonds bought for cash.

No further reports as to total sales came from the Reserve Banks today and no reports are expected until Thursday, when member banks and other sales agencies must deposit with the Reserve Banks the first payments and returns from cash sales.

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—New England's Liberty Loan subscriptions today reached a total of $453,839,000, with the tabulation of returns from all except sixteen of the 1,073 banks in the First Federal Reserve District. The overnight tabulation showed $22,464,000. Members of the General Committee said there was reason to believe that the final total would put the district above its maximum allotment of $500,000,000.

On the tabulation today Massachusetts had subscribed 96.2 per cent. of its maximum, Connecticut 96.1, Rhode Island 89, Maine 75.4, New Hampshire 59, and Vermont 68.

The detailed report by States, as made public at noon today, was:

Maine, $22,915,000; New Hampshire, $15,641,000; Vermont, $10,384,000; Rhode Island, $41,650,000; Connecticut, $61,627,000, and Massachusetts, $302,222,000.

CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Chicago subscribed to the second Liberty Loan at the rate of $80 per capita, according to estimates of local tabulators today. The maximum allotment was $75.23. Although tabulations from the Seventh Federal Reserve District will not be complete until probably Thursday night, estimates place the total subscriptions at $650,000,000, or about 93 per cent. of the maximum allotment.

CERTIFICATES SET RECORD.

Treasury Note Subscriptions Likely to Reach Half a Billion.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Subscriptions reported today to the Treasury's offering of certificates of indebtedness ran the grand total for the issue so far up to $429,974,000 and made a new record. The offering is still open, and indications are that subscriptions will exceed $500,000,000.

Today's receipts from subscriptions to the certificates and payments on the second Liberty Loan swelled the balance in the Treasury to $785,374,631, the highest recorded since the first Liberty Loan campaign.

HOW TO PAY 'FLOOR TAXES.'

Collector Issues Instructions to Those Subject to War Levy.

Collector William H. Edwards of the Second or Wall Street Internal Revenue office yesterday gave out a statement telling how to pay war "floor taxes," that is, taxes on stocks of taxable goods, such as tobaccos, liquors, &c., held when the tax became effective.

"You can pay," Collector Edwards's statement said, "by or before Nov. 2, in cash, certified check, or money order, to the order of William H. Edwards, Collector, at the Collector's office, (cashier's window closes at 2 P. M.,) in the Customs House. Or a surety bond may be given, executed in duplicate, to cover the amount of the tax or the unpaid part thereof, forms for which may be had upon application in Room 523, Customs House.

"Another way is to deposit Liberty bonds or certificates of either issue in amount sufficient to cover the tax or unpaid part thereof, or where the bonds cannot be delivered until later, then deposit with the Collector a certificate of a member bank of the Federal Reserve to the effect that the taxpayer has paid in full for the number of bonds described and that the bank has been authorized to and will without reservation deliver to the Collector of Internal Revenue the bonds when issued for the account of the taxpayer, who will endorse on the bank's certificate that he approves the same and assigns the Liberty certificates and bonds accordingly.

"Or if tax cannot be paid by Nov. 2, or surety cannot be obtained, file a bond in a sum sufficient to cover the amount of the tax or the unpaid part thereof, executed by the taxpayer as well as a surety possessed of property, real or personal, sufficient to satisfy the Collector, supported by other satisfactory security. This, if approved by the Collector, will permit the payment of the amount of tax involved in five equal monthly installments beginning Nov. 2, 1917."

Forms and affidavits may be procured in Room 515 in the Customs House. Collector Edwards warned taxpayers against delaying if payment was made under the last named form, as the information submitted would have to be investigated in each case before acceptance and approval. Taxpayers delaying until the last day will probably not be able to get the benefit of the bond arrangement. The law, it was pointed out, does not permit of any extension of time to pay or bond the payments beyond Nov. 2.

WOOL FROM AUSTRALIA.

First Lot of 4,760 Bales to Reach Vancouver About Nov. 10.

Frank B. Windeler, the representative of the British Government at the coming wool auctions in Boston, announces that the first arrival of about 4,760 bales, as part of the 45,000 bales of Australian wool to be shipped here from Australia and to be sold by auction, is due to reach Vancouver about Nov. 10. The remainder will leave Australia during the next few days coming via the Panama Canal and should reach this market in about six weeks time. The wools on arrival will be distributed among such wool houses as can provide storage and will be exhibited in their own warehouses at the time of sale.

The wools coming forward comprise an attractive collection of good combing and clothing wool in the grease, all more or less free from fault.

In the selection will also be 12,000 bales of greasy lambs and 2,500 bales of scoured free locks.

HEARST JUDGMENT HOLDS.

Court of Appeals Affirms $21,783 Fireworks Case Award to City.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 30.—A judgment for $21,783 against William Randolph Hearst in favor of the City of New York was affirmed by the Court of Appeals today.

The action originated from a suit brought against the city by persons injured by an explosion of fireworks in Madison Square on an election night more than ten years ago. The city compromised the claims and brought suit against Mr. Hearst as President of the International Association of Democratic Clubs, which had provided the fireworks. A lower court sustained the city. It was this judgment that was affirmed by the Court of Appeals.

Drop in Rubber Prices Halts.

Prices seem to have touched bottom in the local crude rubber market, and the dealers say that everything, including the present quotations, is ripe for an active buying movement on the part of the larger manufacturers. There has been a fair amount of business in the last week, but the bulk of it was done with the smaller fry. When the demand sets in there will be not much trouble in getting rubber, for arrivals have been good and stocks here are of comfortable proportions. Sixty-four cents a pound was quoted here yesterday on spot first latex, with 62 the asking figure for similar smoked sheets. The spot Brazilians ran this way: Upriver fine, 63½ cents; up-river coarse, 43 cents, and upper Caucho ball, 39½ cents.

To Divert Hard Coal Shipments.

The Coal Trade Journal will say today that as a step toward relieving the local anthracite shortage, retail dealers are trying to arrange through the State and Federal Fuel Administration for the diversion of more tonnage to this market for at least a limited period early in November. As a similar action is being urged by retailers and by local administrators in all parts of the country, with regard to their own particular sections, it remains to be seen how effective New York's plea will be in turning increased shipments this way. The soft coal situation, it is said, also presents some knotty problems to the authorities at Washington. Some have been solved for the time being by orders directing producers in certain sections to send their coal to certain specified territories.

Hosiery Is Hard to Get.

With Spring openings on hosiery made very quietly in most cases, if at all, and not much said about the way the proffered goods are selling to the jobbers, reports from that branch of the knit goods trade are confined pretty largely to what is going on in the current market. About the most interesting thing heard is the scarcity of all kinds of goods. Silk hose for immediate trading are about as scarce as German sympathizers in the National Senate. About the scarcest colors of all are what in ordinary times would be the most plentiful—black, white, and a shade of tan known as Russian calf. The lack of goods runs the gamut all the way down to infants' socks, with men's socks and children's long hose very hard to find in "sellable" quantities. Cashmere goods are in the hen's teeth class as well so far as this season is concerned.

Cotton Rise Slows Up Buying.

While the rise in cotton here yesterday had a further stiffening effect on prices in the local gray goods market and checked trading to quite an extent, a fair business was put through. Coarse goods did fairly well in a quiet way, but it was said that interesting sales were practically missing. One of the features of the day was the refusal of many sellers to do business on 38½-inch 64-60s under 10¾ cents for delivery through the first quarter of next year. The same houses were asking 11 cents for spots, and some inconsequent business was reported at that price. For 39-inch 68-72s for March shipment 12 cents was paid, and it was said that some sellers were asking more for 1918 deliveries this side of that month. Among the spot sales were a few 39-inch 72-76s at 14¼ cents. Spot prices closed this way:

39-inch, 72-76s	14c	38½-inch, 64-56s	*10¾c
39-inch, 68-72s	12¼c	38½-inch, 60-52s	*9¾c
39-inch, 56-44s	8¾c	38½-inch, 60-48s	9¾c
38½-inch, 64-64s	11¼c	27-inch, 64-60s	7½c

*Asked.

May Open New Fall Lines.

While it is possible that one of the leading lines of Southern ribbed underwear for men may be opened later in the week for the Fall, 1918, season, it was said yesterday by the local agent that the chances are that naming of prices will be deferred until shortly after Election Day. Practically all of the leading lines are expected to be ready for presentation to the trade by that time. The feature of business for the current season is the scarcity of all kinds of heavy goods, including fleeced and wool, that has been caused by the heavy demand of both civilian and army buyers. Spring goods also are hard to get, and are now substantially higher than at the opening. Due to this the jobbers are reordering spasmodically in spite of the active advance buying by the retail trade.

Fur-Trimmed Coats for Men.

Fur-trimmed and fur-lined overcoats for men are reported by local manufacturers to be very eagerly sought by retailers. The season in these numbers is expected to be even better than last year. They are being offered in rich grays and browns as well as in the conventional black. Apparently, beaver and Hudson seal are the predominating skins. The coats most sought are those made up along full, "burly" lines, and raglan shoulders are used in a great many instances. Eager demand in the face of what might almost be termed exorbitant prices is looked upon as indicating prosperity.

Local Silk Market Quiet.

Buyers and sellers alike in the local silk market yesterday, seemed to be thoroughly engrossed with raw silk market reports. The whole situation, locally, seems to hang on the trend of prices in Yokohama. Buyers have enough stocks on hand, apparently, with what they ordered earlier in the season, to rest on their oars awhile and see which way the cat jumps. It is generally felt that any definite move, whether up or down, would stimulate trade. Sellers, however, are hoping against hope that they will not have to advance prices and weaken the relative position of silk to other fabrics.

Seamless Shoe for Officers.

Another novelty in military footwear is an officers's waterproof seamless field shoe in which the upper is all in one piece. There are no linings or inside seams. A slip of processed raw hide runs through the sole and heel to help keep out dampness. The shoe retails at $15 and can be had in calf and a special trench leather. The latter, which is also something new, is especially heavy, but very pliable. It is double tanned, the first tannings giving it the weight desired and the second adding the flexibility. Because the flesh side of the leather is outside when the shoe is made up and the smooth side is inside the shoe is not a beauty. It is said, however, to possess wearing qualities that the average good-looking field shoe does not have. Field boots of the new leather also are being made.

Blanket Shortage Acute.

It was reported yesterday by authorities in the trade that the scarcity of blankets, particularly for immediate delivery, has become acute. Furthermore, it is stated that there is no relief in sight for the situation. With most mills turning over a number of their looms to the Government and several confining themselves entirely to Government work, civilian requirements are of necessity more or less neglected. Retailers who find themselves running short of stocks are meeting with great difficulty in their efforts to replenish. Only here and there, in out of the way places, it is said, can merchandise be found for delivery before the first of the year, and then only in small lots.

Women Like Corduroy.

Corduroy for women's wear is reported by authorities in the local trade to have gained a strong following. Fine corduroy coats and suits, it seems, are actively sought in many sections, and in not a few instances they are said to be forging ahead of velvets in popular approval. In garments of this type, it is said, the various darker shades of green, gray, and brown are the heaviest sellers, with a fair scattering of deep blue. In separate skirts this fabric is also generally sought in the darker shades of the season.

Sherrill Reports Big Bond Sales.

ALBANY, Oct. 30.—Adjt. Gen. Sherrill announced today that the military forces of the State had responded in record-breaking fashion to the appeal for Liberty Loan subscriptions, and through the activities of his various division chiefs $5,216,000 had been subscribed. Governor Whitman complimented the Adjutant General and predicted that this total would be far in excess of the subscriptions received by any other State department.

JAIL FOR GERMAN MOTORBOAT MAN

AN ARREST AT CAMP MILLS

Mellows Seeks to Clear His Friends—I. W. W. Prisoners Here Held for Chicago.

Government agents last night arrested Henry H. Breckwoldt, a former Captain in the German merchant marine, who for several weeks has been living at 535 Bay Street, Stapleton, S. I. Breckwoldt is said to be the owner of a fast motor boat, in which he has been in the habit of traveling about the lower bay and even into the East and North Rivers. Following his arrest Breckwoldt was removed to the Raymond Street Jail in Brooklyn, where he is held pending the completion of an investigation of his activities in New York.

Prior to the war Breckwoldt was the commander of the German steamship Phoebus, which is now under the American flag. The Phoebus arrived at a Pacific port a few days after the war in Europe began, and Captain Breckwoldt came to Philadelphia, where he remained until 1915, when he moved to New York. He made one trip as the commander of a coastwise oil tank steamer, but was soon relieved of that command. Since then and up to his arrest yesterday he has made his home at Stapleton.

When the United States declared war on Germany Captain Breckwoldt applied to the Government for a permit to "fish" in New York waters. The request was denied. Despite the refusal he is said to have made many trips about the harbor in his motor boat. Beyond admitting that Breckwoldt had been arrested, Government agents refused last night to give any details of the Government's case against the German skipper.

Secret Service agents arrested a man at Camp Mills, Mineola, yesterday afternoon. No information concerning this case was given out. Whether or not the man is a German who had enlisted in the Rainbow Division was not disclosed. The prisoner is said to have been taken either to Governors Island or to Ellis Island.

Mellows Defends O'Leary.

"General" Liam Mellows, the Sinn Fein leader, arrested last week by the United States Secret Service after he had obtained, under a false name, an American seaman's passport, which he intended to use in getting back to Ireland, from which country he fled after the Sinn Fein riots of 1916, sent a letter to Jeremiah A. O'Leary, President of the pro-German "American Truth Society" and editor of the publication known as Bull, which has been excluded from the mails by the Government, denying that he had ever said that O'Leary, Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, and John Devoy had plotted a new Sinn Fein outbreak for 1918.

No Government official has said that these men were concerned in a Sinn Fein plot for 1918. What they said was that Mellows had met Judge Cohalan, O'Leary, and Devoy at various times and at various places since Jan. 1 last. The records of the examination of Mellows, which have been turned over to the Department of Justice, show that Mellows said he met Judge Cohalan and the other two men at Maennerchor Hall, and also in a private room at the Murray Hill Hotel.

> Oct. 29, 1917.
> Sir: In reference to reports that have appeared in the New York press, to the effect that I "named" you, Justice Cohalan, and Mr. John Devoy in a plot to start an Irish rebellion, I deem it my duty to inform you that these reports are absolutely and unqualifiedly false.
> The statements that I "conferred" with you and others are also false. Any mention of your name was made by the Secret Service authorities and they seemed very anxious to put matters in my mouth. I informed the Secret Service authorities that tI only knew yoy in the same manner as every one in the Irish movement knew you—"from a distance."

Politics, O'Leary Pleads.

After he received the letter from Mellows, O'Leary issued a statement in which he said that the letter proved that a conspiracy had been entered into by certain newspapers to persecute and discredit "men of Irish blood," who would like to see Ireland free. The so-called disclosures of the last five weeks, he said, were made for the "political benefit" of Mayor Mitchel.

O'Leary said that since the United States entered the war there had been no Irish activities in this country, and that "there is no revolution in Ireland."

Patrick McCarton, another Sinn Fein agitator who, like Mellows, sought to get back to Ireland under an assumed name and with a fraudulent American passport, is now a prisoner of the Canadian Secret Service at Halifax. The Government records in this case show that Mellows in order to obtain his passport swore that he was a native-born American citizen. He was born in Ireland, and arrived in the United States for the first time less than a year ago.

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Arturo Giovanitti, Carlo Tresca, and John Baldazzi, the I. W. W. leaders, who are under indictment in Chicago charged with being concerned in a nation-wide conspiracy to obstruct the war activities of the United States, were held yesterday for extradition to the Federal jurisdiction of Northern Illinois by United States Commissioner Hitchcock. The defense of the defendants was that they were not in Chicago at the time the alleged conspiracy was formed, and that they knew nothing about it until they read of the arrests of numerous I. W. W. agents in all parts of the country by Government agents.

United States District Attorney Charles F. Clyne of Chicago represented the Government at the hearing before Commissioner Hitchcock.

Accuser of Federal Agent Admits He Is an Ex-Convict.

Harry Field, the special agent of the Internal Revenue Bureau, who was held in $5,000 bail on Monday to answer a charge of having accepted a bribe from Julius Denasser, whom he had arrested for dealing in habit forming drugs, appeared before United States Commissioner Hitchcock yesterday for examination.

Denasser admitted that he had been in prison for various offenses ranging from picking pockets to grand larceny. Field, according to Denasser, told the latter after arresting him that he would probably be sent to prison for five years, and that to escape this punishment would cost him $1,000. Denasser said he told Field that he was willing to pay $500. He said he then made two payments to Field, one of $180 and the other of $70. The remaining $250 he said he promised to pay as speedily as he could. Instead he told the officials of the Department of Justice, and they marked bills to the amount of $75, and fixed a time and place for Denasser to turn this money over to Field.

Denasser called on Field at the latter's apartment in the Hotel Albert, and said he paid him the money. Awaiting him were Special Agents Grunewald, Wright, and Scully, who immediately went to Field's room and arrested him. The marked bills were found in the hall outside of Field's door.

Field will testify in his own behalf today. He alleges he is the victim of a conspiracy.

RUBBER SMUGGLER WITNESS

Steamship Steward Tells of Move to Send Contraband to Germany.

Hans Hanssen, formerly chief steward of the Norwegian steamship Kristianiafjord, testified yesterday for the Government against himself and four others, all of whom had been indicted for an alleged conspiracy to ship rubber to Norway without properly declaring it. The others were Oscar and Joseph Newman, importers and exporters, with offices in the Flatiron Building; Sven Du Rietz and William Hein.

Hanssen told of receiving a large quantity of dental rubber, and acknowledged that he knew that two trunks, in which there was much rubber, had been put on board the steamer.

Other witnesses were Detectives Barnitz and Busby of the bomb squad, who testified that they had been told by the maker of the trunks that secret compartments had been built in them.

A verdict is expected this morning.

Miss Alleine Lee Left $100,000.

The will of Miss Alleine Lee of 107 West Fifty-fourth Street, who died Aug. 1 last, disposes of an estate of more than $100,000, part of which goes to charity. Among her charitable bequests were $2,500 to Calvary Protestant Episcopal Church, $1,000 to the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor, and $500 each to the Children's Aid Society, Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, and Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Miss Lee also gave $20,000 to her brother, William H. Lee, and a similar amount to her nephew, Henry L. Lee of Greensboro, N. C., $10,000 to her niece, Caroline King Lee, and $9,000 to her nephew, White Elliott Lee. Smaller bequests, ranging from $100 to $1,000, are left to thirty-one friends and relatives.

Ask Help for a Hopeless Cripple.

Stricken with paralysis, a hopeless cripple, John M—— can only sit helpless looking back to the days when he was an able, skilled mechanic. His wife, discouraged by hunger and misery and the sudden death of her baby, has done what she could to carry the family. What small hope there is for him depends on good care and nourishing food, and that is impossible without adequate and continuous help. Gifts should be sent to the office of the Charity Organization Society, 105 East Twenty-second Street.

Strike Ultimatum to Baker.

BOSTON, Oct. 30.—An ultimatum on the Watertown Arsenal strike was sent to the War Department today by the agents of the Building Trades Council of this city. The agents say Mr. Baker promised to send a representative here to adjust the trouble now. They give notice that unless they receive by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning some definite assurance from the War Department of a speedy adjustment of "open shop" grievances, they will not hold themselves "responsible for whatever may follow."

Oppose Bonuses in Carbon Steel.

A special committee of stockholders of the Carbon Steel Company is soliciting proxies to be voted at the annual meeting in Pittsburgh on Nov. 14. A letter sent out by the committee, which is headed by Walter D. Uptegraff, Chairman of the Union Switch and Signal Company, urges that the share owners protest against the payment of bonuses to officers of the company. "As a result of actions already taken in your interests by the committee," says the letter, "the management has issued a special report which announces that the resolutions for current bonuses have been abandoned. Do not be misled by this special report, which makes no mention of cash bonuses already paid to officers, amounting to $512,518, which is in excess of 10 per cent. of the entire capital stock of the company." The other members of the committee are Woodward Babcock of Harris, Winthrop & Co., Paul M. Whelan of John Muir & Co., E. F. Dunham of Dunham & Co., and James C. Bennett, Secretary of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

Saxon Co. to Sell $600,000 Notes.

The Saxon Motor Company is arranging with bankers for the sale of $600,000 ten-year 6 per cent. notes, the proceeds to be utilized to complete the new plant at Detroit, which was well under way when the concern fell into financial difficulties last Spring. The management plans to pay on Nov. 1 an installment of 10 per cent. on its debt to creditors and another installment of the same amount on Feb. 1. Shipments of cars this month have shown a substantial increase over the total in September.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Negotiations are practically closed, it was reported yesterday, for the purchase by an investing syndicate of the property now occupied by the Racquet and Tennis Club in Forty-third Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues. The new home of the club on Park Avenue, occupying the block front on the west side, between Fifty-second and Fifty-third Streets, is nearing completion, and the club expects to occupy its Park Avenue quarters early next year.

The present clubhouse covers a large plot fronting 141.10 on Forty-third Street, with a 50-foot extension on Forty-fourth Street, being 23 to 33 West Forty-third Street, and 26 and 28 West Forty-fourth Street. The property is assessed at $1,100,000, and it is the largest single parcel in the Times Square section ready for early business improvement. The club will not give possession until its new home is completed.

To finance its new house and relieve the club from holding its valuable realty for any length of time a syndicate of members comprising Charles H. Sabin, President of the Guaranty Trust Company; Frank V. Burton and E. Townsend Irvin agreed to purchase the property and they are the sellers in the present transaction. Mr. Irvin has been conducting the negotiations, but no details of the projected sale were obtainable.

Clyde Fitch Residence Sold.

The former residence of the late Clyde Fitch, the playwright, at 113 East Fortieth Street, between Park and Lexington Avenues, was sold through Pease & Elliman. The dwelling covers a plot 18.9 by 98.9 adjoining the house of Ernest Flagg, the architect. It was sold for the estate of the late playwriter, represented by Ernest & Cane, attorneys. The furniture and art objects were bequeathed by Mr. Fitch to the Actors Fund.

Private Dwelling Deals.

The Duross Company sold for Frederic de P. Foster, trustee, to an investor 15 West Ninety-sixth Street, a four-story dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100.

George Gordon Moore has acquired the four-story dwelling 44 East Fifty-third Street from Robert Morrison, Jr. The structure occupies a lot 18 by 100.5, located between Madison and Park Avenues.

Tenement Buyers.

The Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank sold to John Capek for investment 432 East Eightieth Street, a five-story tenement, on a lot 25 by 102.2. The sellers acquired the property in foreclosure proceedings last week for $14,375.

Samuel Felt purchased from E. M. Corner and Edna E. Patterson 358 and 360 East 121st Street, a new-law tenement, on a plot 67.6 by 100.

Lease by Historical Society.

The lease was recorded yesterday from the New York Historical Society to Josephine Schurmacher of the tenement houses at 1,190-96 Second Avenue and 310 and 312 East Sixty-third Street, being the southeast corner. The lease is for twenty-one years, with renewals from May 1, 1918, at $5,000 a year for the first period. The property was part of the De Peyster estate and came into the possession of the society recently by bequest.

Bronx Sales.

An investor purchased from the Plough & Fox Company the five-story new law tenement, occupying a plot 50 by 100, on the northwest corner of 180th Street and Park Avenue.

Jacob Lundy sold to Ida Shapiro 1,530 Brook Avenue, a five-story tenement, on a lot 26 by 104.

Brooklyn.

Dwellings in Brooklyn, all frame structures, have been sold by A. J. Waldron, as follows: 1,085 East Seventeenth Street, 40 by 100, for Donald Starritt to Otto M. Walker; 311 Madison Street, for David A. Pardy to Hallie A. Ording; 16 Ormond Place, for Dr. Fanny F. C. Kattenhorn to John J. Eagan, and at 18 and 20 Ormond Place, for the estate of Prentiss White to John J. Eagan, a plot 55 by 165.

The John Pullman Real Estate Company has sold the three-story dwelling at 690 President Street, 20 by 100, for George B. Clark to Mrs. Carrie Dolper.

Meister Builders, Inc., purchased from the Land Estate Corporation 141 Bay Thirteenth Street, Bath Beach, a six-family brick tenement on a lot 25 by 100.

Queens Borough Sales.

The Everett Realty and Construction Company sold to C. Michael of Brooklyn a plot 197 by 100 feet, on the east side of Middletown Street, 79 feet north of Shelton Avenue, Jamaica.

M. Kahrs sold to E. A. Mayhew of Brooklyn the dwelling and plot, 100 by 150, on the west side of Park Place, 100 feet south of Atlantic Avenue, Woodhaven.

W. L. Wemple sold to C. Katbz of Brooklyn the dwelling and plot, 60 by 100 feet, on the northwest side of Cortlandt Boulevard, 100 feet southwest of Vandeveer Boulevard, Laurelton.

Staten Island.

Cornelius G. Kolff has sold for Carl F. Grieshaber a plot on the corner of Third Street and Lawn Avenue, Egbertville, S. I., to Martin J. Allen, who is the adjoining property owner.

Westchester County.

Griffen, Prince & Ripley have sold for Arthur Stewart the new stone and stucco English house on Walworth Avenue, Greenacres, Scarsdale, N. Y., to Mrs. Grace L. Conger of Scarsdale. The property has been held at $22,500.

Private Dwellings Leased.

Pease & Elliman have leased for L. J. Ullman to Cyril Crimmins the three-story and basement dwelling 112 East Ninety-fifth Street, adjoining the southeast corner of Park Avenue.

Douglas L. Elliman & Co. have leased for Robert Hoe the five-story American-basement house 125 East Thirty-seventh Street to Albert G. Milbank for a long term of years; also, the five-story American-basement house at 116 East Seventy-ninth Street, furnished, for the Winter season, to Mrs. John S. Garvan of Noroton, Conn., for Dr. Richard Derby, who was represented by Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company.

The Houghton Company has leased the American-basement dwelling at 307 West 100th Street for Fanny L. Dryfoos to Grace Humiston.

The Duff & Browne Company has leased for Cornelia W. Slade to J. D. Barry 511 West 182d Street, a three-story dwelling.

PUBLIC AUCTION

483 DEDHAM STREET

OAK HILL DISTRICT, NEWTON CENTRE

10 MILES FROM BOSTON

Magnificent Residence of 20 Rooms

73.85 ACRES OF LAND

Seldom has the opportunity been offered to buy at auction at your own price an estate of the magnificence and size of this one, within 10 miles of the State House, Boston; situated on high land it commands unobstructed views in every direction for 20 miles; the house is thoroughly modern in every respect; the large entrance hall and grand stairway to the third floor are finished in quartered oak, while the balance of the house is in a variety of woods; there are 5 bathrooms, 12 open fireplaces and elaborate electric fixtures; the grounds about the house contain about 12 acres well laid out with walks, lawns, gardens, shrubs, ornamental and shade trees.

The remaining 60 acres are heavily wooded with oak and chestnut trees through which wind a drive and bridle paths; the outbuildings consist of a large combination garage and stable, barn for 20 head of cattle, gardener's lodge, chauffeur's cottage and minor buildings; this is your chance to own one of the finest estates in the most beautiful suburb of Boston at your own price, as it is going to be sold to the highest bidder without limit; first or second series of Liberty Bonds will be accepted in place of cash in whole or part payment; terms if desired; deposit $2,000 cash.

Open for inspection 2 to 4 P. M., Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday preceding sale; to reach property take Parker St. at Newton Centre, which leads to Dedham St. close to main entrance; sale will start promptly regardless of weather conditions.

Education Notes.

There is a need for a number of teachers of physical training in evening elementary schools. The Board of Examiners will place on the eligible list for appointment to such positions the names of teachers with satisfactory records who hold either a high school or elementary school license in physical training or a promotion license in physical training. Such licensees should apply at once for placement upon the evening school eligible list.

The Board of Examiners invites applications for license as substitute teachers of freehand drawing in high schools, men and women. The examination will consist of technical tests in drawing, including water color and charcoal. The candidate's personality, including the use of English, will be noted in an oral interview. The pay is $4 a day of actual service.

The Professional Elementary Teachers' Ass'n will hold a meeting in the World Building on election night. An informal reception will be given to teachers and the public.

The Parents' Ass'n of P. S. 93, Manhattan, will hold a meeting tomorrow evening.

The Fall reunion of the Alumni Ass'n of the Brooklyn Training School for Teachers will be held at the school this afternoon.

The present Board of Education will hold only four more meetings, two in November and two in December.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The cyclonic depression central Monday night over Lake Huron has advanced to the mouth of the St. Lawrence and increased considerably in intensity. It has been attended along the Atlantic Coast and the lower lakes by moderate southerly, shifting to fresh west, gales, with rain.

Rain has fallen generally in the last twenty-four hours over practically the entire country east of the Mississippi and in the upper lake region and a cold wave, pronounced for the season, has moved southeastward over the Plains States to the Gulf of Mexico and is now passing northeastward through Atlantic Coast districts into New England.

Fair, cold weather is indicated for Wednesday and Thursday in all parts of the Washington forecast district, except along the Great Lakes, where snow flurries will continue. The cold will continue until near the close of the week.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic Coast from Norfolk to Eastport and on the lower lakes from Cleveland to Oswego.

Winds for Wednesday and Thursday along the North Atlantic Coast will be fresh west gales Wednesday, diminishing Thursday, fair; Middle Atlantic Coast, moderate west gales, fair; South Atlantic Coast, strong northwest winds; Wednesday, fair.

FORECASTS: TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York—Fair and somewhat colder Wednesday. Thursday, fair.

Southern New England, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania—Fair and continued cold Wednesday and Thursday.

Northern New England—Fair and colder Wednesday. Thursday, fair.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

The commission announces for Nov. 7, at the New York Custom House, an examination for specialist in rural economics, for men only. A vacancy in the States Relations Service, Department of Agriculture, for duty in Washington, D. C., will be filled from this examination. The duties will be the review and preparation of technical abstracts for the experiment station record of the current scientific literature on rural economics, rural sociology, and farm management. Ability to translate readily scientific French and German is an essential qualification. As judgment is required regarding the originality and scientific value of articles to be abstracted, familiarity with existing literature and with the general field of economics is of special value. Competitors will be examined in rural economics, rural sociology, and farm management; abstracting of English articles, translation of German and French articles, and education and experience. Applicants must not have reached their forty-fifth birthday on the date of the examination. Further information may be obtained from the commission, Washington, D. C.

STORE TO RENT IN TIMES BUILDING.

For retail business requiring unlimited publicity, the store to rent on the main floor of the Times Building, with fine frontage on Broadway, offers advantages possessed by no other location in the city. As the subway system approaches completion so does the value of this store increase. Should be seen without delay.

FOOD PRICES DROP AS LAW STEPS IN

MEAT AND EGGS CHEAPER

Federal, State, and City Officials, Armed with Full Power, See End of Profiteering.

Prices in several foodstuffs dropped yesterday, and it is predicted by men in the trade that there will be further decreases within the next few days. This downward action of the price tendency is a reflection of the National Food Administration, which will on Thursday require that every firm in the country engaged in handling foodstuffs and doing a business of over $100,000 a year be licensed. One object of this Government supervision is to see that the supplies of the country maintain a normal flow from producers to consumers.

Indications yesterday were that not a single firm in this city will have received the Government license, although some of them made application weeks ago. These applications have been coming into Washington at the rate of 6,000 a day, and the blanks have been filled out as fast as Mr. Hoover's force, working overtime, could do the work. The Food Administrator is sending out a notice of instructions to accompany the licenses, and the printing of these has overtaxed the Government's printing facilities. It will be perhaps more than a week before these instructions are printed. They will be sent out accompanying the license cards. Until they arrive every firm will be to all intents and purposes under Government supervision and subject to all the regulations of the Food Administration that become effective on Thursday.

To make more effective the Government regulation of foods the Milling Division of the Food Administration, of which James F. Bell is the head, announced that it had taken over the supervision of every flour mill in the country. Since Sept. 8, when the flour milling supervision was created, the Milling Division through the voluntary agreement of the operators of all the large mills, has exercised control over their wheat supplies, operation, and rate of profit. This control was extended to all mills with a daily capacity of 100 or more barrels of flour. Under the new order this control is extended, and even the very small mills must now give an account to the Government of their operations and profits.

No Loopholes for Profiteer.

Under the licensing system the Government will have knowledge of the food business, for its supervision will not only extend to the supplies received and sold, but books will be open at the request of Government experts and the secrets of storage warehouses will be secrets no longer. Larger businesses will have to set their prices accordingly and these prices will be reflected in the small stores outside of the Administration control. Stores that attempt to sell for high prices will have their supplies cut off. Carl W. Kimball, Chairman of the New York Food Distributers Association said yesterday that the members of the Association representing 50,000 handlers of foodstuffs, were in entire accord with the Government and they were pledged to only pre-war profits.

Arthur Williams, New York City Food Administrator, said that word had reached him that some of the fish and poultry men are not playing fair, and that there was a plan on foot to raise prices. Mr. Williams says he is going to halt any such attempt. "The poultry men who are hoarding in cold storage had better unload. If they do not," he said, "they will not get as much when they do as they could get now."

The Food Administrator will endeavor to have the poultry men give a pledge that they will not extract any greater profits than they did before the war. He said that he intended to have a survey made of the places where, he had been informed, price increases are contemplated.

Another task to which Mr. Williams is to give his attention is that of preventing the raising of food prices during the holidays. The gouging of the public at holiday time for turkeys has been guided more by what the public would stand rather than by the law of supply and demand.

Complaint Bureau Established.

Fifteen complaints of dealers who have overcharged have been received at Mr. Williams's headquarters, 124 East Fifteenth Street, and are being investigated. The bureau for receiving complaints, which was advocated by the New York Food Distributers, has been established by City Market Commissioner Henry Moskowitz. It is in the Municipal Building, and the Commissioner will co-operate with the Federal authorities and the State Food Commission.

The program of food conservation places fish on the list of foods that can be consumed to save meats and fats. Since this announcement was made Mr. Williams has received word that some of the fish dealers are taking advantage of the advice to eat more fish to boost their prices. He has asked several fish dealers to meet him and talk over the situation.

The decline in prices is shown notably in the egg market, according to P. Q. Foy, price expert, who has made a careful study of the market. Good storage eggs can be had now at wholesale for from 33 to 33½ cents a dozen. Mr Foy is authority for the statement that one of the large chain stores, controlling 283 stores, has decided to put good storage eggs on sale at nine for 25 cents. Another chain of stores will have them for eight for 25 cents. Mr. Foy said that this is the lowest price that eggs have sold for in the last three years.

Big Drop in Meat Prices.

Meats, too, he said, are coming out of storage and the owners are reducing their holdings. About a month ago he said that beef that is now quoted at 17 and 19 cents a pound was selling for as high as 23 cents a pound. Ribs have dropped from 25 to 27½ cents a pound to 17 to 22 cents a pound. The retail butchers, he said, are now selling more meat than they have sold in the last three years.

The milk situation is receiving the attention of State and City officials, and they are anxiously waiting for the action of the Board of Directors of the Dairymen's League, which will at its meeting today consider the request of the authorities not to put into effect the contemplated raise of one half of one cent a quart to the dealers.

Health Commissioner Emerson told Mr. Williams that he believed that butter fat milk in bottles could be sold for children at 13 cents a quart, and good milk for adults at 10 cents a quart.

The Mayor's Milk Committee yesterday gave out the statement that at the public hearing to be held in the assembly room in the Board of Health building this morning at 10 o'clock several experts will testify as to their studies relating to the cost of producing milk on dairy farms.

FAVORS STANDARD WEIGHT.

Varying State Measures Cause Confusion, Says Expert.

In a discussion of "Scientific Marketing," at the monthly meeting of the Traffic Club last night at the Waldorf-Astoria, T. C. Powell, Vice President of the Southern Railway System, gave it as his view that one of the most important improvements to be brought about by the Department of Agriculture would be the elimination of State regulations governing weights and measures of commodities.

"A bushel of wheat in New York weighs 60 pounds," Mr. Powell said, "and this is the universal weight throughout the country. A bushel of Irish potatoes weighs 60 pounds in New York and Alabama, but in North Carolina and Virginia it weighs only 56 pounds. In Mississippi a bushel of sweet potatoes weighs 60 pounds, but in Alabama weighs only 55 pounds, while the people of Tennessee contend that the proper weight is 50 pounds."

GET 2,605,000 FOOD PLEDGES

Maine Leads States in Week's Campaign for 10,000,000 Families.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Despite bad weather, the Food Administration had obtained tonight more than 864,000 signatures to food-pledge cards in the first two days of its intensive pledge campaign throughout the country. This total was contained in reports from about half of the States.

The aim for the week is to enroll 10,000,000 families. Yesterday and today added to those previously obtained make a grand total of 2,605,000. Maine led the States tonight with a total of 90,000 cards signed in two days.

Pro-German propaganda, the Food Administration announced, is hampering the work of volunteers in some States. Housewives have been told that if they sign the cards the Government will seize their household stores for the army.

BUSINESS MEN AGAIN BACK PRICE-FIXING

RATIO AVERAGES 9 TO 1

Atlantic City Convention's Sentiment Upheld in Referendum Throughout the Country.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Supplementary to the declaration at the War Convention at Atlantic City that it is right, proper and necessary that the Government should have the power to fix prices on all materials needed for the conduct of the war as well as all materials affecting the public interest, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States announces that a referendum vote of its organization throughout the country gives strong indorsement to this sentiment. The referendum, as a matter of fact, was sent to the organization before the Atlantic City meeting, and as usual with such a business vote of the National Chamber, forty-five days were allowed for the affiliated bodies to consider the recommendations of a special committee.

The following results show how the organization throughout the country voted on the recommendations, each organization being allowed from one to ten votes, according to its membership. All recommendations were carried by a decisive vote. The committee recommendations and results follow:

That authority to control prices should extend to all articles which have importance in basic industries as well as in war, and which enter into the necessities of everyday life:

978 in favor, 116 opposed.

That authority to control prices should extend to raw materials and finished products:

977 in favor, 117 opposed.

The authority to control prices should extend to the prices the public pays as well as those paid by the Government:

946 in favor, 146 opposed.

That authority to control prices should be administered by a small executive board appointed by the President:

964 in favor, 121 opposed.

That an agency working in harmony with the board controlling prices should have authority to distribute available supplies to those purchasers whose needs are most directly related to the public welfare:

975 in favor; 117 opposed.

That each leading industry and trade should create a representative committee to represent it in conferences and to advise with agencies that control prices and distribution:

984 in favor; 97 opposed.

The National Chamber, according to Elliot H. Goodwin, General Secretary, has already gone on record through a referendum vote of its members committing it to the principle that there should not be a profit interest in war. This principle, Mr. Goodwin said, has been reiterated by the members of the chamber since the United States entered the war. Then, he continued, came the special war convention at Atlantic City where the business men so positively and earnestly went on record declaring that the Government should have complete power to fix all prices for itself and the public.

The membership of the special committee of the National Chamber, whose report the referendum backs up, consists of August H. Vogel of Milwaukee, Vice President of the Pfister & Vogel Leather Company, Chairman; Norman Bridge of Los Angeles, Secretary of the Mexican Petroleum Company; E. W. Decker of Minneapolis, President of the Northwest National Bank; Henry W. Farnum of New Haven, Conn., Professor of Political Economy in Yale; Charles S. Keith of Kansas City, President of the Central Coal and Coke Company; David Kinley of Urbana, Ill., Vice President of the University of Illinois; Ambrose Monell of New York City, President of the International Nickel Company; Hugh Morrow, lawyer, of Birmingham, Ala.; Herbert Myrick of Springfield, Mass., President of the Phelps Publishing Company; Charles Nagel of St. Louis, Robert J. Thorne of Chicago, President of Montgomery, Ward & Co.; E. A. Van Valkenburg of Philadelphia, publisher of The Philadelphia North American; J. N. Wallace of New York City, President of the Central Trust Company, and Henry J. Waters of Manhattan, Kan., President of the Kansas State Agricultural College.

"Beerless Day" Is Advocated.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 30.—The Wisconsin Anti-Saloon League today adopted a resolution petitioning Governor Philipp to call on "all drinkers that they consume one less glass of beer per day, and that one day each week be observed as 'beerless day.'" The Governor is asked to nominate as such "beerless day" Sunday.

Luxurious Custom-made Bodies

After reading our opening announcement Sunday, New York mildly expected to see some unusual body designs on display at our new salesrooms, but those who came were not prepared for such a genuine surprise.

Many made selections from among the smart, individually-designed Town Cars, Cabriolets, Sedans, Limousines, Limousine Broughams, and Landaulets exhibited—which prompts us to warn you that, while the range of selection is still ample, the end of the week may mean the end of immediate deliveries. So, if you have not yet selected your closed car for the Winter, we solicit the opportunity of showing you these different, custom-built bodies—today.

Smartness and exclusiveness were the watchwords in developing the specifications for these artistic designs, and America's dictators of motor car coach work, who built the bodies, have exceeded our most sanguine expectations. Not only do the exteriors denote advance style tendencies, but the interiors—in addition to many approved devices for convenience—abound in fittings and innovations entirely new to closed car owners, and are especially pleasing to women.

Placing these unique bodies, with all their refinements, on the Premier chassis—with its famous Aluminum motor and the remarkable, simple, and efficient C-H Magnetic Gear Shift—what more could any one wish for?

A visit to our salesroom will convince you that for your own personal pleasure, YOUR car is here.

If convenient to call this week, we will cheerfully arrange for a special demonstration by appointment. Please telephone Columbus 4395.
